7-4 Vote Sends Civil Rights Bill To House Floor

Debate Unlikely Before March 10

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six Democrats and Republicans from the North and West teamed up with a Tennessee Republican Thursday to jar loose a civil rights bill from the House Rules Committee.

The 7-4 vote which cleared the bill to the floor provided also that it could be amended there as the members might desire.

A motion to bar amendments, submitted by one of the four Southerners on the losing side, went down to defeat on a similar 7-4 vote.

Prospects now are that the House will begin debate no sooner than March 10, and continue indefinitely. The committee recommended 15 hours of debate before the bill is open to amendment. These could be stretched over a considerable period of time.

How Committee Voted

Thursday's committee vote went this way:

To submit the legislation to the House: Reps. Ray J. Madden (D-Ind), James J. Delaney (D-NY), Thomas P. O'Neill (D-Mass), Leo E. Allen (R-Ill), Clarence J. Brown (R-Ohio), Hamer H. Budge (R-Idaho) and B. Carroll Reece (R-Tenn).

To delay action: Chairman Howard W. Smith (D-Va), and Reps. William M. Colmer (D-Miss), James W. Trimble (D-Ark) and Homer Thornberry (D-Tex).

Senate speechmaking on the issue continued Thursday, with Sen. Herman Talmadge (D-Ga) holding the floor for hours.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-NY) protested against the suggestion that Northerners like him, with a large Negro voting element back home, are the only ones "looking for votes."

Dixie Senators Map Strategy

Javits told Talmadge: "The senators from the Southern states also are serving a political purpose. With the preponderance of opinion in their states in favor of segregation, they are bidding for a lot more votes proportionately than we are."

Before the Senate met, senators from every Southern state except Tennessee and Texas met in the office of Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga) for a strategy conference.

Russell told newsmen the Southerners had hoped for an orderly discussion on the floor but "we have no way of knowing what kind of poison they are going to try to make us swallow."

Administration Endorses Hike In Minimum Pay

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration cleared the way Thursday for a probable boost in the present dollar-an-hour minimum wage.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell submitted a report to the House and Senate saying "a modest increase" is now feasible without curtailing employment or earning power in low-wage industries.

Democratic leaders of Congress also have endorsed a hike in amount and coverage of the minimum wage and overtime provisions of the law—the Fair Labor Standards Act.

Organized labor, led by the AFL-CIO, advocates a new $1.25 minimum and an inclusion of millions of now exempt workers.

Mitchell steered clear of recommending a new minimum level, but he was expected to call for a specific hike in testimony to a House Labor subcommittee on March 2.

It was indicated the administration may recommend a boost to $1.10 or $1.15 while also repeating recommendations to extend the law's coverage to about three million now exempt workers.

A Senate Labor subcommittee headed by Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) has recommended boosting the minimum to $1.25 an hour and extending coverage to 7 to 10 million more workers.

The present dollar minimum wage — plus the requirement for time and one-half overtime pay for hours worked beyond 40 a week—applies to about 24 million workers in interstate commerce.

About 20 million workers are exempt—the main groups including retail trade, 7 million; domestic service, 2½ million; agriculture, 2 million; outside salesmen, 1½ million; contract construction, 1½ million, and miscellaneous services, 1¼ million.

Herter Sees Nuclear War Risk Growing

Danger Increases As More Nations Solve Atom Secrets

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Christian A. Herter urged the Soviet Union Thursday to abandon "hollow slogans" and join in a safeguarded disarmament plan before a disastrous nuclear war explodes through miscalculation or blind folly.

He expressed hope that Kremlin leaders now realize "the arms race offers unacceptable risks" which he said threaten the survival of the U.S.S.R. as well as Western nations.

"Miscalculations might, for example, cause an international crisis to develop into a general war without either side really intending that this should happen," the secretary said.

France Unlocks Atom

He added, with an eye to France's success in exploding its first atomic bomb last weekend: "The more nations that have the power to trigger off a nuclear war the greater the chance that some nation might use this power in haste or blind folly."

Herter spoke out in solemn language, without name-calling, in an address devoted to the disarmament deadlock. Disarmament representatives of Britain, France, Italy and Canada sat at a head table listening intently to his speech at a National Press Club luncheon.

Assurance To Russia

Herter's remarks appeared to be a major effort to assure the Soviet Union of U.S. sincerity in seeking an East-West disarmament agreement including a first-step plan to ban further nuclear weapons tests.

He pledged that if the Soviet Union negotiates seriously on this problem, at talks beginning in Geneva March 15, it will find the West ready to make a reasonable settlement.

The secretary in effect sought to assure the Russians that the West will not seek to hedge any agreement with so many controls inspections that it will amount to a giant spying operation behind the Iron Curtain.

Two, Believed U.S. Fliers, Die In Cuban Crash

HAVANA (AP)—Two fliers were reported killed Thursday in a plane crash 100 miles east of Havana and Cuban officials said they were believed to be Americans flying a fire-bombing mission.

Officials of the Castro government have long charged that light planes based in the United States have been attacking Cuban sugar cane fields. They claim such flights are attempts to sabotage the Castro regime by destroying the sugar crop, main support of Cuba's economy.

Officials in Havana said one of the fliers involved in the reported incident was identified from documents as Robert Kelly, a member of the U.S. Civil Air Patrol. They said the second man also was believed to be an American.

There was no confirmation of the report from the U.S. Embassy or other sources.

Reports from Mantanzas province in central Cuba said Universo Sanchez, provincial military commander, was flying to Havana to deliver to Prime Minister Fidel Castro documents and other evidence said to have been found at the crash scene.

Personal Plea For Reprieve Sent Brown

Sex Terrorist Is Readied For Date With Death Today

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A last-gasp move to save the life of Caryl Chessman failed Thursday, but the convict-author fought on even as he was prepared for execution Friday morning in the San Quantin Prison gas chamber.

Just before he was taken to the waiting cell next to the green-painted gas chamber late Thursday afternoon, Chessman typed out a 2½-page letter to Gov. Edmund G. Brown and handed it to his attorney, Rosalie Asher.

It asked for a 30-day reprieve "so that he can disclose certain facts that are going to prove his innocence," Miss Asher told reporters at the prison. She refused to elaborate. It was Chessman's first direct appeal for any kind of clemency.

She telephoned the gist of the letter to Brown's clemency secretary, Cecil Poole, who agreed to receive the letter and present it to Brown. She said Chessman had told her to present the evidence to the governor himself, but Brown insisted Poole receive it first.

Court Again Denies Clemency

Chessman finally resorted to a personal appeal to the governor after the State Supreme Court, for the second straight day, voted 4-3 against clemency and sealed shut the door by saying, "This order is final forthwith."

That stamped it as possibly the last chapter in a 12-year court fight which drew worldwide attention.

In Sacramento, Gov. Edmund G. Brown said, "No further action on my part is possible" after the State Supreme Court rejected Chessman's latest plea.

Attorneys for the convicted sex terrorist of Los Angeles lovers' lanes had pleaded with the court that there was psychiatric proof of Chessman's rehabilitation in prison. They submitted a letter from a former state prosecutor that he had changed his mind and now feels Chessman's life should be spared.

The grim procedure of readying Chessman for death at 10 a.m. Friday swung into action.

Clothing Changed

His shoes and belt were removed and his clothing changed to guard against possible suicide. His last dinner was ordered—fried chicken. Chessman signed his will.

But his attorneys refused to give up. One, Rosalie Asher, telephoned Gov. Brown in Sacramento and said she had new evidence. The governor said if she has he'll hear it.

The State Supreme Court action, binding on the governor, leaves open to him only the possibility of a reprieve.

Of Thursday's court action, Brown said: "The State Supreme Court has once again voted against a recommendation for clemency. Thus under the state constitution I have no clemency power whatsoever."

In Washington, President Eisenhower received telegrams, some from Brazil, asking him to intervene and save Chessman. James C. Hagerty, Eisenhower's press secretary, said the President could not intercede officially.

"This is a matter entirely for the state of California," Hagerty explained.

Both Sides End Cases In Finch Murder Trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Both prosecution and defense Thursday ended their cases in the long, sensational trial of a society physician and his comely paramour.

The jury, after hearing nearly two months of testimony about and by Dr. R. Bernard Finch, 42, and Carole Tregoff, 23, was immediately locked up—even though final arguments will not begin until next Tuesday.

The judge told the five men and seven women he did so "because there has been a certain pressure in the air."

He said he wanted to keep them from newspaper and broadcast accounts of the trial.

The state's first major witness against the wealthy surgeon and his mistress—accused of plotting and carrying out the slaying of his wife, Barbara Jean—proved to be the last.

The maid in the Finch home in suburban West Covina, Marie Anne Lidholm, was called as a prosecution rebuttal witness.

Except for the defendants, 19-year-old Swedish Marie Anne was the last to see Mrs. Finch alive.

The state contends th doctor and Carole ambushed the 36-year-old Mrs. Finch in her garage when she returned home from an engagement the night of last July 18, hoping to kill her and make it look accidental. The doctor shot her, the prosecution contends, when the plan went awry.

Dr. Finch has said the fatal shot was fired accidentally when his wife pulled a gun on him when he tried to talk to her about her divorce plans.

Miss Lidholm, attracted by Mrs. Finch's screams, says he ran into the garage and the doctor slammed her into a wall so hard her head knocked a hole in the plaster. Dr. Finch said he did so because he feared she was armed.

House Unit Orders AF Manual Inquiry

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional inquiry was ordered Thursday into why the Air Force publishes such things as reports of communism in the churches and how to mix a dry martini.

The House Armed Services Committee set up the investigation. It will be broad enough to cover training manuals of all the armed services, the Army, Navy and Air Force.

But the immediate target was the Air Force and two of its manuals newly brought to light.

A most serious view was taken of an Air Force training manual which, in citing the need to be alert against sabotage and subversion, said Communists have infiltrated the churches.

That manual had a short life, having been issued last month, withdrawn from circulation a week ago, and publicly repudiated by the Air Force Wednesday.

Rep. Frank Kowalski (D-Conn) cited Thursday another Air Force manual containing detailed procedures on how to operate an officers club. One passage gave recipes for mixing martinis for the guests, and another suggested that a good way to keep drinking under control is to close the bar at a strategic time. Early, that is.

Kowalski, who went to West Point and became a colonel, has been fighting against the practice of using enlisted men as officers' servants.

It was little more than two weeks ago that disclosure of another manual got the Air Force in some trouble. Quickly withdrawn, this one gave details on how to wash a general's dog, how to prepare cocktails, how to set a table and how to polish shoes.

Charges True, Walter Says

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Chairman Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.) of the House Committee on Un-American Activities said Thursday charges in an Air Force manual linking Communism with some U.S. churches are true. He said he may investigate withdrawal of the manual.

Walter told a reporter that repudiation and withdrawal of the manual, announced Wednesday by Air Force Secretary Dudley C. Sharp, "creates the impression that everything in it is false." "Actually," he said, "the charges that were made are true."

Khrush Voices Cryptic Threat To Indonesians

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev voiced a cryptic threat to Indonesians Thursday night at a banquet capping his red-carpet welcome to this neutralist nation.

"There are differences of opinion between us and President Sukarno," he said as his nationalist-minded host sat beside him. "If you press me, these differences may grow wider."

The remark was unexplained and may have been intended as a joke.

Looking healthy and rested at last on this third leg of his South Asian tour, Khrushchev dropped the remark in a speech in the white and gray banquet room of Sukarno's Merdeka (Freedom) Palace.

One of the differences is the fact that "I'm being offered too much food, and it is continually being pressed upon me," he added.

Khrushchev also said that so far as he knew, there were no basic political conflicts between the two countries.

The Sukarno government's biggest dispute with Communists centers on the Indonesian campaign to root Chinese traders from rural areas, where they have run circles around native businessmen. Red China objects vigorously to the resettlement program.

If Khrushchev has taken Peiping's side in that, he passed up a chance to show it as a seatmate of Red Chinese Ambassador Huang Chen at a performance of Indonesian dances after the banquet.

The Soviet leader watched the dancers stolidly and exchanged neither glances nor words with the Peiping diplomat.

In his speech Khrushchev professed sincere friendship for Indonesia, promised further Soviet aid and, as he did in India and Burma, attacked the Western powers as colonialists.

Pa. Girl Judged 1960 Cherry Pie Baking Champion

CHICAGO (AP)—A Pennsylvania girl, Jo Ann Williams, 17, of Wattsburg, Thursday was judged the 1960 national cherry pie baking champion.

She was chosen over 49 other contestants in the annual competition sponsored by the cherry industry.

Jo Ann burst into tears and grew speechless when the judges announced they found her pies, baked in a hotel ballroom, the best of the contest.

Bathyscaph Record Reduced 2,000 Feet

WASHINGTON (AP)—A precise calibration of gauges used in the bathyscaph Trieste now shows that it reached bottom in the Pacific at about 35,800 feet or 2,000 feet less than first reported, the Navy said Thursday.

The dive into the Marianas Trench off Guam on Jan. 23, remains, however, the record depth attained by man.

Second Crippling Snow In Week Hits Southland

By The Associated Press

The second big storm in a week swirled across the Southland Thursday unleashing tornadic squalls and crippling snows.

The border states of Kentucky and Tennessee caught the brunt of the snowy thrust with falls up to 15 inches clogging roads, closing schools, and canceling basketball games.

But there was snow reaching all the way from northern Alabama northeast into the southern Appalachians, eastern Ohio and western New York. Atlanta, Ga., had snow too.

Twisters tore into communities in Louisiana, Florida and North Carolina as a churning line of squalls raked eastward from Texas across the Gulf states and drove northeastward across the southern Piedmont.

Rain-laden winds battered Washington, D.C. blowing down a number of trees in Alexandria, Va., across the Potomac from Washington.

Eastern Kentucky, still digging out from last week's towering drifts, was paralyzed by more than a foot of snow. Heavily-traveled federal highways were blocked, schools closed in at least 12 counties and the University of Kentucky at Lexington closed at noon.

Bus service was canceled in some areas. Typical falls showed London and Lebanon, Ky., with 14 to 15 inches, Somerset 9-10 and Scottsville in the southern part of the state 7.

Nashville, Tenn., received 7 inches of snow before noon, closing all city and county schools as temperatures dipped to 25 degrees.

"Space Cabin" Test Completed

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Two Air Force sergeants completed a record two weeks in a simulated space cabin Thursday to find out what it takes to keep a space traveler alive and happy.

T. Sgts. William W. Henderson, 30, Alice, Tex., and Hobart Craft, 36, Wedowee, Ala., smiled broadly as they stepped from the 8x12-foot steel tank at 12:01 p.m. at the School for Aviation Medicine at Brooks Air Force Base.

They wore fresh, starched white uniforms of the medical services and each sported a short, scrubby mustache grown since they entered the cabin at 3:20 p.m. Feb. 4.

"I'm feeling fine and in good shape," said Henderson.

"I'd like to do it all over again," said Craft.

Henderson lit a cigar and took a deep breath. The airmen had chewed on cigars during the test but did not light them because they feared there would be too much smoke in their tiny cabin.

"My it's a bright world outside," said Henderson as he blinked in the bright lights for television cameras.

Medaris Blasts Space-Missile Program Setup

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retired Maj. Gen. John B. Medaris Thursday called the Eisenhower administration's separate handling of space and missile programs "totally incorrect."

"From a purely technical viewpoint," the former chief of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency said, "there is so little difference between civilian and military space programs that there is no justification for their division and resulting duplications."

President Eisenhower has contended repeatedly that the space and missile programs are for different purposes and should be kept separate.

As one who has worked under this approach, Medaris said he found it frustrating, inadequate and wasteful.

The 57-year-old general, who retired Jan. 30 after 38 years in the army, appeared in civilian clothes at a hearing of the House Space Committee.

Renewing a recommendation he made on retiring, Medaris urged the committee to create a single, unified missile command within the Defense Department. He said it should be a joint command representing the armed services and the scientific community.

"Every single engineering and production facility that is involved in any kind of important space project is now involved in one or more missile projects," he said.

SOESTDIJK, Netherlands (AP) —Princess Marijke of The Netherlands observed her 13th birthday Thursday. The partly blind princess was featured in pictures on front pages of Dutch newspapers showing her reading a book. The princess is blind in one eye and has only about 35 per cent vision in the other.

Queen Reported In Early Stages Of Childbirth

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II lay in labor in the early stages of an apparently difficult childbirth Friday.

Her gynecological surgeon, John H. Peel, kept a night-long vigil close by in Buckingham Palace. Outside a small crowd maintained an all-night watch before the royal home.

An informed source said the 33-year-old Queen had experienced slight labor pains since Thursday afternoon. But a palace spokesman predicted a slow confinement. After a day of tense expectancy and bedside conferences the Queen's physicians saw no sign yet of immediate birth.

An excited crowd of several hundred milled around the gilded gates of the palace until late at night awaiting the word that, for the first time in 103 years, a child had been born to a reigning British monarch.

Indictment Against Beck In Loan Deal Dismissed

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal judge Thursday dismissed an indictment that accused Dave Beck, retired Teamsters Union president, of violating the Taft-Hartley Act by accepting a $200,000 loan in 1954 from trucking interests.

Also cleared were two trucking company officials and three companies named in the indictment.

U.S. Dist. Judge Sidney Sugarman upheld the contention of defense attorneys that a Taft-Hartley amendment in 1959 prohibiting passage of loans of "things of value" between an employer and a union official did not apply to a loan made five years earlier.

The judge said the transaction was "pure and simple, a loan."

"I am granting the motion of all the defendants to dismiss the indictment on the grounds that it fails to state an offense," Sugarman said.

Besides Beck, the defendants cleared were Burge Seymour, president of Associated Transport Inc., New York; Roy Fruehauf, president of Fruehauf Trailer Co., Detroit; both of these companies, and Brown Equipment & Manufacturing Co., a subsidiary of Associated.

Sugarman issued his ruling summarily as trial was scheduled to begin. Government counsel appeared stunned. The defendants showed elation.

The judge said the government could appeal the ruling to the Supreme Court in 30 days. Justice Department officials in Washington said there will be an appeal "on grounds that the court's holding is contrary to court holdings in two previous cases involving the same issue."

Lists Of Record Hits "Stacked"

WASHINGTON (AP) — House payola investigators heard Thursday how lists of music record hits were, in the words of their chief counsel, stacked.

Harry Weiss, a Boston record promoter, testified he sent lists to a music trade publication on the borrowed stationary of Boston radio stations after "discovering some of my competitors were doing the same thing."

Weiss, a husky man who said he had laryngitis, told the House Legislative Oversight subcommittee that he sent the lists to Cash Box, a New York music industry publication that regularly prints lists of top 10 record hits, supposedly compiled from letters sent in by radio disc jockeys.

The witness said he obtained radio station letterheads after Samuel Clark, president of Am-Par Records, had asked if something could be done to boost a record called "Born Too Late" by the Pony Tails.

Another factor prompting his action, Weiss said, was that the listings "were neglecting my records."

Both Sides End Cases In Finch Murder Trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Both prosecution and defense Thursday ended their cases in the long, sensational trial of a society physician and his comely paramour.

The jury, after hearing nearly two months of testimony about and by Dr. R. Bernard Finch, 42, and Carole Tregoff, 23, was immediately locked up—even though final arguments will not begin until next Tuesday.

The judge told the five men and seven women he did so "because there has been a certain pressure in the air."

He said he wanted to keep them from newspaper and broadcast accounts of the trial.

The state's first major witness against the wealthy surgeon and his mistress—accused of plotting and carrying out the slaying of his wife, Barbara Jean—proved to be the last.

The maid in the Finch home in suburban West Covina, Marie Anne Lidholm, was called as a prosecution rebuttal witness.

Except for the defendants, 19-year-old Swedish Marie Anne was the last to see Mrs. Finch alive.

The state contends th doctor and Carole ambushed the 36-year-old Mrs. Finch in her garage when she returned home from an engagement the night of last July 18, hoping to kill her and make it look accidental. The doctor shot her, the prosecution contends, when the plan went awry.

Dr. Finch has said the fatal shot was fired accidentally when his wife pulled a gun on him when he tried to talk to her about her divorce plans.

Miss Lidholm, attracted by Mrs. Finch's screams, says he ran into the garage and the doctor slammed her into a wall so hard her head knocked a hole in the plaster. Dr. Finch said he did so because he feared she was armed.

"Space Cabin" Test Completed

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Two Air Force sergeants completed a record two weeks in a simulated space cabin Thursday to find out what it takes to keep a space traveler alive and happy.

T. Sgts. William W. Henderson, 30, Alice, Tex., and Hobart Craft, 36, Wedowee, Ala., smiled broadly as they stepped from the 8x12-foot steel tank at 12:01 p.m. at the School for Aviation Medicine at Brooks Air Force Base.

They wore fresh, starched white uniforms of the medical services and each sported a short, scrubby mustache grown since they entered the cabin at 3:20 p.m. Feb. 4.

"I'm feeling fine and in good shape," said Henderson.

"I'd like to do it all over again," said Craft.

Henderson lit a cigar and took a deep breath. The airmen had chewed on cigars during the test but did not light them because they feared there would be too much smoke in their tiny cabin.

"My it's a bright world outside," said Henderson as he blinked in the bright lights for television cameras.

Air Force officials handed him a check for $195, his bonus for re-enlisting in the Air Force.

House Unit Orders AF Manual Inquiry

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional inquiry was ordered Thursday into why the Air Force publishes such things as reports of communism in the churches and how to mix a dry martini.

The House Armed Services Committee set up the investigation. It will be broad enough to cover training manuals of all the armed services, the Army, Navy and Air Force.

But the immediate target was the Air Force and two of its manuals newly brought to light.

A most serious view was taken of an Air Force training manual which, in citing the need to be alert against sabotage and subversion, said Communists have infiltrated the churches.

That manual had a short life, having been issued last month, withdrawn from circulation a week ago, and publicly repudiated by the Air Force Wednesday.

Rep. Frank Kowalski (D-Conn) cited Thursday another Air Force manual containing detailed procedures on how to operate an officers club. One passage gave recipes for mixing martinis for the guests, and another suggested that a good way to keep drinking under control is to close the bar at a strategic time. Early, that is.

Kowalski, who went to West Point and became a colonel, has been fighting against the practice of using enlisted men as officers' servants.

It was little more than two weeks ago that disclosure of another manual got the Air Force in some trouble. Quickly withdrawn, this one gave details on how to wash a general's dog, how to prepare cocktails, how to set a table and how to polish shoes.

Charges True, Walter Says

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Chairman Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.) of the House Committee on Un-American Activities said Thursday charges in an Air Force manual linking Communism with some U.S. churches are true. He said he may investigate withdrawal of the manual.

Walter told a reporter that repudiation and withdrawal of the manual, announced Wednesday by Air Force Secretary Dudley C. Sharp, "creates the impression that everything in it is false." "Actually," he said, "the charges that were made are true."

Medaris Blasts Space-Missile Program Setup

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retired Maj. Gen. John B. Medaris Thursday called the Eisenhower administration's separate handling of space and missile programs "totally incorrect."

"From a purely technical viewpoint," the former chief of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency said, "there is so little difference between civilian and military space programs that there is no justification for their division and resulting duplications."

President Eisenhower has "contended repeatedly that the space and missile programs are for different purposes and should be kept separate.

As one who has worked under this approach, Medaris said he found it frustrating, inadequate and wasteful.

The 57-year-old general, who retired Jan. 30 after 38 years in the army, appeared in civilian clothes at a hearing of the House Space Committee.

Renewing a recommendation he made on retiring, Medaris urged the committee to create a single, unified missile command within the Defense Department. He said it should be a joint command representing the armed services and the scientific community.

"Every single engineering and production facility that is involved in any kind of important space project is now involved in one or more missile projects," he said.

Princess Is 13

SOESTDIJK, Netherlands (AP) —Princess Marijke of The Netherlands observed her 13th birthday Thursday. The partly blind princess was featured in pictures on front pages of Dutch newspapers showing her reading a book. The princess is blind in one eye and has only about 35 per cent vision in the other.

Queen Reported In Early Stages Of Childbirth

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II lay in labor in the early stages of an apparently difficult childbirth Friday.

Her gynecological surgeon, John H. Peel, kept a night-long vigil close by in Buckingham Palace. Outside a small crowd maintained an all-night watch before the royal home.

An informed source said the 33-year-old Queen had experienced slight labor pains since Thursday afternoon. But a palace spokesman predicted a slow confinement. After a day of tense expectancy and bedside conferences the Queen's physicians saw no sign yet of immediate birth.

An excited crowd of several hundred milled around the gilded gates of the palace until late at night awaiting the word that, for the first time in 103 years, a child had been born to a reigning British monarch.

Khrush Voices Cryptic Threat To Indonesians

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev voiced a cryptic threat to Indonesians Thursday night at a banquet capping his red-carpet welcome to this neutralist nation.

"There are differences of opinion between us and President Sukarno," he said as his nationalist-minded host sat beside him. "If you press me, these differences may grow wider."

The remark was unexplained and may have been intended as a joke.

Looking healthy and rested at last on this third leg of his South Asian tour, Khrushchev dropped the remark in a speech in the white and gray banquet room of Sukarno's Merdeka (Freedom) Palace.

One of the differences is the fact that "I'm being offered too much food, and it is continually being pressed upon me," he added.

Khrushchev also said that so far as he knew, there were no basic political conflicts between the two countries.

The Sukarno government's biggest dispute with Communists centers on the Indonesian campaign to root Chinese traders from rural areas, where they have run circles around native businessmen. Red China objects vigorously to the resettlement program.

If Khrushchev has taken Peiping's side in that, he passed up a chance to show it as a seatmate of Red Chinese Ambassador Huang Chen at a performance of Indonesian dances after the banquet.

The Soviet leader watched the dancers stolidly and exchanged neither glances nor words with the Peiping diplomat.

In his speech Khrushchev professed sincere friendship for Indonesia, promised further Soviet aid and, as he did in India and Burma, attacked the Western powers as colonialists.

Indictment Against Beck In Loan Deal Dismissed

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal judge Thursday dismissed an indictment that accused Dave Beck, retired Teamsters Union president, of violating the Taft-Hartley Act by accepting a $200,000 loan in 1954 from trucking interests.

Also cleared were two trucking company officials and three companies named in the indictment.

U.S. Dist. Judge Sidney Sugarman upheld the contention of defense attorneys that a Taft-Hartley amendment in 1959 prohibiting passage of loans of "things of value" between an employer and a union official did not apply to a loan made five years earlier.

The judge said the transaction was "pure and simple, a loan."

"I am granting the motion of all the defendants to dismiss the indictment on the grounds that it fails to state an offense," Sugarman said.

Besides Beck, the defendants cleared were Burge Seymour, president of Associated Transport Inc., New York; Roy Fruehauf, president of Fruehauf Trailer Co., Detroit; both of these companies, and Brown Equipment & Manufacturing Co., a subsidiary of Associated.

Sugarman issued his ruling summarily as trial was scheduled to begin. Government counsel appeared stunned. The defendants showed elation.

The judge said the government could appeal the ruling to the Supreme Court in 30 days. Justice Department officials in Washington said there will be an appeal "on grounds that the court's holding is contrary to court holdings in two previous cases involving the same issue."

Personal Plea For Reprieve Sent Brown

Sex Terrorist Is Readied For Date With Death Today

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A last-gasp move to save the life of Caryl Chessman failed Thursday, but the convict-author fought on even as he was prepared for execution Friday morning in the San Quantin Prison gas chamber.

Just before he was taken to the waiting cell next to the green-painted gas chamber late Thursday afternoon, Chessman typed out a 2½-page letter to Gov. Edmund G. Brown and handed it to his attorney, Rosalie Asher.

It asked for a 30-day reprieve "so that he can disclose certain facts that are going to prove his innocence," Miss Asker told reporters at the prison. She refused to elaborate. It was Chessman's first direct appeal for any kind of clemency.

She telephoned the gist of the letter to Brown's clemency secretary, Cecil Poole, who agreed to receive the letter and present it to Brown. She said Chessman had told her to present the evidence to the governor himself, but Brown insisted Poole receive it first.

Court Again Denies Clemency

Chessman finally resorted to a personal appeal to the governor after the State Supreme Court, for the second straight day, voted 4-3 against clemency and sealed shut the door by saying, "This order is final forthwith."

That stamped it as possibly the last chapter in a 12-year court fight which drew worldwide attention.

In Sacramento, Gov. Edmund G. Brown said, "No further action on my part is possible" after the State Supreme Court rejected Chessman's latest plea.

Attorneys for the convicted sex terrorist of Los Angeles lovers' lanes had pleaded with the court that there was psychiatric proof of Chessman's rehabilitation in prison. They submitted a letter from a former state prosecutor that he had changed his mind and now feels Chessman's life should be spared.

The grim procedure of readying Chessman for death at 10 a.m. Friday swung into action.

Clothing Changed

His shoes and belt were removed and his clothing changed to guard against possible suicide. His last dinner was ordered—fried chicken. Chessman signed his will.

But his attorneys refused to give up. One, Rosalie Asher, telephoned Gov. Brown in Sacramento and said she had new evidence. The governor said if she has he'll hear it.

The State Supreme Court action, binding on the governor, leaves open to him only the possibility of a reprieve.

Of Thursday's court action, Brown said: "The State Supreme Court has once again voted against a recommendation for clemency. Thus under the state constitution I have no clemency power whatsoever."

In Washington, President Eisenhower received telegrams, some from Brazil, asking him to intervene and save Chessman. James C. Hagerty, Eisenhower's press secretary, said the President could not intercede officially.

Lists Of Record Hits "Stacked"

WASHINGTON (AP) — House payola investigators heard Thursday how lists of music record hits were, in the words of their chief counsel, stacked.

Harry Weiss, a Boston record promoter, testified he sent lists to a music trade publication on the borrowed stationary of Boston radio stations after "discovering some of my competitors were doing the same thing."

Weiss, a husky man who said he had laryngitis, told the House Legislative Oversight subcommittee that he sent the lists to Cash Box, a New York music industry publication that regularly prints lists of top 10 record hits, supposedly compiled from letters sent in by radio disc jockeys.

The witness said he obtained radio station letterheads after Samuel Clark, president of Am-Par Records, had asked if something could be done to boost a record called "Born Too Late" by the Pony Tails.

Another factor prompting his action, Weiss said, was that the listings "were neglecting my records."

House Rejects Two Md. Loan Firm Bills

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Two bills which would have permitted Maryland finance companies to lend larger amounts of money and make more from it were dealt stunning defeats today by the Maryland House of Delegates.

The measures were killed off by votes of 82-27 and 83-29 although both had emerged with favorable reports from the Ways and Means Committee and had backing of the House leadership.

Dels. Carlton Sickles (D-Prince Georges) and Charles Smelser (D-Frederick), who led the floor fight against them, charged that the loan industry had not demonstrated any need for the measures on the part of the companies or the public. They sharply questioned the impact the bills would have on borrowers.

The industrial finance bill, recommended by the assembly's between-sessions Legislative Council, would have permitted industrial finance companies to make loans up to $2,500 instead of the present $1,500.

Maximum annual interest rates on these loans would have been raised from 6 per cent to 8 per cent. But it was brought out that borrowers under the present 6 per cent rate actually pay 12 per cent over a 12-month period.

The net effect, claimed Del. Robert Cannon (D-Wicomico), would be to boost this charge to 16 per cent.

Smelseer charged that by the industry's own information it would add 60 per cent a year to profits now realized on a $1,000 loan.

The second bill would have broadened the scope of operations of small loan companies.

They are currently limited to loans of $300 and can charge 3 per cent per month interest on these over a 12-month period. They say many of their borrowers who want more than that amount go to other companies and borrow at the same 3 per cent charge.

The bill swamped under Thursday would have permitted them to lend up to $800, allowing the same 3 per cent per month for the first $300 or 36 per cent over a full year.

The next $300 could be loaned at 2 per cent, or 24 per cent for a full year, and the last $200 at 1 per cent, or 12 per cent for the year.

A recent study by the University of Michigan found that the average person spends 45 per cent of his day listening.

Benson Unveils Administration Farm Measure

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson unveiled the administration's new farm bill with a conciliatory promise to Congress to take another look at previously spurned Democratic proposals.

But skeptical members of the House Agriculture Committee felt that if Benson did not lock the door against higher farm price supports, he at least closed it with a convincing slam.

It was Benson's first appearance of the session before long-time critics on the House committee. Suffering from a cold, he had an aide read his 45-page legislative outline.

The session was conducted in an atmosphere of politeness and sweet reasonableness in contrast with stormy meetings of the past. Nobody shouted at anybody.

Benson submitted a proposed farm bill that would greatly reduce price supports, and free wheat farmers to produce as much wheat as they want. Democratic farm leaders in Congress and Benson agree that wheat is the major surplus problem. But they disagree violently on how to solve it.

In line with President Eisenhower's farm message of last week, Benson said he recognized that "other constructive approaches may be preferred by Congress" — provided price support levels are not raised.

Questioned by Rep. Carl Albert (D-Okla) about alternatives that would peg what supports at 90, 85 or 80 per cent of parity, provided they were accompanied by rigid production controls, Benson said: "I can't conceive that this would be a sound solution to the problem. If the support levels were raised it would increase incentives for further production."

Negro Found Guilty In Rape-Murder

BALTIMORE (AP) — Nathaniel Lipscomb was convicted of first-degree murder Thursday by Judges James K. Cullen and Joseph L. Carter, who withheld their sentence.

The guilty verdict of the judges, who heard all the testimony Wednesday without a jury, also held that the 31-year-old Negro was sane at the time of the rape-murder of a white woman.

The victim was Mrs. Lottie Kight, a 60 - year - old practical nurse slain Dec. 14, 1958. Lipscomb's signed statement to police —admitted as evidence—said he chased her into a back yard after she hit him with a broom when he made an indecent remark to her.

George Docking is the first Democrat ever to be twice elected governor of Kansas.

Van Rie Portrayed As Captive Lover

BOSTON (AP)—Willem Van Rie was portrayed by the state Thursday as a captive lover, embroiled in a sordid shipboard affair with beautiful Lynn Kauffman.

He was quoted as saying it ended when he struck the girl after she became enraged at taunts about pregnancy.

But the state was unable to draw from its own witnesses any admissions by the 31-year old Dutch radio operator that he ever threw the American divorcee over the rail of the Netherlands freighter Utrecht to drown last Sept. 18. Instead, Van Rie was quoted as telling one police interrogator such a move would have been impractical on his part.

The sensational — often unprintable — testimony during the day was the highlight of the state's case so far. It revolved around admissions Van Rie made under police questioning in Brooklyn last Sept. 30, the day he was arrested.

He since has repudiated the so-called confessions.

The state claims the handsome radio operator of the Utrecht beat Harbor. The two were lovers during the vessel's 44-day voyage from Singapore to Boston, the cabin, then threw her overboard Miss Kauffman senseless in her to drown as the ship left Boston state charges.

22 Cubans Acquitted

HAVANA (AP) — A military tribunal at La Cabana Fortress announced Thursday acquittal of all 22 defendants in a trial on charges of plotting against the chief of the National Police and a major. It was the first time since mass trials began under Prime Minister Fidel Castro's regime that all defendants in a case of this size were ordered set free.

Ike Cracks Down On Contraband Arms Shipments

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower Thursday empowered the attorney general to crack down on illegal exports of arms or munitions from the United States by seizing them and craft used for their transportation.

The White House gave no official explanation of the reasons for the action at this time, but indications were that it was in connection with the troubles in Cuba.

When a reporter asked whether it was intended to tighten up on illegal arms shipments to Cuba, Anne Wheaton, assistant press secretary, replied: "I would assume this is a step in that direction."

The practical effect, from a policing standpoint, is to give the FBI seizure powers as to suspected contraband arms. Such powers have been held heretofore by the Treasury Department's customs agents but not by FBI agents.

Eisenhower acted through an executive order, under a law dating back to 1917.

Bank Teller Charged With Embezzlement

SALISBURY (AP)—A 35-year-old bank teller was arrested by the FBI here Thursday and charged with embezzling $1,510 from the bank in violation of the Federal Reserve Act.

Richard Lee Malone waived a preliminary hearing at his arraignment before U.S. Commissioner John B. Robins and was released under $1,000 bond for action of the U.S. District Court in Baltimore.

Spray Cleaner Liver Damage Case Remanded

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The Court of Appeals Thursday upset a decision denying a Bethesda tree surgeon $150,000 damages against the Fuller Brush Co.

The high court held that Richard L. Twombley, 51, proved with "reasonable probability or reasonable certainty" that he suffered permanent liver damage from using Fuller's spot remover spray.

In remanding the case to Montgomery County Circuit Court for further proceedings, the appeals opinion said Twombley submitted sufficient evidence for sending the case to a jury. The court had ruled in favor of the brush company in a directed verdict.

The evidence, the high court said, "afforded a sufficient basis to enable a jury to find that toxic hepatitis due to using (Fuller's) cleaner was the cause of (Twombley's) illness."

The spray cleaner contained perchloroethylene, a toxic substance. Twombley claimed he became ill after using the spray on his trousers.

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The Court of Appeals Thursday upset a decision denying a Bethesda tree surgeon $150,000 damages against the Fuller Brush Co.

The high court held that Richard L. Twombley, 51, proved with "reasonable probability or reasonable certainty" that he suffered permanent liver damage from using Fuller's spot remover spray.

In remanding the case to Montgomery County Circuit Court for further proceedings, the appeals opinion said Twombley submitted sufficient evidence for sending the case to a jury. The court had ruled in favor of the brush company in a directed verdict.

The evidence, the high court said, "afforded a sufficient basis to enable a jury to find that toxic hepatitis due to using (Fuller's) cleaner was the cause of (Twombley's) illness."

The spray cleaner contained perchloroethylene, a toxic substance. Twombley claimed he became ill after using the spray on his trousers.

Paris Traffic Solutions, All Costly, Offered

By CHARLES HAUSER

PARIS (UPI) — In the "New France" of Gen. Charles de Gaulle everything is done on a grand scale.

That goes for traffic jams, too. In Paris, they're getting bigger and more snarled every day.

This isn't exactly a source of pride. As a matter of fact, Paris municipal authorities are doing their best to cut down on the "grandeur" of the city's parking and traffic problems.

A lot of solutions have been offered, most of which involve astronomical amounts of money. But Parisians are fast coming to the realization that something has to give pretty soon — even if it turns out to be the snaps on their wallets.

1,200,000 Vehicles

Approximately 1,200,000 motor vehicles are currently registered in the Department of the Seine, the big county area which includes Paris and its suburbs.

An average of 12,000 vehicles an hour whip around the Arc de Triomphe at the head of the Avenue des Champs Elysees, the heart of Paris.

Six-thousand of those vehicles travel the Champs Elysees itself, and even though the big boulevard has about a dozen lanes (it's difficult to say exactly how many, because who pays any attention to lanes in Paris?), the congestion is a marvel to behold.

The question of parking is another of today's problems. One of the people most deeply involved in the debate is Paris architect Edmond Utudjiam, a small man with dark hair and restless hands. He heads an informal group of citizens who firmly believe that the solution to the traffic problem lies underground.

Envisages Underground Garage

"What we must do," he said, "is to get parked cars off the streets so the traffic can flow. If Paris is to avoid having to outlaw automobile entirely it must construct garages and access roadways underground.

"We envisage an overall program of 41 subterranean garages at strategic points throughout the city, each one having four or five floors. All together, they would act as a sponge to suck up 54,000 cars at one time."

But how about the cost?

Utudjiam's voice jacked itself up two tones and his hands began an agitated dance as he spoke. "When we build a hospital, we don't ask how much it will cost. We build a hospital because we need a hospital. It is a matter of the public welfare, and parking comes under the same heading."

The often well-informed afternoon newspaper Paris-Presse has predicted that the Municipal Council will ban all parking in the heart of the city.

The ban will become law by Easter, the paper forecast.

Municipal officials have long recognized the fact that to enforce such a law, more public transportation must be provided to get workers to their jobs.

A speed-up of the Paris Metro, or subway, has been tried and abandoned. The trains already are running as close together as possible during rush hours.

Under construction, however, is the installation of new express Metro lines to bring city workers in from the suburbs and eliminate their need for driving their own cars.

This is not a sure cure, however, because French motorists appear to get honest enjoyment out of releasing their tensions in a torrent of abuse at other drivers trapped in Paris' colossal traffic jams.

No one has yet suggested that the Paris authorities restore to the motorist the time - honored right — legally taken from him several years ago — of sounding his horn when he gets caught in a traffic jam.

Admittedly, it wouldn't help untangle the traffic, but it certainly would relieve a lot of pent-up frustration.

Costello Loses Ground In Fight

NEW YORK (UPI) — Frank Costello, 69 - year - old "prime minister of the underworld," Wednesday lost ground in his fight against deportation to his native Italy.

The U.S. Court of Appeals rejected his appeal of a year-old court order that stripped him of his American citizenship.

The court left standing a ruling by federal Judge Archie O. Dawson that Costello had lied in 1925 when he identified himself as a realtor in his application for citizenship. Actually, the government charged, Costello was in the bootlegging business at the time, and already was climbing the ladder of underworld success.

Actual deportation moves probably will await Costello's release from the federal penitentiary in Atlanta, Ga., where he is serving a five - year term for evading more than $28,000 in income taxes. His attorney also is expected to appeal the citizenship ruling to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The three-judge appeals court unanimously upheld Dawson's ruling.

Atomic Age Skills Require Inspiration, M'Keldin Says

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP)—The variety of learning and skills required in the nuclear age won't "come from a federal factory or be produced by federal magic," former Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland said here Thursday night.

McKeldin, a Baltimore attorney, told a Lincoln Day dinner "the practitioners of all our arts and skills must come from inspired individuals in communities—American communities—that encourage inspiration."

He said in an address prepared for delivery at the celebration that "I can go along with President Eisenhower's advocacy of federal funds to get some of our backward communities started on school construction programs — but the inspiration to start must be born in the communities."

He added:

"There will be vote seekers in the months ahead — demagogic politicians—who will seek to plant the impression that the federal government could, if it would, wave a golden wand, and that new schools would arises wherever they are needed; the teacher supply would be in abundance. . . .

"It just isn't true, of course."

Grandmother Paid Surprise Visit By Stork

BEL AIR, Md. (AP) — Mrs. Mary Catherine Cooper, 38, gave birth to a six-pound girl today at her home in this Northeastern Maryland town.

Nothing unusual about that? Just one thing: she didn't know she was pregnant.

Mrs. Cooper, a grandmother and the mother of two teen-age sons, had been feeling fine. She did put on a little weight during the past month. But as her husband, Oscar, a 42-year-old electrician, explained:

"We thought that was only due to her getting older."

Mrs. Cooper put in a regular working day yesterday on her job at the Bel Air High School cafeteria. Then, last midnight, she became ill.

Cooper took his wife to the family doctor, Dr. Gerald Palmer. Dr. Palmer broke the news to them that she was going to have a baby. The birth came about 7 a.m.

The name, Kathryn Elizabeth, was chosen 17 years ago when the Coopers were expecting their second child.

It was the second surprise birth reported in the country in less than a month. In Los Angeles Jan. 31, Mrs. Richard Lewis, 32, gave birth without warning.

"It doesn't happen very often," said Dr. Palmer. "When a woman goes nine months without knowing she's pregnant, she's doing pretty well."

Pedestrian Killed

EDGEMERE, Md. (AP) — Alfred E. Loosemore, 54-year-old Bethlehem Steel Co. foreman, was struck and killed by an automobile on his way to work Thursday.

Baltimore County police said the driver, Frank E. Finch Jr., 46, had been charged with manslaughter.

Loosemore had been employed by the steel firm for 32 years.

New Md. Auto Tax Based On Value Proposed

TOWSON, Md. (AP)—A private group known as the Taxpayer Research Foundation has recommended a graduated personal property tax on cars as a new revenue source for Maryland.

The organization's resident agent, Towson attorney J. Leo McCormick, said such a tax would yield at least 25 million dollars a year at the outset.

The Department of Motor Vehicles would collect the tax and distribute it to the political subdivisions in proportion to the valuation of automobiles registered in each one.

"We sincerely believe," the group said Thursday, "that the proposed automobile tax is the most fair and equitable way to raise the revenues most urgently needed based on ability to pay."

$6,000 to $10,000, 2 per cent of market value; $5,000 to $6,000, 1¾ per cent; $4,000 to $5,000, 1½ per cent; $3,00 to $4., 1¼ per cent; less than 3,000, 1 per cent.

State Spending Warning Given

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Commission on Governmental Efficiency and Economy has a word of warning for Maryland legislators: than the state's labor force.

"In view of the greatly divergent trends," the commission said Thursday, "it is prudent policy for the state to be very circumspect in the use of public funds and in adopting policies that involve future commitments."

The commission said Maryland appropriations for the general and special funds jumped 66 per cent while the largest category of employed persons was up only 10 per cent.

It is time for the Legislature and state officials to "take a long and close look at these relative growth rates and 1961 proposals before further huge increases and additional commitments are approved."

Former Women's Golf Champ Suicide

BALTIMORE (AP)—A 65-year-old former golf champion, found shot through the temple Wednesday night, died Thursday in Sinai Hospital.

Mrs. Mary Louise Bell was found in her parked car not far from her Lutherville home in Baltimore County. Officer Donald Shriver of Cockeysville said the wound was self-inflicted with a .22 caliber target pistol.

Mrs. Bell won a number of golf tournaments in the 1930s and 40s, including the Middle Atlantic. At one time, she operated a bake shop in Baltimore.

D.C. Police Prepare For G. W. Sales Day

WASHINGTON (AP)—Extra police—106 of them—have been assigned to downtown traffic duty to help handle crowds expected to turn out for the special George Washington birthday sales Monday.

Police have been instructed to handle the situation "in a firm but courteous manner."

Oil Tank Blast Injures Worker

BALTIMORE (AP)—An oil tank exploded in Baltimore harbor Thursday, injuring one man and setting off a two-alarm fire.

The workman knocked to the ground, Raymond Lance, 42, was treated for shock at Mercy Hospital. Two other employes got to the ground before the tank went up and were not injured.

The blast buckled the sides of the 40-foot-high tank at Hess Inc. in the Custis Bay section of the harbor.

Navy Weapons Plant To Lay Off 500 More

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy plans to lay off 500 more workers at the naval weapons plant here in April.

The Navy laid off 119 this month, and 1,000 more are expected to be dismissed by fall.

The Navy says it has been unable to find additional work for the plant. One reason given is the shift in type of weapons now being used.

Total civilian employment at the plant is expected to be 5,240 on May 1. On June 30, 1956 the 150-year-old plant had more than 8,000 employes.

Court Order Sought To Halt Pollution

DENTON, Md. (AP)—The State Health Department is going to seek a show-cause order against the Caroline County seat of Denton, in an attempt to halt pollution of the Choptank River.

The Attorney General's Office filed a complaint in Circuit Court Thursday, alleging the town failed to carry out health department orders. Next will come a demand that the town show cause why it should not be required to build sewage disposal facilities.

The Health Department ordered construction of the facilities back in the summer of 1957. The department estimates 10,000 residents of Talbot and Caroline counties are polluting the Choptank with untreated sewage and a 16-mile stretch of the river has been closed to oystering because of this.

The chief meat eaten on an African safari is said to be gazelle.

New Md. Auto Tax Based On Value Proposed

TOWSON, Md. (AP)—A private group known as the Taxpayer Research Foundation has recommended a graduated personal property tax on cars as a new revenue source for Maryland.

The organization's resident agent, Towson attorney J. Leo McCormick, said such a tax would yield at least 25 million dollars a year at the outset.

The Department of Motor Vehicles would collect the tax and distribute it to the political subdivisions in proportion to the valuation of automobiles registered in each one.

"We sincerely believe," the group said Thursday, "that the proposed automobile tax is the most fair and equitable way to raise the revenues most urgently needed based on ability to pay."

These rates were suggested, based on market value:

$6,000 to $10,000, 2 per cent of market value; $5,000 to $6,000, 1¾ per cent; $4,000 to $5,000, 1½ per cent; $3,00 to $4,, 1¼ per cent; less than 3,000, 1 per cent.

State Spending Warning Given

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Commission on Governmental Efficiency and Economy has a word of warning for Maryland legislators: than the state's labor force.

"In view of the greatly divergent trends," the commission said Thursday, "it is prudent policy for the state to be very circumspect in the use of public funds and in adopting policies that involve future commitments."

The commission said Maryland appropriations for the general and special funds jumped 66 per cent while the largest category of employed persons was up only 10 per cent.

It is time for the Legislature and state officials to "take a long and close look at these relative growth rates and 1961 proposals before further huge increases and additional commitments are approved."

Former Women's Golf Champ Suicide

BALTIMORE (AP)—A 65-year-old former golf champion, found shot through the temple Wednesday night, died Thursday in Sinai Hospital.

Mrs. Mary Louise Bell was found in her parked car not far from her Lutherville home in Baltimore County. Officer Donald Shriver of Cockeysville said the wound was self-inflicted with a .22 caliber target pistol.

Mrs. Bell won a number of golf tournaments in the 1930s and 40s, including the Middle Atlantic. At one time, she operated a bake shop in Baltimore.

Oil Tank Blast Injures Worker

BALTIMORE (AP)—An oil tank exploded in Baltimore harbor Thursday, injuring one man and setting off a two-alarm fire.

The workman knocked to the ground, Raymond Lance, 42, was treated for shock at Mercy Hospital. Two other employes got to the ground before the tank went up and were not injured.

Navy Weapons Plant To Lay Off 500 More

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy plans to lay off 500 more workers at the naval weapons plant here in April.

The Navy laid off 119 this month, and 1,000 more are expected to be dismissed by fall.

The Navy says it has been unable to find additional work for the plant. One reason given is the shift in type of weapons now being used.

Total civilian employment at the plant is expected to be 5,240 on May 1. On June 30, 1956 the 150-year-old plant had more than 8,000 employes.

Court Order Sought To Halt Pollution

DENTON, Md. (AP)—The State Health Department is going to seek a show-cause order against the Caroline County seat of Denton, in an attempt to halt pollution of the Choptank River.

The Attorney General's Office filed a complaint in Circuit Court Thursday, alleging the town failed to carry out health department orders. Next will come a demand that the town show cause why it should not be required to build sewage disposal facilities.

The Health Department ordered construction of the facilities back in the summer of 1957. The department estimates 10,000 residents of Talbot and Caroline counties are polluting the Choptank with untreated sewage and a 16-mile stretch of the river has been closed to oystering because of this.

The chief meat eaten on an African safari is said to be gazelle.

Economy Of Prosperous Chile, Based Almost Entirely On Copper, Stable

Editor's Note — President Eisenhower will find Chile a stable and prosperous country when he visits there during his South American tour this month. In the following pre-tour story, third of a series, the Associated Press man in Chile has drawn a picture of that nation.

By THOMAS J. STONE

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — You can see it almost everywhere. Chile is prospering.

Construction is booming. A year ago it was almost at a standstill because of a shortage of money. The cost of living is high, but apparently in check. There is still inflation, but it, too, seems under control. There are more jobs.

The changes for the better have taken place since Jorge Alessandri took over as president a little over a year ago. Surrounded by a hand-picked cabinet of professional men instead of politicians, Alessandri went to work to cure the country's economic ills.

He put through an economic reform bill, tightened up tax laws, modified banks laws and established new import tariffs.

He went after and got foreign credits and pulled in more investments from abroad.

As a result, this long and narrow country on the west coast of South America is steadily improving economically.

Politically it is already one of the most stable countries in all Latin America. Presidents serve out their terms and it's been a long, long time since a real bloodbath revolution has occurred here.

Though the 53-year-old President has made progress, he has a long way to go.

The cost of living is high, but leveling off. A watchdog committee of volunteers growls at merchants who raise their prices out of line.

Salaries are low, and many breadwinners must hold two jobs to make ends meet. Alessandri ordered a round of mandatory wage increases last April, and the cost of living jumped proportionately, but finally steadied.

Chile's economy is based almost entirely upon copper. If the world market is good, Chile's economy is sound. If not, Chile's economy sags. It's as simple as that.

Chile—with about 7 ½ million people in an area of less than 300,000 square miles—is mineral rich. There is gold in the Andes. But copper and iron are the big dollar earners.

Copper experts here feel the long-term outlook for the metal is good. The country at present produces more than 500,000 tons annually.

Soviet Telescope

LONDON (UPI) — Soviet scientists have put Russia's largest telescope into operation, Moscow Radio announced. The 50-inch telescope is at a Crimean observatory. A 100-inch telescope is being built in Leningrad, the radio said.

The oldest ball in the world is reported to be some three thousand years old.

HANDS UP—President Eisenhower smiles broadly as he raises a hand to engage in a three-way handshake yesterday with two Russian visitors in his White house office. The chief executive was playing host to a group of 12 top Soviet officials—holding posts equivalent to that of U. S. governors. At center is Dmitry S. Polyansky, who heads the visiting delegation; at right is Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov. Two interpreters are in the background, Alex Akalovsky, left, of the U. S. State Department, and A. D. "Sky Bolt" Nearer Reality

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force placed its air-launched ballistic missile "Sky Bolt" officially in the development category Wednesday — moving it a step nearer reality.

The "Sky Bolt," conceived to travel up to 1,000 miles at a speed five times faster than sound, has up until now been in the design and study stage.

The Air Force announced that the Douglas Aircraft Co., which has worked on the design, will continue as prime contractors for development of the two-stage solid propellant missile.

Air Force studies and preliminary tests last year demonstrated the feasibility of launching a ballistic missile from aircraft. In the tests, however, smaller scale missiles were used.

The Air Force recently took delivery of its first operational Hound Dog missiles. Carried by B52 strategic bombers, the Hound Dogs have a range of more than 500 miles. These missiles are jet powered and supersonic with a self-contained internal navigation system but are far slower than the Sky Bolts that the Air Force now plans to perfect.

Both are designed to carry nuclear warheads.

NEW YORK (AP)—The inhabitants of Wall Street felt a lot better about the stock market Wednesday night. It recovered from a sharp selloff to close higher.

Only Tuesday they were saying they'd discovered a new drink for their increasingly disillusioned moments—"stocks on the rocks."

The market had suffered the steepest January decline on record and had kept on going down in February. But its action Wednesday braced up Wall Street even better than a drink.

Typical was the comment of Sidney Lurie of Josephthal & Co., brokerage house, who said a selling climax was reached in the morning. That, he said, would mark the bottom of the market for at least the first half of 1960.

In the decline from the start of 1960 the worst-acting stock group has been the auto shares, according to a compilation by Harold Clayton of Hemphill, Noyes & Co.

The brokerage company keeps a master list of 1,089 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange. Average decline for this list was 7 per cent. For autos the drop was 14.01 per cent.

Other weak groups included airlines down 13.64 per cent, steels down 12.99 per cent, and papers down 12.57 per cent. Only one group gained—telephone and telegraph, up 2.92 per cent.

Stocks Unaffected

NEW YORK (UPI) —Stocks of F. W. Woolworth & Co. and S. H. Kress & Co. have been holding steadier than other issues on the New York Stock Exchange in recent sessions despite Negro picketing of Woolworth and Kress stores in the South.

Xi Beta Discusses Cultural Programs

Future cultural programs were discussed at length and suggestions were made at the meeting of Xi-Beta Exemplar chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Virginia Ward, LaVale. The chairman is to write to international headquarters for some new program material.

The meeting was conducted by Miss Helene Schutz and the ritual was given. Routine reports, City Council minutes and international correspondence were read. Members were reminded to attend the council meeting February 25 at the home of Miss Martha Lee Heron, 630 Frederick Street. Dues were collected.

Each member is to bring a food donation to the next meeting for the chapter's needy family. It will be held at the home of Miss Schutz, 708 Columbia Avenue, March 1. Mrs. Betty Frantz will be in charge of the cultural program. Mrs. Josephine Pfeiffer suggested the chapter consider sending a gift of appreciation to Mrs. Josephine Miltenberger for the program she gave concerning her life and work in New Guinea. Mrs. Miltenberger returns to New Guinea at the end of this month.

The cultural program for the evening was "Learning to Live," including facts on personal health. Members participating were Miss Dorothy Lee Campbell, Miss Margaret Lester, and Miss Schutz, with all members adding to the discussion. Others present were Miss Eleanor Albright, Mrs. Frantz and Miss Ruth Lester.

Nurses Alumnae Selects Place For Meetings

Plans to have all future meetings at the Bellevue Street nurses' home were formulated at the regular meeting of the Nurses Alumnae Association of Sacred Heart Hospital, conducted by Miss Margaret Lee Lynch in the Decatur Street nurses' home. It also was decided to meet on Thursdays during Lent.

The annual social was discussed. It is to be held during June or July. Plans will be completed at the March 10 meeting. Dr. Gina Glick will speak at 8 o'clock. Her topic is "Anesthesiology."

It was decided to hold a bakeless bake sale. Miss Joan Hare, Mrs. Stella Sell and Miss Christine Williams compose the committee of arrangements. Prayer was offered by Mrs. Grace Fox Moore. Routine reports were given by Miss Mary Margaret King and Mrs. Margaret Conlon.

A technical talk on "Terminal Aortic Aneurisms and Peripheral Arterial Occlusive Disease" was given by Dr. Earl Paul. A social hour concluded the meeting, attended by 30 members.

Alpha Alpha Donates To Heart Association

A donation to the Allegany-Garret Heart Association was voted at the meeting of Alpha Alpha Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Betty Barnes, Frederick Street.

Plans were completed for the Valentine dance to be held tonight at the Cumberland Country Club from 9 until 1, at which time members from all chapters and their escorts will be entertained.

Announcement was made of the City Council Cruise Ball to be held May 7. A note of thanks for a donation to the Cancer Society was received from Mrs. Lucile Roeder, chairman of the society, March 22. Alpha Alpha will visit the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company, and has issued invitations to other chapters and their friends to attend.

Mrs. Virginia Topper presented the cultural program on the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal. She outlined its history from the campaign to raise funds in 1836 to the completion of the canal in 1850. She also told of the parties from Cumberland who chartered boats to take them to the tavern 10 miles from town to dance.

Others attending were Mrs. Lucy Balsey, Miss Betty Stegmaier, Miss Ann Riggleman, Miss Beverly Bower, Miss Judy Matt, Mrs. Imogene Hixson, Mrs. Virginia Plummer, Mrs. Catherine Samson, Mrs. Phyllis Cooley, Mrs. Betty Imes, Mrs. Jane O'Rourke, Mrs. Eelanor Devore, and Mrs. Jeanne Fradiska.

Play, Theatre Discussed

Since this year marks the centennial of the birth of Anton Chekhov, one of Russia's best known writers, his play "Uncle Vanya" was the topic for the meeting of the Great Books Group of the Cumberland Branch, AAUW. Mrs. A. J. Mirkin and Mrs. Milton Granet were hostesses to the group Tuesday at the former's home on Schley Street.

Mrs. John A. Cupler II set the scene for the discussion with a brief description of the world of Chekhov's time (1860-1904), pointing out that Russia was only just emerging from feudalism. The serfs were granted a partial emancipation in 1861; full emancipation did not come for another half century. Industrialization began in Russia about 1887, followed in 1891 by a great famine, so that the world of Anton Chekhov was not a very bright or hopeful one. The author himself, the sole support of his family of eight from the age of 20, experienced no illusions about life. His novels, plays and short stories are eloquent testimony to the frustration with which Russian life was permeated, she said.

"Uncle Vanya" is a play in four acts, depicting the baseness of pretense and the futility of resentment. Vanya, the principal character, and his half-sister Sonya vainly try to lift the onus of farming an old estate for the purpose of maintaining "in style" the pretentious Serebryakov, a retired professor. The return of the professor and his beautiful young wife completely disrupt the drab life at the estate. Their final decision to leave and go back to the city leaves Vanya and Sonya with the same burden, with the same hopelessness for this life.

As Mrs. Gordon L. Bowie summarized the play, the setting for each act was displayed with original sketches by Mrs. Max Bastian who explained that they were her own interpretation of Chekhov's descriptions for his stage settings.

Miss Dorothy Stone White described the theatre of Chekhov's day and gave particular emphasis to the Moscow Arts Theatre which was founded in 1893 by Chekhov and Constantin Stanislavsky. From a conversation between these two great artists came the establishment not only of the theatre but also of the "method" school of acting. Miss White explained that in "method" an actor must wholly absorb his role: he must live it, not act it—the absorbtion must be physical, psychological, emotional. As Chekhov himself felt that there should be no disguise to the facts of life, so Stanislavsky felt about the actor's role in the theatre.

Mrs. G. Morgan Smith presided. It was announced that the next meeting will be March 15 at the home of Mrs. Lawrence W. Brown, LaVale, with "Emile" by Jean Jacques Rosseau as the topic. Mrs. Smith introduced Mrs. Duard Little and Mrs. S. G. Weisman who were guests of the hostesses. Others present were Mrs. W. Royce Hodges, Mrs. Milton Bernstein, Mrs. George Griffith, Mrs. C. Amer Suter, Mrs. Granville Shirley, Mrs. William C. Walsh, Mrs. Milton Beneman, Mrs. John Hafer, Mrs. W. A. VanOrmer, Mrs. Paul Castelle and Mrs. Russell Cook.

The 58th constitution of McKinley Chapter, OES will be celebrated tonight at 8 at the Masonic Temple.

Conference Delegates Appointed

Mrs. Elizabeth Zembower and Mrs. Winona Stimler were elected delegates to the state spring conference at the meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of LaVale Fire Department. The conference will be at Lake Shore fire department April 21.

Plans were completed for serving the firemen's annual dinner tomorrow evening. Mrs. Flo Alexander, Mrs. Gladys Burkey and Mrs. Emma Youngblood were named hostesses for February 26.

The meeting was conducted by Mrs. Leona McClelland. Mrs. Stimler offered prayer followed by the flag salute. Routine reports were given by Mrs. Alexander, Mrs. Jeannette Pritts and Mrs. Leola Knierium. A thank-you note from Mrs. Bessie Zembower was read. The prize for the evening was won by Mrs. Virginia Law. Thirteen members attended.

Xi Beta Discusses Cultural Programs

Future cultural programs were discussed at length and suggestions were made at the meeting of Xi-Beta Exemplar chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Virginia Ward, LaVale. The chairman is to write to international headquarters for some new program material.

The meeting was conducted by Miss Helene Schutz and the ritual was given. Routine reports, City Council minutes and international correspondence were read. Members were reminded to attend the council meeting February 25 at the home of Miss Martha Lee Heron, 630 Frederick Street. Dues were collected.

Each member is to bing a food donation to the next meeting for the chapter's needy family. It will be held at the home of Miss Schutz, 708 Columbia Avenue, March 1. Mrs. Betty Frantz will be in charge of the cultural program. Mrs. Josephine Pfeiffer suggested the chapter consider sending a gift of appreciation to Mrs. Josephine Miltenberger for the program she gave concerning her life and work in New Guinea. Mrs. Miltenberger returns to New Guinea at the end of this month.

The cultural program for the evening was "Learning to Live," including facts on personal health. Members participating were Miss Dorothy Lee Campbell, Miss Margaret Lester, and Miss Schutz, with all members adding to the discussion. Others present were Miss Eleanor Albright, Mrs. Frantz and Miss Ruth Lester.

DRESS REHEARSAL — The Kitchen Orchestra, composed of PTA Mothers, will be one of the specialty numbers of the Ridgeley Elementary PTA "Whiz Bang Minstrel Show" to be presented February 25. The minstrel, at 7:30 in the school auditorium, is for the benefit of the Ridgeley School Band. Left to right, first row, are Mrs. Dorothy Hostettler, Mrs. Irene Nichols, Mrs. Jean Andrews, Mrs. Margaret Spriggs. Second row, Mrs. Patricia Jewell, Mrs. Margery Rhodes, Mrs. Ruth Schoonover, Mrs. Betty Brunsworth and Mrs. Lorraine Amato. Tickets may be purchased from students or any PTA members.

Nurses Alumnae Selects Place For Meetings

Plans to have all future meetings at the Bellevue Street nurses' home were formulated at the regular meeting of the Nurses Alumnae Association of Sacred Heart Hospital, conducted by Miss Margaret Lee Lynch in the Decatur Street nurses' home. It also was decided to meet on Thursdays during Lent.

The annual social was discussed. It is to be held during June or July. Plans will be completed at the March 10 meeting. Dr. Gina Glick will speak at 8 o'clock. Her topic is "Anesthesiology."

It was decided to hold a bakeless bake sale. Miss Joan Hare, Mrs. Stella Sell and Miss Christine Williams compose the committee of arrangements. Prayer was offered by Mrs. Grace Fox Moore. Routine reports were given by Miss Mary Margaret King and Mrs. Margaret Conlon.

A technical talk on "Terminal Aortic Aneurisms and Peripheral Arterial Occlusive Disease" was given by Dr. Earl Paul. A social hour concluded the meeting, attended by 30 members.

Sterner View Replaces Rose-Colored Glasses In Most American Churches

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

Rose-colored glasses are out of style in American churches today. Some bright, old dreams about reforming the world have dimmed. They've been replaced by a sterner view.

"The idea of 'man redeeming himself and his society has been shattered beyond easy repair," says the Rev. Dr. Albert C. Outler, of Southern Methodist University's School of Theology.

The shattering process has raised new questions, but church leaders of most every leaning affirm it was necessary, as a matter of truth.

It's now a commonplace feeling among them that the one-time "social gospel" confidence in man's own capabilities, in his potential advance to an ideal earthly order based on Jesus' teachings, was an illusion.

Events have "produced a more realistic and sober attitude toward human possibilities" and left "in doubt the question of net progress," says the Rev. Dr. Liston Pope, dean of Yale Divinity School.

However, he adds, the abandonment of the rosy, old hopes, even though they were "overly optimistic and more than a little naive," has tended to create a religious indifference to worldly efforts as being of little use.

"Churches in America have lost much of their social concern," he says.

In other words, the question now troubling some theologians is whether the reaction against the former superficial optimism has caused an undue church skepticism and apathy toward chances for earthly improvements.

The Rev. Dr. John C. Bennett, of Union Theological Seminary, says that "we are rightly disillusioned about all-embracing social solutions," but the letdown has caused other - worldly preoccupation, a retreat from the human struggle.

"More neglected now than it has been for decades is the subject of Chrisitan faith and social responsibility," he writes in the weekly, Christian Century.

A reascendant and powerful emphasis in present-day Christian scholarship is that man's sin has blighted himself and the world, and that he can't cure himself.

The earlier, heady hopes that humanity could eventually achieve a sort of Utopia grew out of the late 19th century and the so-called "social gospel" of liberal Protestantism. It lingered in America until World War II.

Conservative and fundamentalist Christians spurned it, but in doing so, says Dr. Carl Henry, they also have downgraded the social implications of the Gospel (as distinguished from the specific "social gospel" movement).

Dr. Henry, editor of Christianity Today, urges fundamentalists to recover their "lost ground in the realm of social concern." Thus, by a strange sequence of reaction and counter-reaction, both groups are being prodded on similar grounds.

W. Germany To Tap Spain's Labor Pool

MADRID (UPI)—Short-handed West German industries, already searching abroad for the men needed to staff their nation's booming economy, will soon be able to tap Spain's pool of unemployed.

The search for skilled and unskilled workers in Spain will begin next month, when, according to diplomatic sources, a labor agreement, already initiated after being drawn up in Madrid between January 29 and February 2, needs only the endorsement of both national cabinets.

The major areas in which Spanish laborers will be wanted, are textiles, cement industries, canning and baking plants. Seasonal labor, such as farming and building, will probably continue to be filled from the less expensively transported Italian labor pool.

Trujillo Waging Battle For Survival

Editor's Note: Morris W. Rosenberg of the AP's foreign staff has just visited the Dominican Republic, where troubles within and without beset the government. Here is a report of his findings, transmitted from neighboring Haiti.

By MORRIS W. ROSENBERG

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP)—The old man of the Caribbean, Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo, 68, is battling for survival.

Forces that have overthrown four Latin American dictatorships in the last five years are now threatening Trujillo's 30-year, iron fisted rule of the Dominican Republic.

The pattern is that which preceded the downfall of Argentina's Juan D. Peron, Colombia's Gustavo Rojas Pinilla, Venezuela's Marcos Perez Jimenez and, in varying degrees, Cuba's Fulgencio Batista.

Among powerful elements with which Trujillo is now forced to contend are:

1. The Roman Catholic Church, which on Jan. 31 issued a pastoral letter protesting there was a lack of human rights.

2. A middle-class group of young lawyers, doctors, engineers and other professionals who organized a nationwide conspiracy to assassinate Trujillo last month.

The plot was smashed in a wave of arrests. It is estimated that from 1,500 to 2,000 persons were jailed. Many were subsequently released, but 120 have been sentenced to trials so far this month to 30 years at hard labor—the maximum legal sentence—and assessed fines totaling $600,000.

3. Worsening business conditions due to drought, low prices for sugar and coffee exports, and a reduction in the public works program. The latter is attributed to heavy military expenditures.

4. External foes such as the governments of Venezuela and Cuba, which are seeking to mobilize hemispheric pressure to end Trujillo's rule. In addition Dominican exiles in Puerto Rico, Venezuela, Havana and New York are keeping up a barrage of propaganda and some underground efforts to unseat him.

The earlier, heady hopes that humanity could eventually achieve a sort of Utopia grew out of the late 19th century and the so-called "social gospel" of liberal Protestantism. It lingered in America until World War II.

Conservative and fundamentalist Christians spurned it, but in doing so, says Dr. Carl Henry, they also have downgraded the social implications of the Gospel (as distinguished from the specific "social gospel" movement).

Dr. Henry, editor of Christianity Today, urges fundamentalists to recover their "lost ground in the realm of social concern." Thus, by a strange sequence of reaction and counter-reaction, both groups are being prodded on similar grounds.

W. Germany To Tap Spain's Labor Pool

MADRID (UPI)—Short-handed West German industries, already searching abroad for the men needed to staff their nation's booming economy, will soon be able to tap Spain's pool of unemployed.

The search for skilled and unskilled workers in Spain will begin next month, when, according to diplomatic sources, a labor agreement, already initiated after being drawn up in Madrid between January 29 and February 2, needs only the endorsement of both national cabinets.

The major areas in which Spanish laborers will be wanted, are textiles, cement industries, canning and baking plants. Seasonal labor, such as farming and building, will probably continue to be filled from the less expensively transported Italian labor pool.

Trujillo Waging Battle For Survival

Editor's Note: Morris W. Rosenberg of the AP's foreign staff has just visited the Dominican Republic, where troubles within and without beset the government. Here is a report of his findings, transmitted from neighboring Haiti.

By MORRIS W. ROSENBERG

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP)—The old man of the Caribbean, Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo, 68, is battling for survival.

Forces that have overthrown four Latin American dictatorships in the last five years are now threatening Trujillo's 30-year, iron fisted rule of the Dominican Republic.

The pattern is that which preceded the downfall of Argentina's Juan D. Peron, Colombia's Gustavo Rojas Pinilla, Venezuela's Marcos Perez Jimenez and, in varying degrees, Cuba's Fulgencio Batista.

Among powerful elements with which Trujillo is now forced to contend are:

1. The Roman Catholic Church, which on Jan. 31 issued a pastoral letter protesting there was a lack of human rights.

2. A middle-class group of young lawyers, doctors, engineers and other professionals who organized a nationwide conspiracy to assassinate Trujillo last month.

The plot was smashed in a wave of arrests. It is estimated that from 1,500 to 2,000 persons were jailed. Many were subsequently released, but 120 have been sentenced to trials so far this month to 30 years at hard labor—the maximum legal sentence—and assessed fines totaling $600,000.

3. Worsening business conditions due to drought, low prices for sugar and coffee exports, and a reduction in the public works program. The latter is attributed to heavy military expenditures.

4. External foes such as the governments of Venezuela and Cuba, which are seeking to mobilize hemispheric pressure to end Trujillo's rule. In addition Dominican exiles in Puerto Rico, Venezuela, Havana and New York are keeping up a barrage of propaganda and some underground efforts to unseat him.

'Revolution' Taking Place In U.S. Foreign Service

By DON MAY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U. S. Foreign Service is not often thought of as a hotbed of revolution.

Yet "revolution" best describes a vast upheaval which has taken place in the government's staid, elite diplomatic corps in the last five years and from which it is just now emerging.

Beneath the protocol and the gold-embossed seals and impeccable manners, the process has not been entirely smooth.

The "revolution" involved wresting away from the Civil Service many of the high level policy-making jobs in the State Department.

The story is told in a frank, unpublicized report to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee by Loy W. Henderson, deputy undersecretary of state for administration.

Formed In 1924

The Foreign Service was formed in 1924 as a career, professionally trained branch of the State Department, distinct from the Civil Service which also manned Department jobs.

Its members served several years abroad and then several at home working alongside civil servants. But the Civil Service had a faster promotion rate.

By the mid 1940's, the Henderson report said, the Foreign Service had become "a service in exile."

"Little by little," Henderson wrote, "the key positions in the Department began to be frozen into the Civil Service, and Foreign Service officers were beginning to have less and less opportunity of being detailed to departmental positions of responsibility."

Grows In Importance

Meanwhile, the growing importance to foreign policy of new intelligence and overseas economic agencies — run by civil servants — made the Foreign Service feel even more left out.

In a 1955 article former Ambassador to Russia George F. Kennan said:

"By 1953 the old Foreign Service was ... an administrative ruin ... packed with people who had never undergone the normal entrance requirements, hemmed in and suffocated by competing services, demoralized by anonymous security agents. . .a helpless object of disparagement and defamation at the hands of outside critics."

In 1954 the State Department began a drastic reform on a "crash basis" Civil Service jobs which involved foreign policy were "integrated" into the Foreign Service. Hence, the revolution was called "Integration."

A program was launched to get some 1400 civil servants to either join the Foreign Service or switch to Civil Service designated jobs.

Not everyone was happy with the new order.

"Some Civil Service officers," Henderson wrote, "did not relish the idea of becoming Foreign Service officers subject to transfer to any place in the world at the discretion of the Secretary of State."

And some Foreign Service officers, he said, "were inclined to resent the appointment to classes above them of Civil Service officers from the Department who had not been subjected to severe examinations; who in some instances had been fewer years than they in the Government service; and who frequently were younger than they."

But Henderson reported that the Foreign Service and the Department as a whole are emerging from the five-year program with new morale and sense of efficiency.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Richard Blackwell, one of Hollywood's Dead End kids, scored early in reel life.

But like so many child stars, he tasted defeat in real life when the role ran out.

"For 12 years," Blackwell said in an interview, "I was broke, broken in spirit and practically friendless."

But fortune's wheel once more is turning in Blackwell's favor. Almost by accident he started designing women's dresses two years ago.

He started at a snail's pace, but kept the ground he gained. This year, his firm — Mr. Blackwell Designs" — will move a million dollars' worth of togs to market.

"It's far afield from the movies and out of keeping with the 'Dead End' tag that was hung on me," he said.

"But for the first time in my life, I feel that I have control over my destiny. It's almost as if there's a rule in life that you can have just so much failure — and then the tide turns."

"I don't have to beg for bit parts or odd jobs. But best of all, perhaps, I now have a public that appreciates me for what I can do in real life. I'm out of the make-believe world."

Admits To Gift

Blackwell, 38 and single, admits to a "gift" in the dress designing field.

"I can take a bolt of material and make a good looking dress for any woman in ten minutes," he said.

Unlike most designers, he does not sketch or use a drawing board when creating a new design. His tools are scissors, pins, clothes pins — "better than pins to hold the material" — and a live model.

"Inanimate forms of the female body don't inspire me," he said.

Blackwell discovered his talent for fashion design when he was managing the vocalist Wanda Curtis.

Threatened To Sue

The dress was so pleasing that Miss Curtis urged him to try his hands at making more gowns.

The designer recently named ten Hollywood actresses "worst dressed" in real life. "They overdress and tend to look like clowns," he said. "A great many women try to copy them because they think such over-dressing is high style. It's a dis-service to women."

Five of the actresses, he said, have threatened to sue. "Let them," he said. "I will go to court and defend my position. Any woman who over-dresses is worst dressed."

Among best - dressed women, Blackwell said, are Elizabeth Taylor, Lily Pons and Terry Moore. They wear his gowns.

Whitney Has 'Costliest Job'

LONDON (UPI) — American Ambassador to Britain John Hay Whitney has the "costliest job in the world" and pays for most of it out of his own pocket, the London Daily Express reported Wednesday.

The newspaper's report featuring an eight-column photograph of Whitney's "back garden" in his mansion, Winfield House.

It said Whitney received $43,000 a year but that necessary expenses of his job were about $143,000 annually.

The report described his 12-acre estate here as the scene of great parties "where the American genius for hospitality is displayed against a backcloth as English as a British railway poster."

The Express said Whitney belonged to the "champagne belt" embassies, the ones for which salaries were well below the required amount to meet the style of living expected of them.

It said "this patriotic dedication is no real hardship to Mr. Whitney. He is impressively rich, owner of the New York Herald Tribune and of a string of racehorses in this country."

The belted kingfisher is one of the very few examples in birds where the female has the more colorful plumage. The kingfisher is sometimes called "Old-Tousel-Top."

Local Man Arrested In Ohio

A Cumberland man has been arrested in Ohio and is being held for local authorities in connection with a series of burglaries and safecrackings.

Jesse James Valentine, 32, of this city, was picked up Wednesday by the Ohio Highway Patrol at Hudson, Ohio, after having been alerted to his whereabouts by a teletype from the State Police barracks at LaVale.

Sgt. William F. Baker and Tfc. Milton Hart, criminal investigators for the State Police, said Valentine has been implicated in a number of safecrackings in this county, and definitely connected with a safe job at McCoole School on January 31.

Valentine is being held in Summit County jail, Akron, the criminal investigators said, adding that a teletype message has been sent to see if Valentine will waive extradition. Burglary warrants against Valentine were filed here Tuesday, Sgt. Baker and Tfc. Hart stated.

The arrest of Valentine is the fourth that has resulted from the concerted efforts of Maryland, Pennsylvania and West Virginia State Police. Arrested last week were James E. Crowe, 24; Olin C. Miller, 33, and James A. Hutzell, 16, all of Bowman's Addition. Jurisdiction of Juvenile Court was waived in the case of the Hutzell youth.

The three were nabbed after being flushed from an attempt to burglarize the safe at Hyndman-Londonderry (Pa.) High School. A description of the automobile and an imprint of a distinctive shoe sole were major factors in the arrest of the Bowman's Addition trio.

Questioning of the three young men resulted in admission of numerous breaking and enterings and safecrackings in the three-state area. It also resulted in implicating Valentine with a number of the burglaries, according to police.

Miller, Crowe and Hutzell were specifically charged with the burglary of $125 from Albert's Market, LaVale, on January 31, at a hearing before Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt on Tuesday. Bond of $5,000 was set against each one for appearance before the next grand jury.

Hutzell was released Wednesday after posting bond, while the other two are being held in the county lockup.

Physicians Ask Hearing

Twenty-seven Allegany County physicians yesterday came to the defense of the county health officer and asked that he be given a fair hearing, instead of being faced with vague accusations.

The doctors also declared in a letter to the Board of Allegany County Commissioners and to Dr. Perry W. Prather, director of the State Department of Health, that they had found no evidence of maladministration of the County Health Department.

Last Thursday the county commissioners formally requested Dr. Prather to transfer Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer.

No reasons were given other than the board said complaints had been received from outside the department and there had been resignations within the department.

The doctors' petition requested that Dr. van Strien be granted these following fundamental rights provided by federal and state constitutions:

1. A public statement of charges against him.
2. The right to face his accusers at a public hearing.
3. The right to be judged by his peers.

The doctors pointed out that a public statement of maladministration by the health officer has never been made by the county commissioners.

"Practicing physicians in this county have daily contact with the Health department and know its work; therefore, we should be aware of maladministration by the health officer. We have no such knowledge," they declared.

The letter was signed by Doctors Wyand F. Doerner Jr., Robert Feddis, William P. Iames, Carlton Brinsfield, W. F. Williams, Benedict Skitarelic, Thomas F. Lewis.

Doctors A. S. Hashim, Herman A. Campana, Earl R. Paul, Howard L. Tolson, S. G. Weisman, Elizabeth Brings, L. M. Glick, J. T. Johnson Jr., A. J. Mirkin, J. G. Stegmaier.

Doctors Leo H. Ley, B. M. Schindler, Lewis Brings, J. P. Hallinan, George F. Mock, Lewis L. Mould, Leland B. Ransom, Richard J. Williams, Calvin Y. Hadidian and Samuel Jacobson.

In a communication to the county commissioners last week following the report of the meeting when the transfer was requested, Dr. van Strien asked the board for particulars, a study of the situation and a fair hearing.

Local Man Arrested In Ohio

A Cumberland man has been arrested in Ohio and is being held for local authorities in connection with a series of burglaries and safecrackings.

Jesse James Valentine, 32, of this city, was picked up Wednesday by the Ohio Highway Patrol at Hudson, Ohio, after having been alerted to his whereabouts by a teletype from the State Police barracks at LaVale.

Sgt. William F. Baker and Tfc. Milton Hart, criminal investigators for the State Police, said Valentine has been implicated in a number of safecrackings in this county, and definitely connected with a safe job at McCoole School on January 31.

Valentine is being held in Summit County jail, Akron, the criminal investigators said, adding that a teletype message has been sent to see if Valentine will waive extradition. Burglary warrants against Valentine were filed here Tuesday. Sgt. Baker and Tfc. Hart stated.

The arrest of Valentine is the fourth that has resulted from the concerted efforts of Maryland, Pennsylvania and West Virginia State Police. Arrested last week were James E. Crowe, 24; Olin C. Miller, 33, and James A. Hutzell, 16, all of Bowman's Addition. Jurisdiction of Juvenile Court was waived in the case of the Hutzell youth.

The three were nabbed after being flushed from an attempt to burglarize the safe at Hyndman-Londonderry (Pa.) High School. A description of the automobile and an imprint of a distinctive shoe sole were major factors in the arrest of the Bowman's Addition trio.

Questioning of the three young men resulted in admission of numerous breaking and enterings and safecrackings in the three-state area. It also resulted in implicating Valentine with a number of the burglaries, according to police.

Miller, Crowe and Hutzell were specifically charged with the burglary of $125 from Albert's Market, LaVale, on January 31, at a hearing before Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt on Tuesday. Bond of $5,000 was set against each one for appearance before the next grand jury.

Hutzell was released Wednesday after posting bond, while the other two are being held in the county lockup.

Firm Buys Two Floors Of Building

The second and third floors of the Odd Fellows Temple building at 12 South Mechanic Street have been purchased by the E. V. Coyle Furniture Company.

The rear of the Coyle property at 45 Baltimore Street connects with the side of the Mechanic Street structure.

According to the deed recorded yesterday in the land records office at Allegany County Court House the two floors were sold by the Odd Fellows Temple Corporation to the furniture firm for a price of $3,000, the stamps revealed.

The Odd Fellows Lodge disbanded last June. Trustees and directors of the temple corporation as listed on the deed were B. E. DeBolt, Cloyd O'Neal, John Woodyard, LeRoy Klingler and James Lowery.

The deed also transferred the rights and easement to the stairway leading from the street to the second floor.

The first floor is occupied by the V&H Pool Room and is owned by Mrs. Faye K. Hersch.

Mrs. Hersch's father, the late Joseph Klawan, sold the second and third floors of the brick building to the Odd Fellows on January 2, 1915.

The two floors will connect with Coyle's upper display floors and increase their present area by over 75 per cent.

Yale Students To Visit Paper Mill At Luke

Students from the graphic design department of Yale University's School of Art and Architecture will get an intensive look at the manufacture of fine papers this weekend when they visit Luke Mill of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company for a two-day tour.

Included in the touring group will be 24 students, Professors Alvin Eisenman and Norman Ives, and Bradbury Thompson, noted designer and art director who is visiting critic at Yale. Thompson is designer of nationally-recognized "Inspirations for Printers," published by the Pulp and Paper Company.

The group will fly from New Haven, Conn., to Hagerstown this morning and then journey by bus to Luke, arriving in time for a briefing by Ronald Jezerc, superintendent of the mill's chemical service department.

In the afternoon, several students will visit nearby pulp wood cutting operations while others will take a three-hour guided tour of the mill.

Saturday morning and afternoon, the group again will tour papermaking facilities before leaving for the Hagerstown airport and the return trip to New Haven.

The visit to Luke is one of a number of field trips taken by graphic art students at Yale each year.

SILENT AND - - WELL

During rush hours, he told the Royal Health Society, people stand with noses and throats as close as 12 to 18 inches. "The people traditionally do not converse and therefore are not unduly susceptible to infectious diseases," he said.

NAIL GROWTH

NEW YORK (UPI) — Speed of nail growth varies among individuals, but in a given person generally growth is relatively constant throughout life.

Growth is increased, however, in nail biters, and during pregnancy it is decreased by acute infections, chronic disease and malnutrition, reports Dr. Maarten S. Sibinga, of New York University.

Americans use nearly 780 gallons of petroleum a year per person, says the American Petroleum Institute. This is about 13 times the amount used by the average person in the rest of the Free World.

Television and Radio

by John Crosby

Deification Of Devils

The detailed and frightfully accurate re-enactment of famous crimes is a fairly new and fertile field of dramatic exploration. Crime, God knows, is old stuff. But real criminals painstakingly treated as historical characters are brand new and rather disturbing protagonists—I hesitate to call them heroes—all over the movie marquees and, increasingly, television screens.

The movie mob is way ahead of TV in this regard with such movies as "Al Capone," "The Purple Gang," "The Rise and Fall of Legs Diamond," "Jack the Ripper"—all of which are doing rather alarmingly well at the box office, especially with the teen crowd. On television we have had Playhouse 90's "Seven Against the Wall" about the St. Valentine's day massacre and most recently "John Dillinger—A Year to Kill" which CBS put on as a special the other night.

I must say I found the Dillinger story, which was produced by John Houseman and directed by Mel Ferber, absolutely fascinating, if morally a little disturbing. It started at the end, really, with the FBI clustering like grapes around the Biograph Theater where they were later to mow down Dillinger, and then flashed back to his bloody year of bank robbery.

The education of Dillinger in prison under Harry Pierpont, the marvelously planned and executed robbery of banks, the meticulous casing of the banks, the rather casual killing of cops and a sheriff all held one spellbound, dramatically speaking. But also it bothered me a little. A good short course in bank robbery, I kept thinking, though I suppose it could also be called a good short course in the prevention of bank robbery, too.

But you can's escape the feeling that this is the glorification of gangsterism, even though this is a very honest documentary. The bad guys get it in the end—but for an hour they have led a pretty glorious and adventurous life. With all the movies around, I can't help feeling that hero worship of hoodlums is being used to turn a pretty profit for some not very scrupulous film makers and I hate to see TV get mixed up in this sort of thing.

This particular show was to have been the first of a series called "The Lawbreakers" which somehow got sidetracked. It was very well directed, and produced, and cast, and had great flavor and authenticity. Ralph Meeker played Dillinger with quiet authority.

Another weekend special, which I found utterly delightful, was "The Devil and Daniel Webster" with Edward G. Robinson and David Wayne. This was Stephen Vincent Benet's dramatization of an old New Hampshire legend about how Daniel Webster won a farmer's soul from the Devil in a nocturnal court of law. The farmer had sold his soul to the Devil in a moment of helpless, and perhaps justifiable, exasperation with the Lord.

Wayne was a very gracious, charming, thoroughly Yankee Devil, whose glee at leading a mortal astray was a delight to behold. Robinson was the very image of the great New England spellbinder, who undertakes at the risk of his own soul a legal defense against hopeless odds. The play abounds in delicious irony and fine flourishes of speech, which alone made the drama worth watching. It's not often that we hear the language spoken with any style and gusto and proper appreciation on television. It was fresh, different, and grown-up drama.

The other little TV goodie—for us New Yorkers anyway—was a three-hour seminar on the David Susskind show of comedy writers. Scratch a gag writer, I've always said, and you'll find a frustrated comedian and sometimes a very good one. Susskind got together six of the best comedy writers in the business—Mel Brooks, Mel Tonkin, Larry Gelbart, Charlie Andrews (who is more producer in recent years, though he's been a writer), Jack Douglas, and Sheldon Keller — six guys who have written variously for everybody — Bob Hope, Red Buttons, Red Skelton, Sid Caesar, Jack Paar, Jackie Gleason—well, name anybody.

They chewed up the whole profession fairly mercilessly scattering quips like hail. Gelbart and Brooks are formidable comics in their own right. When they got on the subject of the laugh machine, I fell down laughing. The comedians, Gelbart implied, now warm up the machine. "The jokes don't have to be funny any more. You just ask the man who runs the machine how his finger is feeling." It was all edged as broken glass and very perceptive. None of the boys will ever work again but they had their moment of glory.

College Seeking Two Dormitories

R. Bowen Hardesty, president of Frostburg State Teachers College, yesterday told a Senate finance committee in Annapolis that the college is in dire need of two dormitories.

Hardesty spoke at a hearing designed to discuss budget problems of the Department of Education and various college needs. Sen. William S. James of Hartford County presided.

The college head pointed out that dormitories for men and women students would cost approximately $425,000 each. Both were left out of the 1960 budget, but Gov. J. Millard Tawes stated a week ago that he was considering one new dormitory for the college.

Hardesty said there are 401 students housed in present dormitories, 33 per cent beyond normal capacity. The City of Frostburg was canvassed for living quarters in private homes and 70 students were accommodated, he added.

"Providing one new dormitory is included in the budget," Sen. James asked, "which (men or women) would be preferred?"

Although FSTC has approximately 50 per cent male students, Hardesty said he would prefer a women's dorm. Estimated attendance at the college next year will be about 1,000 as compared to over 800 now.

Hardesty said 311 applications for admittance to the college, along with checks, have been received. However, no one has been notified of acceptance due to the dormitory problem.

Sen. Charles M. See of Allegany County asked about a radius for students (usually about 20 miles).

Due to weather conditions and limited transportation, Hardesty said, the radius rule does not apply to Frostburg.

Hardesty pointed out that 22 Cumberland students are residing in Frostburg homes at their own expense. Others who have been "screened" are living in dormitories.

With Hardesty at the hearing were Ivan C. Diehl, dean of instruction at FSTC; James Hosack, an instructor, and two students, Miss Bessie Bailey and Miss Irene Guy.

Firm Buys Two Floors Of Building

The second and third floors of the Odd Fellows Temple building at 12 South Mechanic Street have been purchased by the E. V. Coyle Furniture Company.

The rear of the Coyle property at 45 Baltimore Street connects with the side of the Mechanic Street structure.

According to the deed recorded yesterday in the land records office at Allegany County Court House the two floors were sold by the Odd Fellows Temple Corporation to the furniture firm for a price of $3,000, the stamps revealed.

The Odd Fellows Lodge disbanded last June. Trustees and directors of the temple corporation as listed on the deed were B. E. DeBolt, Cloyd O'Neal, John Woodyard, LeRoy Klingler and James Lowery.

The deed also transferred the rights and easement to the stairway leading from the street to the second floor.

The first floor is occupied by the V&H Pool Room and is owned by Mrs. Faye K. Hersch.

Mrs. Hersch's father, the late Joseph Klawan, sold the second and third floors of the brick building to the Odd Fellows on January 2, 1915.

The two floors will connect with Coyle's upper display floors and increase their present area by over 75 per cent.

Yale Students To Visit Paper Mill At Luke

Students from the graphic design department of Yale University's School of Art and Architecture will get an intensive look at the manufacture of fine papers this weekend when they visit Luke Mill of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company for a two-day tour.

Included in the touring group will be 24 students, Professors Alvin Eisenman and Norman Ives, and Bradbury Thompson, noted designer and art director who is visiting critic at Yale. Thompson is designer of nationally-recognized "Inspirations for Printers," published by the Pulp and Paper Company.

The group will fly from New Haven, Conn., to Hagerstown this morning and then journey by bus to Luke, arriving in time for a briefing by Ronald Jezerc, superintendent of the mill's chemical service department.

In the afternoon, several students will visit nearby pulp wood cutting operations while others will take a three-hour guided tour of the mill.

Saturday morning and afternoon, the group again will tour papermaking facilities before leaving for the Hagerstown airport and the return trip to New Haven.

The visit to Luke is one of a number of field trips taken by graphic art students at Yale each year.

SILENT AND - - WELL

During rush hours, he told the Royal Health Society, people stand with noses and throats as close as 12 to 18 inches. "The people traditionally do not converse and therefore are not unduly susceptible to infectious diseases," he said.

NAIL GROWTH

NEW YORK (UPI) — Speed of nail growth varies among individuals, but in a given person generally growth is relatively constant throughout life.

Growth is increased, however, in nail biters, and during pregnancy it is decreased by acute infections, chronic disease and malnutrition, reports Dr. Maarten S. Sibinga, of New York University.

Americans use nearly 780 gallons of petroleum a year per person, says the American Petroleum Institute. This is about 13 times the amount used by the average person in the rest of the Free World.

Television and Radio

by John Crosby

Deification Of Devils

The detailed and frightfully accurate re-enactment of famous crimes is a fairly new and fertile field of dramatic exploration. Crime, God knows, is old stuff. But real criminals painstakingly treated as historical characters are brand new and rather disturbing protagonists—I hesitate to call them heroes—all over the movie marquees and, increasingly, television screens.

The movie mob is way ahead of TV in this regard with such movies as "Al Capone," "The Purple Gang," "The Rise and Fall of Legs Diamond," "Jack the Ripper"—all of which are doing rather alarmingly well at the box office, especially with the teen crowd. On television we have had Playhouse 90's "Seven Against the Wall" about the St. Valentine's day massacre and most recently "John Dillinger—A Year to Kill" which CBS put on as a special the other night.

I must say I found the Dillinger story, which was produced by John Houseman and directed by Mel Ferber, absolutely fascinating, if morally a little disturbing. It started at the end, really, with the FBI clustering like grapes around the Biograph Theater where they were later to mow down Dillinger, and then flashed back to his bloody year of bank robbery.

The education of Dillinger in prison under Harry Pierpont, the marvelously planned and executed robbery of banks, the meticulous casing of the banks, the rather casual killing of cops and a sheriff all held one spellbound, dramatically speaking. But also it bothered me a little. A good short course in bank robbery, I kept thinking, though I suppose it could also be called a good short course in the prevention of bank robbery, too.

But you can's escape the feeling that this is the glorification of gangsterism, even though this is a very honest documentary. The bad guys get it in the end—but for an hour they have led a pretty glorious and adventurous life. With all the movies around, I can't help feeling that hero worship of hoodlums is being used to turn a pretty profit for some not very scrupulous film makers and I hate to see TV get mixed up in this sort of thing.

This particular show was to have been the first of a series called "The Lawbreakers" which somehow got sidetracked. It was very well directed, and produced, and cast, and had great flavor and authenticity. Ralph Meeker played Dillinger with quiet authority.

Another weekend special, which I found utterly delightful, was "The Devil and Daniel Webster" with Edward G. Robinson and David Wayne. This was Stephen Vincent Benet's dramatization of an old New Hampshire legend about how Daniel Webster won a farmer's soul from the Devil in a nocturnal court of law. The farmer had sold his soul to the Devil in a moment of helpless, and perhaps justifiable, exasperation with the Lord.

Wayne was a very gracious, charming, thoroughly Yankee Devil, whose glee at leading a mortal astray was a delight to behold. Robinson was the very image of the great New England spellbinder, who undertakes at the risk of his own soul a legal defense against hopeless odds. The play abounds in delicious irony and fine flourishes of speech, which alone made the drama worth watching. It's not often that we hear the language spoken with any style and gusto and proper appreciation on television. It was fresh, different, and grown-up drama.

The other little TV goodie—for us New Yorkers anyway—was a three-hour seminar on the David Susskind show of comedy writers. Scratch a gag writer, I've always said, and you'll find a frustrated comedian and sometimes a very good one. Susskind got together six of the best comedy writers in the business—Mel Brooks, Mel Tonkin, Larry Gelbart, Charlie Andrews (who is more producer in recent years, though he's been a writer), Jack Douglas, and Sheldon Keller — six guys who have written variously for everybody — Bob Hope, Red Buttons, Red Skelton, Sid Caesar, Jack Paar, Jackie Gleason—well, name anybody.

They chewed up the whole profession fairly mercilessly scattering quips like hail. Gelbart and Brooks are formidable comics in their own right. When they got on the subject of the laugh machine, I fell down laughing. The comedians, Gelbart implied, now warm up the machine. "The jokes don't have to be funny any more. You just ask the man who runs the machine how his finger is feeling." It was all edged as broken glass and very perceptive. None of the boys will ever work again but they had their moment of glory.

College Seeking Two Dormitories

R. Bowen Hardesty, president of Frostburg State Teachers College, yesterday told a Senate finance committee in Annapolis that the college is in dire need of two dormitories.

Hardesty spoke at a hearing designed to discuss budget problems of the Department of Education and various college needs. Sen. William S. James of Hartford County presided.

The college head pointed out that dormitories for men and women students would cost approximately $425,000 each. Both were left out of the 1960 budget, but Gov. J. Millard Tawes stated a week ago that he was considering one new dormitory for the college.

Hardesty said there are 401 students housed in present dormitories, 33 per cent beyond normal capacity. The City of Frostburg was canvassed for living quarters in private homes and 70 students were accommodated, he added.

"Providing one new dormitory is included in the budget," Sen. James asked, "which (men or women) would be preferred?"

Although FSTC has approximately 50 per cent male students, Hardesty said he would prefer a women's dorm. Estimated attendance at the college next year will be about 1,000 as compared to over 800 now.

Hardesty said 311 applications for admittance to the college, along with checks, have been received. However, no one has been notified of acceptance due to the dormitory problem.

Sen. Charles M. See of Allegany County asked about a radius for students (usually about 20 miles).

Due to weather conditions and limited transportation, Hardesty said, the radius rule does not apply to Frostburg.

Hardesty pointed out that 22 Cumberland students are residing in Frostburg homes at their own expense. Others who have been "screened" are living in dormitories.

With Hardesty at the hearing were Ivan C. Diehl, dean of instruction at FSTC; James Hosack, an instructor, and two students, Miss Bessie Bailey and Miss Irene Guy.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Right now I'm nursing a black eye and I can't see well enough to try out for the senior class play. In fact, I'm having trouble typing this letter. My boy friend hit me.

He's really a swell kid when he controls his temper. We got into a silly argument and he flew off the handle.

My parents saw me this morning and I said I bumped into a door. If my dad knew the truth he'd kill the boy. He never did like him much.

I admit my feelings aren't quite the same but I'm afraid I'd be lonely without him. He begged for another chance and promised he'd never hit me again. I think I should tell you that he hit me once before but not in the eye. Should I give him just one more chance? — NOT SEEING CLEARLY

DEAR NOT SEEING: Even with one eye you should be able to see the stripe of this skunk. Don't give him a third chance to knock you cold. Give him the air.

Be grateful for a preview of what he's REALLY like. Some girls fancy themselves in love after a few dates and actually marry fellows they hardly know. It's later that they learn the prince in shining armor has a dandy left hook.

DEAR ANN: My husband owns a small business where every penny counts. He's going on a convention trip and taking his secretary along as she knows a great deal more about the business than he does. (He inherited her from the former owner.)

Last night he asked if I'd mind if they traveled as Mr. and Mrs. to save money on the airline family plan.

I know what you're thinking but you're wrong. There is nothing going on between these two. It's strictly business. Just tell me if you think it would be all right to use this money-saving device. — PRACTICAL AGGIE

DEAR AGGIE: How practical can you get?

Tell your husband to let Miss Whatchamacallit use her own name and not try to take the airline for a few bucks by employing this shoddy device. Let him know your name means too much to lend it out so casually.

DEAR ANN: My mother died in April. Her dying wish was that we take my brother Roy into our home. My wife was present and gave me the go signal, so I made the promise.

Roy is 22 and was always a problem. He quit school at 17 and ran off with a magazine crew. When he came home the Army took him. We hoped that would straighten him out but it didn't.

He has a job in a machine shop now and makes good money but he spends everything on girls. He's supposed to pay us $15 a week for board and room but he hasn't paid anything since September.

He criticizes my wife's cooking and ironing. He's mean to our two sons. My wife has become so furious with him that she's gone to bed with a sick headache.

I'd like to kick him out but my mother's memory haunts me. What shall I do? — DISTURBED

DEAR DISTURBED: The Bible says you are your brother's keeper, but it doesn't say you should keep your brother in your home and allow him to destroy your marriage.

You fulfilled your obligation to your mother when you took Roy in to live with you. He made the arrangement unworkable because of his impossible behavior. Throw the bum out.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

JUICY DISCOVERY

HONOLULU (UPI) — Christopher Columbus discovered both the New World and pineapple, a major product of its newest state. The Pineapple Growers' Association of Hawaii says the fruit, a native of Brazil, was found by Columbus on his second voyage to America. The date of its transplanting to the 50th state is unknown, but the first recorded evidence appeared in 1883. About 80 per cent of the pineapple sold in the United States today is Hawaiian-grown.

Lee Appointed Traveling Freight Agent By B&O

ROBERT E. LEE

Robert E. Lee, Toledo, Ohio, has been appointed traveling freight agent for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at Cumberland, according to L. W. Brown, Cumberland Division freight agent.

Lee, formerly freight representative at Toledo, succeeds Kenneth Roloson who was transferred to Lima, Ohio, where he will be traveling freight agent.

The new traveling freight agent here began his career with the B&O in July 1945 at Cincinnati, and from 1945 through 1951, he worked at various freight and ticket agency positions in the Cincinnati Terminal District.

From 1951 to 1953, he served in the armed forces and on his return he was appointed passenger agent at Cincinnati.

In 1958, he was transferred to the Freight Traffic Department and appointed freight representative at Toledo.

CORRECTS MYTH

NEW YORK (UPI) — The fable that more women than men lie about their age is scotched by an eight-year study conducted by Dr. Nathan Massor, of Staten Island.

"Lying occurred more frequently in the middle age group, 30 to 50 years, with the male sex predominating the overall percentage of liars," Dr. Massor reported.

SWEATER BUYING HINTS

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — When buying a sweater, check for straight seams in front, back and sleeves, advise clothing specialists at the University of Nebraska. The seams should be stitched securely and covered to keep cut edges of fabric from raveling. Seam ends should be fastened securely. Tape at neckline and shoulders helps sweaters retain their shape.

2 ♥	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♣	Pass
5 ♥	Pass	6 ♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Four of ♣

The final contract of six spades was sound enough. North felt that he had too much high card strength for a preemptive bid, so he opened with one heart, but then proceeded to back pedal until his partner had bid all the other suits. North now made one try in the form of a jump over game to five hearts, and South who had received a spade preference earlier accepted the invitation by bidding six spades.

West, for his lead, made the unhappy choice of a club. A heart opening would have settled the issue at once, but having five trumps West was disinclined to open a singleton. After the dummy's queen of clubs held the first trick, it looked like smooth sailing until declarer tested out the trump suit and got the bad news. His next play was the king of diamonds which East took. East, following the line of least resistance, returned a club and declarer's work was done. He extracted trumps and discarded the losing club and diamond on dummy's top hearts.

East's defense had lacked inspiration. A heart return by him would have broken the contract and was called for under the evidence. That West has more trumps than dummy is quite apparent. Otherwise declarer would have seven trumps which his rebids would seem to deny. If declarer has two hearts, West is void and will ruff. If declarer has only one heart the dummy will become separated from his own hand and no discards will be available.

A post-mortem analysis with all hands in view, reveals that declarer cannot be beaten after the opening lead if he draws all the trumps because East eventually gets squeezed. The latter can discard two clubs and three diamonds. Now he must duck the king of diamonds, but when a club is led to declarer's ace East has to blank down to the ace of diamonds. A diamond lead now throws him in to present dummy with the balance of the tricks.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Right now I'm nursing a black eye and I can't see well enough to try out for the senior class play. In fact, I'm having trouble typing this letter. My boy friend hit me.

He's really a swell kid when he controls his temper. We got into a silly argument and he flew off the handle.

My parents saw me this morning and I said I bumped into a door. If my dad knew the truth he'd kill the boy. He never did like him much.

I admit my feelings aren't quite the same but I'm afraid I'd be lonely without him. He begged for another chance and promised he'd never hit me again. I think I should tell you that he hit me once before but not in the eye. Should I give him just one more chance? — NOT SEEING CLEARLY

DEAR NOT SEEING: Even with one eye you should be able to see the stripe of this skunk. Don't give him a third chance to knock you cold. Give him the air.

Be grateful for a preview of what he's REALLY like. Some girls fancy themselves in love after a few dates and actually marry fellows they hardly know. It's later that they learn the prince in shining armor has a dandy left hook.

DEAR ANN: My husband owns a small business where every penny counts. He's going on a convention trip and taking his secretary along as she knows a great deal more about the business than he does. (He inherited her from the former owner.)

Last night he asked if I'd mind if they traveled as Mr. and Mrs. to save money on the airline family plan.

I know what you're thinking but you're wrong. There is nothing going on between these two. It's strictly business. Just tell me if you think it would be all right to use this money-saving device. — PRACTICAL AGGIE

DEAR AGGIE: How practical can you get?

Tell your husband to let Miss Whatchamacallit use her own name and not try to take the airline for a few bucks by employing this shoddy device. Let him know your name means too much to lend it out so casually.

DEAR ANN: My mother died in April. Her dying wish was that we take my brother Roy into our home. My wife was present and gave me the go signal, so I made the promise.

Roy is 22 and was always a problem. He quit school at 17 and ran off with a magazine crew. When he came home the Army took him. We hoped that would straighten him out but it didn't.

He has a job in a machine shop now and makes good money but he spends everything on girls. He's supposed to pay us $15 a week for board and room but he hasn't paid anything since September.

He criticizes my wife's cooking and ironing. He's mean to our two sons. My wife has become so furious with him that she's gone to bed with a sick headache.

I'd like to kick him out but my mother's memory haunts me. What shall I do? — DISTURBED

DEAR DISTURBED: The Bible says you are your brother's keeper, but it doesn't say you should keep your brother in your home and allow him to destroy your marriage.

You fulfilled your obligation to your mother when you took Roy in to live with you. He made the arrangement unworkable because of his impossible behavior. Throw the bum out.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

JUICY DISCOVERY

HONOLULU (UPI) — Christopher Columbus discovered both the New World and pineapple, a major product of its newest state. The Pineapple Growers' Association of Hawaii says the fruit, a native of Brazil, was found by Columbus on his second voyage to America. The date of its transplanting to the 50th state is unknown, but the first recorded evidence appeared in 1883. About 80 per cent of the pineapple sold in the United States today is Hawaiian-grown.

Lee Appointed Traveling Freight Agent By B&O

ROBERT E. LEE

Robert E. Lee, Toledo, Ohio, has been appointed traveling freight agent for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at Cumberland, according to L. W. Brown, Cumberland Division freight agent.

Lee, formerly freight representative at Toledo, succeeds Kenneth Roloson who was transferred to Lima, Ohio, where he will be traveling freight agent.

The new traveling freight agent here began his career with the B&O in July 1945 at Cincinnati, and from 1945 through 1951, he worked at various freight and ticket agency positions in the Cincinnati Terminal District.

From 1951 to 1953, he served in the armed forces and on his return he was appointed passenger agent at Cincinnati.

In 1958, he was transferred to the Freight Traffic Department and appointed freight representative at Toledo.

CORRECTS MYTH

NEW YORK (UPI) — The fable that more women than men lie about their age is scotched by an eight-year study conducted by Dr. Nathan Massor, of Staten Island.

"Lying occurred more frequently in the middle age group, 30 to 50 years, with the male sex predominating the overall percentage of liars," Dr. Massor reported.

SWEATER BUYING HINTS

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — When buying a sweater, check for straight seams in front, back and sleeves, advise clothing specialists at the University of Nebraska. The seams should be stitched securely and covered to keep cut edges of fabric from raveling. Seam ends should be fastened securely. Tape at neckline and shoulders helps sweaters retain their shape.

3 ♠	Pass	4 ♣	Pass
5 ♥	Pass	6 ♠	Pass

Opening lead: Four of ♣

The final contract of six spades was sound enough. North felt that he had too much high card strength for a preemptive bid, so he opened with one heart, but then proceeded to back pedal until his partner had bid all the other suits. North now made one try in the form of a jump over game to five hearts, and South who had received a spade preference earlier accepted the invitation by bidding six spades.

West, for his lead, made the unhappy choice of a club. A heart opening would have settled the issue at once, but having five trumps West was disinclined to open a singleton. After the dummy's queen of clubs held the first trick, it looked like smooth sailing until declarer tested out the trump suit and got the bad news. His next play was the king of diamonds which East took. East, following the line of least resistance, returned a club and declarer's work was done. He extracted trumps and discarded the losing club and diamond on dummy's top hearts.

East's defense had lacked inspiration. A heart return by him would have broken the contract and was called for under the evidence. That West has more trumps than dummy is quite apparent. Otherwise declarer would have seven trumps which his rebids would seem to deny. If declarer has two hearts, West is void and will ruff. If declarer has only one heart the dummy will become separated from his own hand and no discards will be available.

A post-mortem analysis with all hands in view, reveals that declarer cannot be beaten after the opening lead if he draws all the trumps because East eventually gets squeezed. The latter can discard two clubs and three diamonds. Now he must duck the king of diamonds, but when a club is led to declarer's ace East has to blank down to the ace of diamonds. A diamond lead now throws him in to present dummy with the balance of the tricks.

W.Va. Jobless To Be Given Garden Seeds

Grow Your Own Project Planned

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Preliminary plans to provide each unemployed bread - winner in West Virginia with about $5 worth of seeds, plants and fertilizer to grow his own home vegetable garden have been completed.

State Agriculture Commissioner John T. Johnson said Thursday, under plans worked out in cooperation with the West Virginia University agricultural extension service, the department will buy carrot, beet, kale, radish and bean seed and onion sets and use of the unemployed to package kits of two sizes.

One kit will contain seed for a 2,000 - square - foot garden, enough to serve a family of five, Johnson said. The larger, 3,000-square-foot garden kit will contain sweet corn and additional beans.

Johnson said that counties selected to participate in the garden program — most of them in the southern coal fields — will be asked to form local committees to help secure suitable garden land and distribute bulky garden items such as fertilizer and plants.

Johnson said special gardening classes also will be held but it was not determined whether the unemployed will have to attend the classes in order to get the seeds.

The 1960 Legislature's economic relief program included $300,000 to the agriculture department for the garden program, an improved oak wilt survey and additional farm market facilities. The department tentatively allocated $30,000 for the garden program.

Johnson said he will meet with WVU extension officials again within a week to work out more detailed plans on the subject. Meanwhile, he said, his staff will begin immediately to set up administrative procedures and to call meetings of local groups.

The theme is "Five Nights With God."

Sen. Bean Says Vetoes Mistake

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Gov. Cecil H. Underwood's veto Wednesday of two bills pertaining to employment of the jobless on state projects was described "as a grave mistake" Thursday by State Senate President Ralph J. Bean.

"The bills simply would have given the unemployed priority in going to work on certain state projects," Bean said. "It is apparent to me that the governor was not too sincere in his announced intention to put the unemployed to work."

Bean said he thought Underwood made "a grave mistake in vetoing them and apparently some members of his own party feel the same way because many Republicans voted for at least one of the two measures vetoed."

Oldtown PTA Endorses Plan For Library

OLDTOWN — The Oldtown Parent-Teacher Association met Tuesday night and voiced approval of the Allegany County library plan.

Miss Mabel Twigg read the scripture and led the group in the PTA prayer. Calvin Wolfe had charge of the flag salute. Mrs. Donald Workman, Mrs. Raymond Lapp and Mrs. Jack Murray, of the Child Study Group at Parkside School in La-Vale, presented a play. They were introduced by Mrs. Frank Gamble.

A question and answer session was conducted by Mrs. Joseph Steger. Participating were Mrs. Calvin Wolfe, Mrs. Irvin Allen, Mrs. Lacy Simmons, Mrs. Jesse Shipe, Mrs. Floyd Wolfe and Guy Evans.

Preceding the business meeting, George Ruhl took pictures of the homeroom mothers and the PTA executive board for the senior yearbook. Mrs. Eugene Carder announced there are 109 paid up members. A letter of resignation from Lawrence Mallery, Scout leader, was read by Mrs. Lionel Davis.

The group agreed to sponsor a square dance and Mrs. Alice Harris, teacher, was appointed to serve on the library committee.

The first attendance award was won by Miss Mabel Twigg's First Grade and the second award by Mr. William Turner's Eleventh Grade. Refreshments were served by the homeroom mothers of Miss Twigg's and Mrs. Nellie Nixon's homerooms.

Allegheny Mountain Club Hold Annual Swing

KEYSER — Approximately 100 persons were present for the open house meeting of the Allegheny Mountain Square Dance Club Wednesday evening when the traditional "Sweetheart Swing" was held at the Moose Home.

A United Nations theme prevailed throughout the program which included both folk dancing and square dancing under the direction of Al Schwinabart and Joseph Blundon.

The hall was decorated with Japanese lanterns providing an oriental setting for the event which was under general planning of Thomas Conlon, president, and the following committee: Mrs. Virginia Rawlings, chairman, Mrs. Norma Sudine and Mrs. Dorothy Howdyshell.

Various dances featured were those from Yugoslavia, Greece, Israel, Arabia, Persia and Scotland. American square and circle dances were also presented as part of the evenings entertainment.

Highlighting the program was a discussion of Persian and Egyptian dances by Jahangir Gaznavi, a native of Persia, who is now attending Potomac State College as a chemical engineering student.

A group from the Scottish class, attired in the traditional Highlanders costumes, presented three numbers: "Triumph," "Waverly," and "Money Musk." Participating were Joseph and Gwyanne Blundon, Claude Digman and Joy Morris, Donald Hott and Georgia Stieding, and Rudy and Genva Steinberger. The latter three are from Cumberland.

Other guests for the evening who added to the international theme were: Miss Christine Arfsten, of Germany, a regular member of the club; James Fraser, of Keyser, a native of Scotland, and Asadollah Jabbarpour, of Persia, who is also a student of Potomac State.

The local dancers will join members of the club from Allegany Ballistics Laboratory for a square dance tonight at the Corriganville Fire Hall.

Mr. Kenney has successfully passed all requirements necessary for diamond grading and evaluation and holds a certificate issued by the institute following a proctored examination.

Chamber Of Commerce Says W.Va. Legislature Failed To Meet Problems

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The West Virginia Chamber of Commerce said Thursday the so-called budget sessions of the Legislature have not accomplshed the purpose for which they were intended.

In the final of its regular reports to members, the chamber said the 1960 session "was a far cry from the quiet budget sessions envisioned when the people adopted the constitutional amendment designed to improve the budget - making process.

"Further expansion of the subjects considered by the Legislature will inevitably result in hasty, ill - advised legislation not in the best interests of the state's citizens."

The chamber included a "box score" of the three 30-day budget sessions showing that the number of bills introduced outside the governor's call increased from 60 to 109 and the number of bills passed from 16 to 38 between 1956 and 1960.

The business organization also issued a revised estimate of the state's tax burden for 1960-61. It listed the total, including state spending and the state's share of the federal budget, at $938,100,000.

PWO Meets

FROSTBURG—The Presbyterian Womens Organization met a recent evening with Mrs. Blaine Willetts in charge. Members held a group discussion on Scriptures from the Book of Exodus, "Why God Lets Us Suffer," a reading from the Hi-Way magazine was given by Mrs. Willetts.

Mrs. Francis Richardson urged all women to attend the meeting of the Council of Church women to be held March 4.

Church Organizes New Bible Class

PIEDMONT — A new adult Bible class for men and women of the Presbyterian Church was organized Tuesday evening.

The temporary officers are Mrs. Robert W. Bess Jr., president; Mrs. Robert E. Kimmel Jr., vice president, and Mrs. Joseph Sarfino, secretary-treasurer.

The first meeting of the class will be held Sunday. For the time being the meetings will be held in the minister's study.

Grow Your Own Project Planned

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Preliminary plans to provide each unemployed bread - winner in West Virginia with about $5 worth of seeds, plants and fertilizer to grow his own home vegetable garden have been completed.

State Agriculture Commissioner John T. Johnson said Thursday, under plans worked out in cooperation with the West Virginia University agricultural extension service, the department will buy carrot, beet, kale, radish and bean seed and onion sets and use of the unemployed to package kits of two sizes.

One kit will contain seed for a 2,000 - square - foot garden, enough to serve a family of five, Johnson said. The larger, 3,000-square-foot garden kit will contain sweet corn and additional beans.

Johnson said that counties selected to participate in the garden program — most of them in the southern coal fields — will be asked to form local committees to help secure suitable garden land and distribute bulky garden items such as fertilizer and plants.

Johnson said special gardening classes also will be held but it was not determined whether the unemployed will have to attend the classes in order to get the seeds.

The 1960 Legislature's economic relief program included $300,000 to the agriculture department for the garden program, an improved oak wilt survey and additional farm market facilities. The department tentatively allocated $30,000 for the garden program.

Johnson said he will meet with WVU extension officials again within a week to work out more detailed plans on the subject. Meanwhile, he said, his staff will begin immediately to set up administrative procedures and to call meetings of local groups.

Furlough Ends

FROSTBURG — Leslie Leroy Davis has returned to Norfolk after spending a furlough with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Davis 62 Spring Street.

SPEAKER — Rev. Ronald Starnes of Dagsboro, Del., will speak at the Spiritual Life Mission in Centerville (Pa.) Methodist Church, beginning Monday. A graduate of Wesley Theological Seminary in Washington, he served as assistant pastor at St. Paul's Church in Wilmington, Del. Daily mission services will be held at 8 p. m. The theme is "Five Nights With God."

Sen. Bean Says Vetoes Mistake

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Gov. Cecil H. Underwood's veto Wednesday of two bills pertaining to employment of the jobless on state projects was described "as a grave mistake" Thursday by State Senate President Ralph J. Bean.

"The bills simply would have given the unemployed priority in going to work on certain state projects," Bean said. "It is apparent to me that the governor was not too sincere in his announced intention to put the unemployed to work."

Bean said he thought Underwood made "a grave mistake in vetoing them and apparently some members of his own party feel the same way because many Republicans voted for at least one of the two measures vetoed."

Plans Crackdown

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI) — Plans for a crack-down on West Virginia residents of this area who use licenses plates on their car instead of more expensive Mountain State plates were announced Thursday by Ohio County Sheriff Warren Pugh.

The word "taboo" was first used by South Sea Islanders to denote certain forbidden things, words or acts, according to the National Geographic Society.

WESTERNPORT — Mrs. Edrund Getty, Church Street returned from visiting at Leesburg and other points in Florida.

Engineers To Mark 10th Anniversary

KEYSER — The tenth annual observence of National Engineers' week will be held throughout the country during the coming week under the general sponsorship of the National Society of Professional Engineers. The 10-year-old observance is intended to tell the general public about engineers and their work.

Activities will include career conferences for high school seniors; guided tours of industrial firms; the awarding of scholarships; radio and television programs; exhibits and talks by professional engineers.

The theme for this week is "Engineering's Great Challenge —the 1960's."

Oldtown PTA Endorses Plan For Library

OLDTOWN — The Oldtown Parent-Teacher Association met Tuesday night and voiced approval of the Allegany County library plan.

Miss Mabel Twigg read the scripture and led the group in the PTA prayer. Calvin Wolfe had charge of the flag salute. Mrs. Donald Workman, Mrs. Raymond Lapp and Mrs. Jack Murray, of the Child Study Group at Parkside School in LaVale, presented a play. They were introduced by Mrs. Frank Gamble.

A question and answer session was conducted by Mrs. Joseph Steger. Participating were Mrs. Calvin Wolfe, Mrs. Irvin Allen, Mrs. Lacy Simmons, Mrs. Jesse Shipe, Mrs. Floyd Wolfe and Guy Evans.

Preceding the business meeting, George Ruhl took pictures of the homeroom mothers and the PTA executive board for the senior yearbook. Mrs. Eugene Carder announced there are 109 paid up members. A letter of resignation from Lawrence Mallery, Scout leader, was read by Mrs. Lionel Davis.

The group agreed to sponsor a square dance and Mrs. Alice Harris, teacher, was appointed to serve on the library committee.

The first attendance award was won by Miss Mabel Twigg's First Grade and the second award by Mr. William Turner's Eleventh Grade. Refreshments were served by the homeroom mothers of Miss Twigg's and Mrs. Nellie Nixon's homerooms.

Allegheny Mountain Club Hold Annual Swing

KEYSER — Approximately 100 persons were present for the open house meeting of the Allegheny Mountain Square Dance Club Wednesday evening when the traditional "Sweetheart Swing" was held at the Moose Home.

A United Nations theme prevailed throughout the program which included both folk dancing and square dancing under the direction of Al Schwinabart and Joseph Blundon.

The hall was decorated with Japanese lanterns providing an oriental setting for the event which was under general planning of Thomas Conlon, president, and the following committee: Mrs. Virginia Rawlings, chairman, Mrs. Norma Sudine and Mrs. Dorothy Howdyshell.

Various dances featured were those from Yugoslavia, Greece, Israel, Arabia, Persia and Scotland. American square and circle dances were also presented as part of the evenings entertainment.

Highlighting the program was a discussion of Persian and Egyptian dances by Jahangir Gaznavi, a native of Persia, who is now attending Potomac State College as a chemical engineering student.

A group from the Scottish class, attired in the traditional Highlanders costumes, presented three numbers: "Triumph," "Waverly," and "Money Musk." Participating were Joseph and Gwyanne Blundon, Claude Digman and Joy Morris, Donald Hott and Georgia Stieding, and Rudy and Genva Steinberger. The latter three are from Cumberland.

Other guests for the evening who added to the international theme were: Miss Christine Arfsten, of Germany, a regular member of the club; James Fraser, of Keyser, a native of Scotland, and Asadollah Jabbarpour, of Persia, who is also a student of Potomac State.

Heart Fund Organizes In No. Garrett

Plan Solicitation On February 28

GRANTSVILLE — Three active residents of Grantsville are in charge of the Heart Fund campaign throughout the month of February in northern Garrett County.

D. W. Hershberger has assumed the responsibility for contacting all business places and Mrs. H. C. Edwards will contact all church organizations and civic clubs. Mrs. Irva Mickey will be in charge of the Heart Sunday drive February 28 when the door-to-door solicitation will be made.

All three are members of the board of directors of the Allegany-Garrett County Heart Association, which seeks an overall goal of $20,205 this month from the two counties.

Hershberger is a past president of the Grantsville Rotary Club and area chairman of rural development in Garrett County. He has been active in Boy Scout wor? and interested in the Tri-State area Youth for Christ program. A past president of the Allegany-Garrett Independent Insurance Agents Association, he is on the board of the State Agents Association, a past commander and present service officer of the American Legion and chairman of the Garrett County Legion Child Welfare Fund.

Mrs. Edwards is the wife of a former member of the House of Delegates, Harry C. Edwards. A native of Garrett County, she is active in the Church School of the Methodist Church, teacher of junior girls and superintendent of the children's department. She also has been active in the Homemakers Club and Grantsville Firemen's Auxiliary.

A resident of Garrett County for 35 years, Mrs. Mickey has lived in Grantsville since 1943. Also a member of the Methodist Church, she has been active in church and civic work, formerly having served 14 years as superintendent of the Church School. She now is the assistant superintendent.

Mrs. Mickey, counselor of Methodist Youth Fellowship groups for 14 years, has been engaged in Moorefield district work of the Woman's Society of Christian Service for 13 years. A past president of the Northern High School PTA, she is immediate past president of the Garrett County Council of Parents and Teachers. She is also secretary and treasurer of both the Grantsville Cemetery, Inc., and Casselman Valley Sportsmen, Inc.

Make Honor Roll

LONACONING — Leslie Byers and Tommy Devlin made the Valley High School Honor Roll and their names are listed with the eighth grade on the front bulletin in the main lobby.

NAMED MANAGER — Carey E. Lindsay, formerly general superintendent of the clay and silica refractories plants at Frostburg, Niles, Ohio, and Van Dyke, Pa., of the Mexico Refractories Company, has been named production manager of the Kaiser Refractories & Chemicals Division, which includes five eastern area plants. Mexico Refractories recently merged with the Kaiser organization and Mr. Lindsay is remembered for his work at the local plant in Zihlman several years ago.

FROSTBURG—Fifteen persons will be baptized Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at the First Assembly of God Church, Westernport by Rev. George LeRoy, pastor of the Frostburg Assembly of God Church. Hilda Groves, an English missionary will be guest speaker. The church bus will provide free transportation for all wishing to attend.

Pastor LeRoy also announced that a prayer meeting will be held today at 7:30 p.m. at the church.

Persons desiring to attend Sunday School and Church services are asked to call OV 9-6565 and free transportation will be provided.

Attends School

FROSTBURG—Robert J. Kenney, proprietor of the Hosken Jewelry Store attended diamond appraisal and evaluation classes conducted by the Gemological Institute of America in Washington, D. C. Mr. Kenney has successfully passed all requirements necessary for diamond grading and evaluation and holds a certificate issued by the institute following a proctored examination.

Chamber Of Commerce Says W.Va. Legislature Failed To Meet Problems

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The West Virginia Chamber of Commerce said Thursday the so-called budget sessions of the Legislature have not accomplshed the purpose for which they were intended.

In the final of its regular reports to members, the chamber said the 1960 session "was a far cry from the quiet budget sessions envisioned when the people adopted the constitutional amendment designed to improve the budget - making process.

"Further expansion of the subjects considered by the Legislature will inevitably result in hasty, ill - advised legislation not in the best interests of the state's citizens."

The chamber included a "box score" of the three 30-day budget sessions showing that the number of bills introduced outside the governor's call increased from 60 to 109 and the number of bills passed from 16 to 38 between 1956 and 1960.

The business organization also issued a revised estimate of the state's tax burden for 1960-61. It listed the total, including state spending and the state's share of the federal budget, at $938,100,000.

PWO Meets

FROSTBURG—The Presbyterian Womens Organization met a recent evening with Mrs. Blaine Willetts in charge. Members held a group discussion on Scriptures from the Book of Exodus. "Why God Lets Us Suffer," a reading from the Hi-Way magazine was given by Mrs. Willetts.

Mrs. Francis Richardson urged all women to attend the meeting of the Council of Church women to be held March 4.

Church Organizes New Bible Class

PIEDMONT — A new adult Bible class for men and women of the Presbyterian Church was organized Tuesday evening.

The temporary officers are Mrs. Robert W. Bess Jr., president; Mrs. Robert E. Kimmel Jr., vice president, and Mrs. Joseph Sarfino, secretary-treasurer.

The first meeting of the class will be held Sunday. For the time being the meetings will be held in the minister's study.

Visits Mother

WESTERNPORT — Miss Jo-Ann Herbert, San Francisco, Calif., a stewardess on the American Air Lines is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Herbert, Maryland Avenue.

Keyser Bank Addition Job Is Started

KEYSER—Work on the expansion of the National Bank began this week, according to Paul J. Davis, president.

A contract for the addition and remodeling of the bank was awarded to William A. Shirer, of Oakland, for the sum of $105,000. Shirer is a graduate of Potomac State College and was the contractor for the new addition to Grace Methodist Church which was recently completed.

The architect for the expansion is Ted Engleharct, Silver Spring, Md.

Davis, in announcing the remodeling plans, said the new unit will include the building recently vacated by the state liquor store. It will measure 30 by 61 feet and include two stories with complete heating and airconditioning units on both the first and second floors.

The addition will include a directors' room, a storage and supply room, a room for records and the vault, a bookkeeping department, four new teller windows and three additional offices.

Space on the second floor will be available for rental, as well as the back of the first floor which has been leased to the C&P Telephone Company.

The present bank was remodeled about 1953.

Stuart F. Hamill Named To Garrett Orphans Court

OAKLAND — The appointment of Stuart F. Hamill Sr., local attorney, as a member of the Orphans Court for Garrett County has been announced. He was recommended for the office by the Democratic State Central Committee.

Hamill will fill the vacancy created by the death of C. F. Hammond several weeks ago, and will serve until the regular election in 1962. The other two members of the court include Roy Turney, of Accident, and Truman C. Bittinger, of Oakland.

Brief Mention

Loar Auxiliary of Garrett County Memorial Hospital will meet tomorrow at 7:30 in the board room of the hospital.

The annual examinations for senatorial and teacher education scholarships will be given Saturday, February 27, at 9:30 a. m. in Southern High School.

Southern High PTA To Hear Teenage Panel

OAKLAND—"Teenage Drivers and School" will be discussed at the Southern High School PTA meeting Monday, Charles Briner, president announced.

A panel moderated by Robert Wooters, program chairman, will be composed of students, Ernest Spoerlein, guidance counselor, and Eugene Flinn, driver education teacher. Students taking part in this program include Ann Lee Lohr, Maurice Brookhart and Rodney Barkhurst.

Also to be discussed is the Maryland Congress of PTA's support of the state teachers' salary program.

Carl Everly, vice principal, will represent the high school at the meeting. Prior to the business session, which will begin at 8 p. m., teachers will be in their homerooms for parent conferences. Spoerlein will also be available for conferences.

Tri-Hi-Y Club Plans Dinner

LONACONING — A novel project will be sponsored by Valley High School's Senior Tri-Hi-Y Club under the leadership of Miss Mary M. Sterbutzel, faculty sponsor.

A public spaghetti dinner will be served by the girls Thursday, March 3, at Midland fire hall to raise funds for their organization's spring activities.

Five members of the club chosen to attend the annual Youth and Government program in April at Annapolis, are Patricia McPartland, Roberta Love, Dorothy Robertson, Sara Lynn Snelson and Carole Ann High. The group will attend a pre-legislative program March 5 at the University of Maryland, College Park.

Patricia McPartland, Roberta Love, Jeanne Cutter and Dorothy Robertson are the dinner committee planning the first public spaghetti social which they hope to have as an annual affair.

Women Begin Bible Study

PIEDMONT—The intensive Bible study conducted annually by the Women of the Presbyterian Church will be held at 7:30 p.m. on four consecutive Sunday evenings beginning February 21. The program has been arranged by Mrs. Howard Kincer. The book of the Bible which will be presented this year is Genesis.

The discussions will be presented by four teachers; February 21, Mrs. Nellie McCoy; February 28, Mrs. William G. McIntyre; March 6, V. Browne Kooken and March 13, Dr. James H. Wolverton Jr.

These meetings will be held in the assembly room of the church and men and women and boys and girls are urged to attend.

Good Will Firemen To Attend Funeral

LONACONING — All members of Good Will Volunteer Fire Company No. 1 are requested by John Eichorn, president, to turn out in full uniform today at 1:15 p. m. at the Engine House, Douglas Avenue, to attend the funeral of their brother fireman, Mr. John R. Foote.

Student Transportation In Garrett County Rates Highest In Entire State

OAKLAND—Garrett County school bus transportation takes by far the largest percentage of current expense money for school transportation for any county in the state, according to figures released by the State Department of Education. The total percentage of county school current expense money used for transportation in Garrett County is 19.81 per cent as compared with 4.81 per cent for the state average, approximately four times as much.

Bus contractors in Garrett County are all paid the top dollar on the state formula for that purpose. There are no fleet owners or county-owned buses or bidding for routes which keep the cost down in some counties where such systems are employed. In addition, a vast area, sparsely populated, must be covered with small buses which are proportionately more costly to operate than large ones. The Garrett County Board of Education has provided bus service to isolated dirt road areas, a practice that cannot be extended further due to cost, it was stated by Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent.

Below State Average

While highest in transportation costs, Garrett County ranks below the state average in its expenditures in all other categories of school costs. In administration, Garrett County spends 2.29 per cent of its current expense budget as compared with 6.49 per cent in the highest county. It spends 66.29 per cent of its current expense budget for instructional services (mostly teacher salaries) as compared to 78.84 per cent in the highest county and 75.21 per cent state average. Plant operations (reflecting a low salary scale for school custodians) shows that 4.93 per cent of the Garrett County school budget is used for such purposes compared to 10.11 per cent for the highest county and 8.81 per cent for the state average. Maintenance in Garrett County costs 3.20 per cent of the current expense budget as compared to 5.62 per cent for the high county and 4.13 per cent for the state average. Fixed charges cost .89 per cent of the current expense budget as compared to 2.20 per cent in the highest county. Other school services in Garrett County cost 2.59 per cent of the total current expense budget whereas in the highest count 4.30 per cent for such purposes, while the state average is 3.40 per cent.

Average Pupil Cost

However, Garrett County ranks fourteenth in total per pupil belonging cost, or about average for the state. The amount spent is $310.25 per pupil per year. By comparison, in Harford County the amount spent per pupil is $311.22, or approximately the same as in Garrett. Of this amount, however, in Garrett County nearly $80 per pupil goes for transportation as against $35 in Harford County. This allows $45 per pupil more in Harford County to be spent for items of educational need than is available in Garrett County from the same amount of money spent per pupil. In addition, Harford County also receives federal funds for schools due to its location in a federally impacted area. Montgomery County shows the highest per pupil expenditure in the state at $363.06 per pupil. The lowest is shown in Anne Arundel at $288.65 per pupil. This county has a very low per pupil transportation cost. Both Montgomery and Anne Arundel counties get additional money from the federal government under the federally impacted area bill.

Transportation vs. Education

School transportation, although highly important and essential, does nothing to provide quality in education. Quality in education, Hawkins said, is determined by the kind of teachers available, the kind of supervisory program available, the kind of leadership available, the kind of textbooks, courses of study, instructional materials available, and by the kind of special instruction available, such as music, art, health, guidance, library services, etc. When the per pupil transportation cost is deducted from the total per pupil expenditure in Garrett County it drops from the $310 per pupil to approximately $230 per pupil, or the lowest in the state. In other words, Garrett ranks among the lowest in the state as far as the amount of money it has to spend on the education of each pupil is concerned.

Westernport Garbage Cards Go On Sale

WESTERNPORT — Garbage cards, on sale at the city clerk's office, must be acquired by April 1 in order for the citizens to have their garbage hauled away.

At the last council meeting it was decided cards could be paid for on an installment plan but fore the customer would receive the card.

At the meeting of Mayor Ray L. Wilt and Commissioners Wednesday evening only one person had begun payment on the installment plan, Mrs. Katherine Dailey, town clerk, reported.

Complaints have been received of throwing garbage in George's Creek and the Potomac River. The town officials are considering action to stop this unlawful practice.

Student Team To Preach At Keyser Church

KEYSER — Guest preacher at the Keyser Presbyterian Church Sunday will be William B. Cartwright, Raleigh, N.C., a student at Union Theological Seminary in Richmond, Va. He is one of a team of students who will be visiting the church Saturday and Sunday in a special "Youth Weekend."

Other members of the team are Robert Burch, Smithers, W. Va.; Robert Toler, Richmond, Va.; and James Barksdale, Rocky Mount, N.C.

Saturday's program includes supper at 6 p.m., recreation and closing devotional. Three of the students will teach in the church school on Sunday. Cartwright will preach and at 4 p.m. there will be discussion groups. Dinner will be served at 6 p.m. followed by the closing service of dedication.

The church wishes to thank Miss Jean Emily Frost, president of the Women of the Church, and her group for arranging overnight lodging for the students and for preparing meals.

Circles Sponsor Annual Supper

PIEDMONT — The Fellowship supper, sponsored by the Cave-Baughman and Stafford-Bess Circles of the Presbyterian Church, will be held at the church Thursday, February 25 at 6 p.m. Families are asked to bring covered dishes.

The World Missions, "In the Footsteps of Livingston", will be shown.

Keyser Bank Addition Job Is Started

KEYSER—Work on the expansion of the National Bank began this week, according to Paul J. Davis, president.

A contract for the addition and remodeling of the bank was awarded to William A. Shirer, of Oakland, for the sum of $105,000. Shirer is a graduate of Potomac State College and was the contractor for the new addition to Grace Methodist Church which was recently completed.

The architect for the expansion is Ted Englehardt, Silver Spring, Md.

Davis, in announcing the remodeling plans, said the new unit will include the building recently vacated by the state liquor store. It will measure 30 by 61 feet and include two stories with complete heating and airconditioning units on both the first and second floors.

The addition will include a directors' room, a storage and supply room, a room for records and the vault, a bookkeeping department, four new teller windows and three additional offices.

Space on the second floor will be available for rental, as well as the back of the first floor which has been leased to the C&P Telephone Company.

The present bank was remodeled about 1953.

Stuart F. Hamill Named To Garrett Orphans Court

OAKLAND — The appointment of Stuart F. Hamill Sr., local attorney, as a member of the Orphans Court for Garrett County has been announced. He was recommended for the office by the Democratic State Central Committee.

Hamill will fill the vacancy created by the death of C. F. Hammond several weeks ago, and will serve until the regular election in 1962. The other two members of the court include Roy Turney, of Accident, and Truman C. Bittinger, of Oakland.

Student Transportation In Garrett County Rates Highest In Entire State

OAKLAND—Garrett County school bus transportation takes by far the largest percentage of current expense money for school transportation for any county in the state, according to figures released by the State Department of Education. The total percentage of county school current expense money used for transportation in Garrett County is 19.81 per cent as compared with 4.81 per cent for the state average, approximately four times as much.

Bus contractors in Garrett County are all paid the top dollar on the state formula for that purpose. There are no fleet owners or county-owned buses or bidding for routes which keep the cost down in some counties where such systems are employed. In addition, a vast area, sparsely populated, must be covered with small buses which are proportionately more costly to operate than large ones. The Garrett County Board of Education has provided bus service to isolated dirt road areas, a practice that cannot be extended further due to cost, it was stated by Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent.

Below State Average

While highest in transportation costs, Garrett County ranks below the state average in its expenditures in all other categories of school costs. In administration, Garrett County spends 2.29 per cent of its current expense budget as compared with 6.49 per cent in the highest county. It spends 66.29 per cent of its current expense budget for instructional services (mostly teacher salaries) as compared to 78.84 per cent in the highest county and 75.21 per cent state average. Plant operations (reflecting a low salary scale for school custodians) shows that 4.93 per cent of the Garrett County school budget is used for such purposes compared to 10.11 per cent for the highest county and 8.81 per cent for the state average. Maintenance in Garrett County costs 3.20 per cent of the current expense budget as compared to 5.62 per cent for the high county and 4.13 per cent for the state average. Fixed charges cost .89 per cent of the current expense budget as compared to 2.20 per cent in the highest county. Other school services in Garrett County cost 2.59 per cent of the total current expense budget whereas in the highest count 4.30 per cent for such purposes, while the state average is 3.40 per cent.

Average Pupil Cost

However, Garrett County ranks fourteenth in total per pupil belonging cost, or about average for the state. The amount spent is $310.25 per pupil per year. By comparison, in Harford County the amount spent per pupil is $311.22, or approximately the same as in Garrett. Of this amount, however, in Garrett County nearly $80 per pupil goes for transportation as against $35 in Harford County. This allows $45 per pupil more in Harford County to be spent for items of educational need than is available in Garrett County from the same amount of money spent per pupil. In addition, Harford County also receives federal funds for schools due to its location in a federally impacted area. Montgomery County shows the highest per pupil expenditure in the state at $363.06 per pupil. The lowest is shown in Anne Arundel at $288.65 per pupil. This county has a very low per pupil transportation cost. Both Montgomery and Anne Arundel counties get additional money from the federal government under the federally impacted area bill.

Transportation vs. Education

School transportation, although highly important and essential, does nothing to provide quality in education. Quality in education, Hawkins said, is determined by the kind of teachers available, the kind of supervisory program available, the kind of leadership available, the kind of textbooks, courses of study, instructional materials available, and by the kind of special instruction available, such as music, art, health, guidance, library services, etc. When the per pupil transportation cost is deducted from the total per pupil expenditure in Garrett County it drops from the $310 per pupil to approximately $230 per pupil, or the lowest in the state. In other words, Garrett ranks among the lowest in the state as far as the amount of money it has to spend on the education of each pupil is concerned.

Lodge Sponsors Boys Bowling At Lonaconing

LONACONING — Rising Sun Lodge No. 86, Knights of Pythias, will begin a bowling tournament for boys in March. Trophies will be awarded in two divisions.

First round of the Junior Division will be rolled March 2 and 3 at Lefty's Place beginning at 6 p.m. Each bowler will pay twenty-five cents as his share for the three game set.

The same rules will apply for both junior and senior divisions in this bowling tournament.

Wednesday, March 2, will be the first round for Terry Broadwater, Robbie Robison; Glenn Riffey, Gary Sloan; Charles Muir, Ray Kiddy; Charles Lamberson, Charles Davis; Gary Nicol, Stephen James; James Doolan, Howard Hutcheson; Fred Sheeley, John Nightengale; Leslie Byers, Charles Schramm.

Thursday, March 3 is scheduled for George Schramm, Robert Hamilton; Danny Sloan, Dennis Moffatt; Roger Wilt, Douglas Ford; Joe Inskeep, Ronnie Whittington; James Whetzel, Fred Sloan; John Warnick, Gene House; George Hersick, Billy Brennan; Jim Smith, Keith Wilson; Bob Creighton.

Senior division will be rolled on March 5 at Lefty's Place beginning at 1 p.m. The foul line will be observed during the tournament. A bye being necessary in round 2, it has been decided that the bowler with the low three game set in round 1 shall draw the bye. The trophy for third place will be determined by the roll-off of the two losers of round 3. Winners will be total pinfall in a set for each match.

First round will be Patrick Merrbach, Richard Moyer; Marvin McGregor, Dick Jeffries; Gary Broadwater, Clyde Foor Jr.; Bill McGregor, Jim Ferrens; Ray Bradley, Wade Grove; Bob Brown, Larry McKeizie; Bob Reidler, Allen Brode.

MISS ELEANOR SIMCHOCK

Future Teacher Among Maple Queen Contestants

MEYERSDALE, Pa. — Conemaugh Township Union Schools entry in Somerset County's annual Maple Queen competition is Miss Eleanor Simchock, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Simchock, RFD No. 3, Johnstown. She is five feet, seven and one-half inches tall, has brown eyes and brown hair.

At her school, Miss Simchock, an academic student, is co-editor of the Year Book, sports editor of the school paper, secretary to the Student Council, secretary of the National Honor Society and is a member of the Future Teachers of America.

Miss Simchock's hobbies include swimming, water skiing, tennis and hunting. She is affiliated with St. Andrews Roman Catholic Church. She plans to attend Indiana State Teachers College following completion of her high school work.

Her advisors are Mrs. Joan Michler and James Zizzini.

For her talent number at Johnstown, Miss Simchock will give a humorous reading composed by Yzonne Childs Hiss.

The Maple Queen contest will be held at Cochran Junior High School in Johnstown at 8 p. m. Wednesday, February 24, with a total of ten Somerset high school senior girls competing. The winner will be crowned Miss Pennsylvania Maple Queen at the festival in Meyersdale on Sunday, April 3.

Driver Killed In Crash Near Capon Bridge

A Clarksburg, W. Va., city bus driver, who had an off duty job chauffeuring cars, was killed Wednesday night on Route 50 in a headon crash with a tractor-trailer just inside the West Virginia line near Capon Bridge.

The victim was Charles R. Gillespie, State Trooper W. A. Steffick of the Romney detachment of State Police said.

The trooper said Gillespie was driving a car for the Avis Rental Agency from Washington to Clarksburg when the 1960 model hit a 175-foot strip of ice on a long curve.

The car crashed into the tractor-trailer hauling livestock owned by Levi Bauserman of Strasburg, Va., and driven by Paul E. Wilson, Strasburg.

The mishap occurred at 10:30 p. m. but it took three hours to extricate Gillespie's body from the wreckage.

Lifesaving Course Set At 'Y' Pool

The class is the first to be presented as a combined project, officials explaining that for the first time an instructor is available who is qualified by both organizations.

The instructor is George Strachan, veteran Red Cross instructor who qualified as a YMCA instructor at a training course last summer in Washington.

Assisting him will be Ted Jackson, Kenneth Fletcher and Ray Mewshaw.

The class will be for both young men and young women and will run from 9 to 11 p. m. Monday through Friday at the Central YMCA pool, beginning Monday and continuing through Friday, March 11. A small charge will be made for the course.

Cuba Gets A New Customer

When a troubled little country like Cuba lines up a new "customer" to buy one-fifth of its sugar for the next five years, to extend a $100 million loan and send in technicians to build factories, its dictator may feel it may bring the old and chief customer, the United States, to heel.

The old customer, quite naturally, did not enjoy the presence in Cuba of Anastas I. Mikoyan, but having previously invited him to its own country, was in no position to object. In spite of the obvious hazard of Soviet penetration, the United States had to stand by while Castro completed the negotiations which give Communism a foothold in the Caribbean.

Indications are that diplomatic relations may soon be restored between Havana and Moscow, a procedure which Mikoyan blandly says involves no political issue but is merely a "technical question." All in all, it was a fine week's work for Mikoyan, which may turn out to be something far different for Castro.

It seems he failed to check Moscow's credit rating with an old friend in the north who is still trying to collect a World War II bill for saving Russia's neck.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

A-Bombs

Now that France has joined the A-Bomb Club with an explosion in the Sahara, the end of a monopoly by any nation of this devastating weapon has come. As the "Insider's Newsletter" has said: ". . . . any country with the capacity to produce an automobile or a wristwatch will be able to make an atomic bomb . . . ."

It is absurd for Washington and Moscow to ignore the fact that Ghana or Cuba or any other tiny nation has gained new strength by the certainty that it is now possible for anyone to make bombs who has access to bomb-making material. And bomb-making material is becoming more available as reactors are used for peaceful purposes. The so-called "Atoms for Peace" movement therefore may become one of the most devastating devices for the destruction of mankind ever placed in the hands of irresponsible or less responsible nations.

There is, of course, another side to the coin. Those European nations which have observed the ridiculous policy followed by the United States with regard to Castro's Cuba, are becoming increasingly worried that in a tight moment the United States will fail them. They are therefore concerned with plans to defend themselves.

In the economic field, the European Common Market and the Free Trade Association are successful expressions of a lessening dependence upon the United States. In the military field, France's A-bomb explosion must be followed by other European nations, and we must anticipate many such developments over the world. The new independent African nations might amuse themselves with A-Bombs.

So far as the United States is concerned, the deal made between Castro and Mikoyan cannot be ignored. Theoretically, it is a sugar deal. There is also a promise of planes. Is there an "Atoms for Peace" deal? We shall not know that for some time, but if there is, the American situation would immediately become perilous. How we can avoid some action at this point is beyond reason or is it possible, as James Reston reports, that at last Washington has "a growing feeling of insecurity." It takes the State Department a long time to feel such things.

However, the risk that we face, every nation faces. Not a spot upon this Earth is any longer safe. A nation that can make an A-Bomb can make an H-Bomb. Small bombs can do enough damage to force the Great Powers to act. In a decade, A-Bombs could be used by revolutionists against their own governments, scientists bootlegging the makings to those who want to use them.

The A-Bomb has altered the balance of power of the world. It set up two mighty giants, the United States and Soviet Russia, to dominate the Earth and to threaten and frighten other nations. The distribution of "Atoms for Peace" reactors and the possibility of bootlegging their products and by-products raise new international problems of enormous magnitude which cannot be faced by trifling political maneuvers.

Ghana has faced the problem realistically. It assumed an anti-French attitude as soon as France exploded the Sahara bomb. At that moment, the politics of the African continent changed and the small nations which were in their swaddling clothes on that continent suddenly realized that their independent existence could be wiped out by a shift in France's political personnel. Suppose M. Soustelle, who maneuvered de Gaulle into power, could maneuver him out of power and establish a new French imperialism on the African continent!

Is this beyond possibility? Certainly no one can say that. In the present shift of power, it is impossible not to believe any possibility. In a progressing military situation, the possession of weapons and the capacity to maintain a continuous supply of them is power. Such power can now be made available to the small as to the large nations. The concept of retaliation is unimportant because the damage once having been done, the capacity to restore strength lessens. The moral effect, for instance, of an A-Bomb on Miami would be as devastating as an H-Bomb over New York. Cuba can thus be as potent in its immediate effectiveness as Soviet Russia. What follows that first immediate act is commentary. This fact needs to be faced candidly and ought to be explained in some official manner so that we know exactly what the situation is.

TV's Harmless Drivel Takes Back Seat To Great Newspaper Exposes

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Sen. Warren Magnuson of Washington holds a conference with TV execs today on why the TV networks have gone in for rigged quiz programs, payola, gangster and western films instead of trying to better the morals, education, and general alertness of the American people.

Magnuson, a conscientious but busy Senator, probably won't dig into one important phase of television. But if he had sat with Pete Brandt of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Jim Marlow of the Associated Press, and me last week when we read 72 of the top newspaper stories of 1959, he might well have quizzed the TV execs on one of their great failings. The stories were submitted by editors and publishers for the annual Heywood Broun Award of the American Newspaper Guild, and almost all of them showed what the TV industry lacks—courage.

Spread out on the table before us were 72 stories over which newspapermen had spent weeks of digging, for which editors had risked libel, and which frequently resulted in important community reforms. All of them took courage.

They were the exact opposite of the daily diet of spineless drivel you normally get on television. When a TV sponsor hears that a proposed program is controversial he runs in the opposite direction. When Madison Avenue learns that libel might be involved in a TV show, or someone might be exposed, an advertising agency won't even submit the idea to an advertiser. Result: there are few, almost no exposes on television, almost no programs that show up corruption, prod the inefficient, improve the community.

Cleaned Up New York

In contrast, take a look at the tough, dedicated journalism the Heywood Broun judges had to pass on last week. We finally picked as winner the slum clearance series by William Haddad and Joseph Kahn of the New York Post which led to important reforms of New York housing and the indictment of Hulen Jack, president of the Manhattan Borough Council.

To produce this series the writers had to face a $10,000,000 libel suit, do weeks of digging into documents which bureaucrats tried to conceal, be blasted and cussed out by the politicians. But their persistence and courage will improve the lives of several million people. Can you imagine a TV network or TV advertiser doing a job like this?

Honorable mention finally went to Clancy Lake, cit, editor of the Birmingham, Ala., News, and Edward McGrath of the Boston Globe. Lake had gone to bat for a convicted rapist who he believed was innocent, secured his release from jail. In the course of his investigation he showed up the Alabama prison system in such a light that it is being reformed.

Hard To Pick Winner

There were many other stories which also deserved recognition, which also illustrated what the American press tries to do for the American public. There was Laurence Stern's series in the Washington Post on the pitiful condition of migrant workers in Maryland, another on migrant farm labor in Ohio by Robert J. Drake of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, and a series on juvenile delinquency among the Spanish-American migrants in Colorado by Lawrence G. Weiss of the Denver Post.

Arthur W. Geiselman of the York (Pa.) Gazette and Daily did a series on swimming pool segregation in the supposedly unsegregated state founded by William Penn, together with some other crusading journalism which most TV stations would have shied away from.

Julian Krawcheck of the Cleveland Press wrote a revealing series on the economic status of the Negro in Cleveland; Bradley Morison of the Minneapolis Star and Tribune produced an equally important series on Negro housing in supposedly unsegregated Minnesota; Gael Green of the New York Post spent several weeks in the Fordham Hospital in New York and came out with a stirring expose of hospital conditions in America's largest city; while Lee McInerney of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette wrote a poignant series of unwed mothers and our increasing problem of illegitimacy.

But there was only one soul-searching community improvement entry from TV or radio—Martin Weldon's two broadcasts regarding integration in Queens (N. Y.) and a tenement fire in Brooklyn.

This may be the real reason why television is falling down on the job — lack of courage.

Note—Some time ago Edward R. Murrow did an expose on call girls in New York City for CBS, but this was on radio, and it caused such a ruckus along Madison Avenue that radio officials acted as if they were scared to death of the gray-trousered execs with the big sponsors and the big expense accounts. Murrow also did a thorough job of reporting on the strange disappearance of professor Jesus de Galindez of Columbia U., suspected of being kidnaped by agents of dictator Trujillo of the Dominican Republic. This also was on radio and offended no one in the USA.

On television Murrow, rather belatedly, reported on the bulldozing operations of Sen. Joe McCarthy, after which he lost his TV sponsor. And in the last year Murrow has been relegated to rather innocuous, intellectual, international programs, far distant from such controversial but important issues as call girls, housing, schools, segregation, and labor.

Wausau Report: Republicans In Good Shape

By Joseph Alsop

WAUSAU, Wisc.

A local insurance company has long had the habit of telling the country "the Wausau story" in its advertising. They rightly say that this is the kind of pleasant little city where it is good to bring up a family. But for political buffs, the real Wausau story concerns the remarkable vigor of the Republican revival.

Such, at any rate, is the final conclusion reached by this reporter and his brother Stewart. We came out here for several days of rather bleak pavement-pounding and door-bell ringing, in order to get a line on Wisconsin's crucial Democratic primary contest between Sens. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts and Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota. We were not looking, except incidentally, for pointers on the comparative standing of the two parties.

We have just completed our last round of wintry polling in Wausau city, on Edwards and Ruder and Fairmont and Emmerson and other, similar streets. Here industrial workers and insurance company personnel and other businessmen and salesmen live, cheek-by-jowl, in small, comfortable houses so alike that you never know whether the door will be answered by a junior executive or a factory hand. Here are the streets of Mr. and Mrs. Average-Citizen-of-Wausau.

These streets that we traversed for many long, finger-nipping hours had good news for Sen. Kennedy and bad news for Sen. Humphrey. Among the country people we polled on an earlier day, Kennedy had a comfortable lead in the group that intended voting in the Democratic primary. In the same group in our Wausau sample, Kennedy led Humphrey even more widely, by almost 2 to 1. But in these streets of Wausau, as in the farm homes of Marathon County, the best news of all was the news for Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

This news for Nixon is more dependable, too, than the news for Kennedy. In polling, the indication of the trend is the main thing. In other words, if people tell you how they voted the last two times, and if they then indicate a preference in the next election, you can get onto fairly firm ground with a relatively small sample.

In the present case, of course, there were no previous elections that could be used as measures of our sample's straw vote in the Democratic primary. But the fortunes of Vice President Nixon could be rather accurately measured by the election of 1956, when Wisconsin gave a big majority to President Eisenhower, and by the election of 1958, when Wisconsin sent the Democrat, Sen. Proxmire, to the Senate. These measures, astonishingly enough, showed Nixon in 1960 even stronger in Wausau than Eisenhower in 1956.

To get down to hard figures, we polled sixty-eight people, of whom sixteen were non-talkers, or non-voters, or amiably bewildered housewives who "just had to wait for the Mister." Of the fifty-two articulate pollees, eighteen intended to vote for Vice President Nixon in the oncoming primary. Two, both Catholics, were unsure whether they would vote for Nixon or Sen. Kennedy. One, a Lutheran, was unsure whether he would vote for Nixon or Sen. Humphrey. Eleven were in the straight "don't know" column.

But Kennedy got twelve sure primary votes as against only seven for Humphrey. The Kennedy lead was therefore impressive among the certain voters in the Democratic primary.

Much more impressive, however, was the table of these same pollees' past voting records and present party preferences. In 1956, in brief, twenty-eight had voted for Eisenhower; twelve had voted for Adlai Stevenson; and eleven had not voted. In 1958, in sharp contrast, twenty-four had voted for Sen. Proxmire; only twelve had voted for Proxmire's Republican opponent, Judge Steinle; and sixteen had not voted.

As of now, in still sharper contrast, twenty-nine of our pollees would vote for Nixon for the Presidency against Sen. Kennedy. Another thirteen would vote for Kennedy, and ten do not know how they would vote. Nixon would do even better against Sen. Humphrey, with thirty-two voting for him, thirteen choosing Humphrey decidedly, and with only seven in the "don't-know" column. The Nixon-Humphrey trial heat was roughly typical, in turn, of the other trial heats we ran, between the Vice President and Adlai Stevenson, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, and Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri.

What gives significance and point to these figures is the large number of our pollees who sandwiched Democratic votes for Proxmire between their votes in 1956 for Eisenhower and their preference for the Vice President today. Without those intervening Proxmire votes, you could dismiss the sample as unrepresentative. With those Proxmire votes, the sample means that here in Wausau, at any rate, the Republicans are in astonishingly good shape at the moment.

One more fact remains to be recorded. Our sample divided into twenty-nine Protestants, twenty-one Catholics, and two persons without religious affiliation — which means that it was not weighted in Kennedy's favor.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

IKE'S BUDGET — The loud cries from Democrats over President Eisenhower's budget gives the general impression that the Chief Executive is being too economy-minded at the expense of necessary defense and other programs.

What is generally lost sight of is the fact that far from being an economy budget, it actually provides for 30,921 new federal jobs during the 1951 fiscal year. And most of the increase is slated for non-defense agencies of the government.

More than two-thirds of the increase will be for the Post Office department, where plans have been drawn to hire 22,000 additional workers. The Federal Aviation agency will hire 5,020; Treasury, 2,789; Health, Education and Welfare, 2,697; with other smaller increases scattered through a number of other departments.

Actually, the Army, Navy and Air Force will reduce their civilian employes by 13,531, but more than a third of this cut will be in the form of transfers to the rapidly-expanding National Aeronautics and Space agency. Veterans administration will reduce by about 2,000 workers because of increased efficiency and a lighter work load.

Budget Director Maurice Stans vigorously defended the job increase plans in recent appearances before Congress. "We have tried to hold down the level of personnel with the strictest standards we could apply," he said. "Further, no money has been allotted for promotions, which means there can be none unless it is to fill vacancies.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

An unexpected kindness is almost always embarrassing. There have been thousands of occasions in my 52 years when I have been left with my mouth open, mumbling words of gratitude that sounded stereotyped and weak. Come to think of it, when I was a little boy and my Aunt Mary slipped five cents into my hand, I didn't know what to say or how to say it.

A fat book could be written on the subject. I remember, for example, the morning an accident story appeared in the New York papers. It wasn't important. It didn't rate more than four paragraphs. A man with six children had been out of work a long time. He got a job as a janitor in a big apartment. He was given a flat in the basement. On the second morning, he was sweeping the sidewalk when he stepped off the curb and was killed by a taxi.

The story was scanned by at least three million people. No one did anything about it except a fat comedian named Jackie Gleason. He couldn't flip the page. He phoned a friend on a newspaper and said: "Pal, I'll stand for the funeral on that guy and I'll take care of the wife and kids for six months on one condition: nobody hears about it. Nothing in the paper, and no mention of my name."

It was done his way. In the case of Jack Paar, I know of two men who rapped him at parties and hoped loudly that he would fail. In both instances Paar kept them on the payroll. Why? "Their families need the money," Jack said. "If I fire them, I won't be able to sleep thinking of their children. It's easier for me to keep them working."

Not too many years ago, I was broke. I was doing magazine work, but no editor needed me. Now and then, a check for $175 would come in from The Sign. There was no note with it. I would phone Father Ralph Gorman, the editor, and ask what the check was for. "For an article I want you to write," he would say.

This was strange, because no editor pays in advance. "What article?" I would say. There was a silence. "I haven't thought it out yet," he would say, "but when I do, I'll phone you about it." He was the world's poorest liar.

Two weeks ago, I was at the Statler-Hilton in Washington on an assignment. When I unpacked, I realized that I had forgot to bring the portable.

Gil Violante of the Earl Browne office heard about it. Gilbert is a veteran Washington reporter and knows that the typewriter is the writer's tongue. He sent two —a portable and a regular. He also sent paper, carbons and an invitation to dinner.

How do you say thank you and make it sound as though you meant it?

The world is full of kindness. Once, when I crossed the Jordan border into Israel, I was in an American minister's station wagon. The Israeli customs guard came out to examine my luggage for contraband. He looked at the minister and said: "Is he with you?" The minister nodded. "In that case," the guard said, saluting, "it is not necessary to examine the baggage."

On a train, I sat in a bedroom with my daughter Ginny. I watched her try to place her infant twins on a berth. A stout porter was in and out of the room. He kept watching. At last he could contain himself no longer. "Excuse me ma'am," he said, "but that no way to put the babies. Let me show you."

It was not part of his job. He picked the tiny ones up tenderly and placed them so that their feet faced the front of the train. Then he took Pullmen towels and placed them beside the babies and put one between them. "This way," he said, "they can't rock more than they should. When the train stop sudden, they can't fall off."

Ginny marveled at the old man's knowledge. "When you go to dinner with your daddy," the old man said, "I will be the baby sitter." He was too. Later, when the babies cried, I found that he knew more little cooing sounds than I had ever heard.

How does one express gratitude? A good tip? He'd have received one anyway.

Two weeks ago, I phoned David Sentner in Washington and said I was coming down to research a series of articles on what the world is going to be like in the year 2,000. Sentner is an old friend, bureau chief of the Hearst Headline Service. "If you can think of anyone I should see — a scientist or an official — please get in touch with me at the hotel."

"We have a very young reporter named Marianne Means," he said. "I'll ask her to do some thinking about it."

I forgot it. The evening of my arrival Mrs. Means met me in the coffee shop at the Statler-Hilton. She is a beautiful blonde, a one-time model who wants to write. She handed four typewritten pages to me. It was a lengthy list of every official in Washington who knew anything about the future of farming, missiles, natural resources, medicine, population, home construction, economy, and so forth.

She also had four big envelopes full of press releases about the future. I studied it and looked at her. "You've done my work for me," I said, "and yet we never met before. You've saved me a week of research. How do I say--"

"Don't mention it," she said. "I have to hurry home to make my husband's dinner."

How do I say — ? I wish I knew . . .

The Role Of Cholesterol In Heart Attacks

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

John, a 59 year old foreman, survived a heart attack due to occlusion of a coronary artery. Blood tests showed he had more than his share of cholesterol. This is a common finding among victims of coronary thrombosis, stroke, and other conditions stemming from hardening of the arteries. In this respect there appears to be a relationship between heart trouble and cholesterol plus other fatty molecules in the blood.

John wanted to know if the high cholesterol level was responsible for his heart trouble and whether the level could be brought down to normal. He was surprised to find that medical science does not have the answer to many of the questions about cholesterol.

We know, for example, that many victims of coronary thrombosis have an elevated blood cholesterol but we do not know whether the cholesterol is responsible for the heart attack and whether lowering the level will prevent future attacks. Furthermore, we do not know what causes the initial increase in these fatty chemicals in the blood of some people.

Currently, a high fat diet is blamed but definite proof is lacking. Other possibilities include stress, overweight, and lack of exercise, as well as glandular, metabolic, and liver disturbances.

Sex enters the picture. Up to age 50 men have higher cholesterol levels than do women of the same age. But as women approach the menopause they show a steady rise in the blood levels and reach or pass those of men after the age of 50. But the greatest objection to a dietary cause is that the body manufactures its own cholesterol in amounts exceeding 50 per cent of the total.

For these reasons, many physicians hesitate to recommend drastic changes in diet to lower the blood cholesterol. This can be done by eliminating all animal fat, including cream and butter, especially when the diet is supplemented with fish and vegetable oils.

The same effect can be obtained by using certain steroids, hormones, unsaturated fatty acids, or nicotinic acid. But the results are temporary; the level goes up as soon as these products are stopped. On the other hand, no harm comes from consuming less fats or going on a stricter low calorie diet— at least until we learn more about the subject.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

LEG ULCER

Mrs. C. M. writes: My 78 year old mother has an ulcerated leg that is raw looking, running, and painful. But she refuses medical care. What can I do about this situation?

REPLY

You can lead a horse to water but cannot make it drink. In all probability your mother has poor circulation due to hardening of the arteries, not only of the leg but of the brain. The only advice I can offer is to keep the ulcerated area covered and as clean as possible.

WATERING EYES

M. H. writes: When I talk to anyone my eyes start to water so much that tears run down my face. Please explain.

REPLY

Your tears must stem from the psychic stimulation of the tear glands, if they gush forth only when you are talking to someone. Others might blush or stutter in similar circumstances.

TOMORROW: Protect your pets.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

Emmett Kelly, America's number one clown, recalls with nostalgic delight the days when the Barnum and Bailey circus played under canvas.

"Every town we hit," smiles Kelly, "we kne / that dozens of excited but underprivileged kids were all set to sneak into the Big Tent. The management would gladly have invited many amusement-starved youngsters in free, but we also realized that kids would get an infinitely bigger bang out of 'pulling a fast one' on us. So we always had a mustachioed 'cop' who chased them when he caught them crawling in under the tent. He never caught a soul. The reason? The 'cop' was just a clown giving the kids an added thrill."

A mama mouse was describing heaven to her little baby mice, who were very much intrigued with the idea of flying angels. Suddenly a bat flew down from the attic. "Look, mom," squeaked an excited baby mouse. "There goes one of those angels now!"

Cuba Gets A New Customer

When a troubled little country like Cuba lines up a new "customer" to buy one-fifth of its sugar for the next five years, to extend a $100 million loan and send in technicians to build factories, its dictator may feel it may bring the old and chief customer, the United States, to heel.

The old customer, quite naturally, did not enjoy the presence in Cuba of Anastas I. Mikoyan, but having previously invited him to its own country, was in no position to object. In spite of the obvious hazard of Soviet penetration, the United States had to stand by while Castro completed the negotiations which give Communism a foothold in the Caribbean.

Indications are that diplomatic relations may soon be restored between Havana and Moscow, a procedure which Mikoyan blandly says involves no political issue but is merely a "technical question." All in all, it was a fine week's work for Mikoyan, which may turn out to be something far different for Castro.

It seems he failed to check Moscow's credit rating with an old friend in the north who is still trying to collect a World War II bill for saving Russia's neck.

A-Bombs

Now that France has joined the A-Bomb Club with an explosion in the Sahara, the end of a monopoly by any nation of this devastating weapon has come. As the "Insider's Newsletter" has said: ". . . . any country with the capacity to produce an automobile or a wristwatch will be able to make an atomic bomb . . . ."

Proxmire; only twelve had voted for Proxmire's Republican opponent, Judge Steinle; and sixteen had not voted.

As of now, in still sharper contrast, twenty-nine of our pollees would vote for Nixon for the Presidency against Sen. Kennedy. Another thirteen would vote for Kennedy, and ten do not know how they would vote. Nixon would do even better against Sen. Humphrey, with thirty-two voting for him, thirteen choosing Humphrey decidedly, and with only seven in the "don't-know" column. The Nixon-Humphrey trial heat was roughly typical, in turn, of the other trial heats we ran, between the Vice President and Adlai Stevenson, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, and Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri.

What gives significance and point to these figures is the large number of our pollees who sandwiched Democratic votes for Proxmire between their votes in 1956 for Eisenhower and their preference for the Vice President today. Without those intervening Proxmire votes, you could dismiss the sample as unrepresentative. With those Proxmire votes, the sample means that here in Wausau, at any rate, the Republicans are in astonishingly good shape at the moment.

One more fact remains to be recorded. Our sample divided into twenty-nine Protestants, twenty-one Catholics, and two persons without religious affiliation — which means that it was not weighted in Kennedy's favor.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

IKE'S BUDGET — The loud cries from Democrats over President Eisenhower's budget gives the general impression that the Chief Executive is being too economy-minded at the expense of necessary defense and other programs.

What is generally lost sight of is the fact that far from being an economy budget, it actually provides for 30,921 new federal jobs during the 1951 fiscal year. And most of the increase is slated for non-defense agencies of the government.

More than two-thirds of the increase will be for the Post Office department, where plans have been drawn to hire 22,000 additional workers. The Federal Aviation agency will hire 5,020; Treasury, 2,789; Health, Education and Welfare, 2,697; with other smaller increases scattered through a number of other departments.

Actually, the Army, Navy and Air Force will reduce their civilian employes by 13,531, but more than a third of this cut will be in the form of transfers to the rapidly-expanding National Aeronautics and Space agency. Veterans administration will reduce by about 2,000 workers because of increased efficiency and a lighter work load.

Budget Director Maurice Stans vigorously defended the job increase plans in recent appearances before Congress. "We have tried to hold down the level of personnel with the strictest standards we could apply," he said. "Further, no money has been allotted for promotions, which means there can be none unless it is to fill vacancies.

The Role Of Cholesterol In Heart Attacks

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

John, a 59 year old foreman, survived a heart attack due to occlusion of a coronary artery. Blood tests showed he had more than his share of cholesterol. This is a common finding among victims of coronary thrombosis, stroke, and other conditions stemming from hardening of the arteries. In this respect there appears to be a relationship between heart trouble and cholesterol plus other fatty molecules in the blood.

John wanted to know if the high cholesterol level was responsible for his heart trouble and whether the level could be brought down to normal. He was surprised to find that medical science does not have the answer to many of the questions about cholesterol.

We know, for example, that many victims of coronary thrombosis have an elevated blood cholesterol but we do not know whether the cholesterol is responsible for the heart attack and whether lowering the level will prevent future attacks. Furthermore, we do not know what causes the initial increase in these fatty chemicals in the blood of some people.

Currently, a high fat diet is blamed but definite proof is lacking. Other possibilities include stress, overweight, and lack of exercise, as well as glandular, metabolic, and liver disturbances.

Sex enters the picture. Up to age 50 men have higher cholesterol levels than do women of the same age. But as women approach the menopause they show a steady rise in the blood levels and reach or pass those of men after the age of 50. But the greatest objection to a dietary cause is that the body manufactures its own cholesterol in amounts exceeding 50 per cent of the total.

For these reasons, many physicians hesitate to recommend drastic changes in diet to lower the blood cholesterol. This can be done by eliminating all animal fat, including cream and butter, especially when the diet is supplemented with fish and vegetable oils.

The same effect can be obtained by using certain steroids, hormones, unsaturated fatty acids, or nicotinic acid. But the results are temporary; the level goes up as soon as these products are stopped. On the other hand, no harm comes from consuming less fats or going on a stricter low calorie diet— at least until we learn more about the subject.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

LEG ULCER

Mrs. C. M. writes: My 78 year old mother has an ulcerated leg that is raw looking, running, and painful. But she refuses medical care. What can I do about this situation?

REPLY

You can lead a horse to water but cannot make it drink. In all probability your mother has poor circulation due to hardening of the arteries, not only of the leg but of the brain. The only advice I can offer is to keep the ulcerated area covered and as clean as possible.

WATERING EYES

M. H. writes: When I talk to anyone my eyes start to water so much that tears run down my face. Please explain.

REPLY

Your tears must stem from the psychic stimulation of the tear glands, if they gush forth only when you are talking to someone. Others might blush or stutter in similar circumstances.

TOMORROW: Protect your pets.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Emmett Kelly, America's number one clown, recalls with nostalgic delight the days when the Barnum and Bailey circus played under canvas.

"Every town we hit," smiles Kelly, "we knew that dozens of excited but underprivileged kids were all set to sneak into the Big Tent. The management would gladly have invited many amusement-starved youngsters in free, but we also realized that kids would get an infinitely bigger bang out of 'pulling a fast one' on us. So we always had a mustachioed 'cop' who chased them when he caught them crawling in under the tent. He never caught a soul. The reason? The 'cop' was just a clown giving the kids an added thrill."

A mama mouse was describing heaven to her little baby mice, who were very much intrigued with the idea of flying angels. Suddenly a bat flew down from the attic. "Look, mom," squeaked an excited baby mouse. "There goes one of those angels now!"

TV's Harmless Drivel Takes Back Seat To Great Newspaper Exposes

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Sen. Warren Magnuson of Washington holds a conference with TV execs today on why the TV networks have gone in for rigged quiz programs, payola, gangster and western films instead of trying to better the morals, education, and general alertness of the American people.

Magnuson, a conscientious but busy Senator, probably won't dig into one important phase of television. But if he had sat with Pete Brandt of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Jim Marlow of the Associated Press, and me last week when we read 72 of the top newspaper stories of 1959, he might well have quizzed the TV execs on one of their great failings. The stories were submitted by editors and publishers for the annual Heywood Broun Award of the American Newspaper Guild, and almost all of them showed what the TV industry lacks—courage.

Spread out on the table before us were 72 stories over which newspapermen had spent weeks of digging, for which editors had risked libel, and which frequently resulted in important community reforms. All of them took courage.

They were the exact opposite of the daily diet of spineless drivel you normally get on television. When a TV sponsor hears that a proposed program is controversial he runs in the opposite direction. When Madison Avenue learns that libel might be involved in a TV show, or someone might be exposed, an advertising agency won't even submit the idea to an advertiser. Result: there are few, almost no exposes on television, almost no programs that show up corruption, prod the inefficient, improve the community.

Cleaned Up New York

In contrast, take a look at the tough, dedicated journalism the Heywood Broun judges had to pass on last week. We finally picked as winner the slum clearance series by William Haddad and Joseph Kahn of the New York Post which led to important reforms of New York housing and the indictment of Hulen Jack, president of the Manhattan Borough Council.

To produce this series the writers had to face a $10,000,000 libel suit, do weeks of digging into documents which bureaucrats tried to conceal, be blasted and cussed out by the politicians. But their persistence and courage will improve the lives of several million people. Can you imagine a TV network or TV advertiser doing a job like this?

Honorable mention finally went to Clancy Lake, cit, editor of the Birmingham, Ala., News, and Edward McGrath of the Boston Globe. Lake had gone to bat for a convicted rapist who he believed was innocent, secured his release from jail. In the course of his investigation he showed up the Alabama prison system in such a light that it is being reformed.

Hard To Pick Winner

There were many other stories which also deserved recognition, which also illustrated what the American press tries to do for the American public. There was Laurence Stern's series in the Washington Post on the pitiful condition of migrant workers in Maryland, another on migrant farm labor in Ohio by Robert J. Drake of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, and a series on juvenile delinquency among the Spanish-American migrants in Colorado by Lawrence G. Weiss of the Denver Post.

Arthur W. Geiselman of the York (Pa.) Gazette and Daily did a series on swimming pool segregation in the supposedly unsegregated state founded by William Penn, together with some other crusading journalism which most TV stations would have shied away from.

Julian Krawcheck of the Cleveland Press wrote a revealing series on the economic status of the Negro in Cleveland; Bradley Morison of the Minneapolis Star and Tribune produced an equally important series on Negro housing in supposedly unsegregated Minnesota; Gael Green of the New York Post spent several weeks in the Fordham Hospital in New York and came out with a stirring expose of hospital conditions in America's largest city; while Lee McInerney of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette wrote a poignant series of unwed mothers and our increasing problem of illegitimacy.

But there was only one soul-searching community improvement entry from TV or radio—Martin Weldon's two broadcasts regarding integration in Queens (N. Y.) and a tenement fire in Brooklyn.

This may be the real reason why television is falling down on the job — lack of courage.

Note—Some time ago Edward R. Murrow did an expose on call girls in New York City for CBS, but this was on radio, and it caused such a ruckus along Madison Avenue that radio officials acted as if they were scared to death of the gray-trousered execs with the big sponsors and the big expense accounts. Murrow also did a thorough job of reporting on the strange disappearance of professor Jesus de Galindez of Columbia U., suspected of being kidnaped by agents of dictator Trujillo of the Dominican Republic. This also was on radio and offended no one in the USA.

On television Murrow, rather belatedly, reported on the bulldozing operations of Sen. Joe McCarthy, after which he lost his TV sponsor. And in the last year Murrow has been relegated to rather innocuous, intellectual, international programs, far distant from such controversial but important issues as call girls, housing, schools, segregation, and labor.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

An unexpected kindness is almost always embarrassing. There have been thousands of occasions in my 52 years when I have been left with my mouth open, mumbling words of gratitude that sounded stereotyped and weak. Come to think of it, when I was a little boy and my Aunt Mary slipped five cents into my hand, I didn't know what to say or how to say it.

A fat book could be written on the subject. I remember, for example, the morning an accident story appeared in the New York papers. It wasn't important. It didn't rate more than four paragraphs. A man with six children had been out of work a long time. He got a job as a janitor in a big apartment. He was given a flat in the basement. On the second morning, he was sweeping the sidewalk when he stepped off the curb and was killed by a taxi.

The story was scanned by at least three million people. No one did anything about it except a fat comedian named Jackie Gleason. He couldn't flip the page. He phoned a friend on a newspaper and said: "Pal, I'll stand for the funeral on that guy and I'll take care of the wife and kids for six months on one condition: nobody hears about it. Nothing in the paper, and no mention of my name."

It was done his way. In the case of Jack Paar, I know of two men who rapped him at parties and hoped loudly that he would fail. In both instances Paar kept them on the payroll. Why? "Their families need the money," Jack said. "If I fire them, I won't be able to sleep thinking of their children. It's easier for me to keep them working."

Not too many years ago, I was broke. I was doing magazine work, but no editor needed me. Now and then, a check for $175 would come in from The Sign. There was no note with it. I would phone Father Ralph Gorman, the editor, and ask what the check was for. "For an article I want you to write," he would say.

This was strange, because no editor pays in advance. "What article?" I would say. There was a silence. "I haven't thought it out yet," he would say, "but when I do, I'll phone you about it." He was the world's poorest liar.

Two weeks ago, I was at the Statler-Hilton in Washington on an assignment. When I unpacked, I realized that I had forgot to bring the portable.

Gil Violante of the Earl Browne office heard about it. Gilbert is a veteran Washington reporter and knows that the typewriter is the writer's tongue. He sent two —a portable and a regular. He also sent paper, carbons and an invitation to dinner.

How do you say thank you and make it sound as though you meant it?

The world is full of kindness. Once, when I crossed the Jordan border into Israel, I was in an American minister's station wagon. The Israeli customs guard came out to examine my luggage for contraband. He looked at the minister and said: "Is he with you?" The minister nodded. "In that case," the guard said, saluting, "it is not necessary to examine the baggage."

On a train, I sat in a bedroom with my daughter Ginny. I watched her try to place her infant twins on a berth. A stout porter was in and out of the room. He kept watching. At last he could contain himself no longer. "Excuse me ma'am," he said, "but that no way to put the babies. Let me show you."

It was not part of his job. He picked the tiny ones up tenderly and placed them so that their feet faced the front of the train. Then he took Pullmen towels and placed them beside the babies and put one between them. "This way," he said, "they can't rock more than they should. When the train stop sudden, they can't fall off."

Ginny marveled at the old man's knowledge. "When you go to dinner with your daddy," the old man said, "I will be the baby sitter." He was too. Later, when the babies cried, I found that he knew more little cooing sounds than I had ever heard.

How does one express gratitude? A good tip? He'd have received one anyway.

Two weeks ago, I phoned David Sentner in Washington and said I was coming down to research a series of articles on what the world is going to be like in the year 2,000. Sentner is an old friend, bureau chief of the Hearst Headline Service. "If you can think of anyone I should see — a scientist or an official — please get in touch with me at the hotel."

"We have a very young reporter named Marianne Means," he said. "I'll ask her to do some thinking about it."

I forgot it. The evening of my arrival Mrs. Means met me in the coffee shop at the Statler-Hilton. She is a beautiful blonde, a one-time model who wants to write. She handed four typewritten pages to me. It was a lengthy list of every official in Washington who knew anything about the future of farming, missiles, natural resources, medicine, population, home construction, economy, and so forth.

She also had four big envelopes full of press releases about the future. I studied it and looked at her. "You've done my work for me," I said, "and yet we never met before. You've saved me a week of research. How do I say--"

"Don't mention it," she said. "I have to hurry home to make my husband's dinner."

How do I say — ? I wish I knew . . .

Baked Pear Garnish

3 Bosc or Anjou pears
6 tablespoons brown sugar
1 cup frozen or canned blueberries

Halve and core ripe but firm pears. Place cut side down in baking dish to which 1 tablespoon lemon juice and a little water is added. Bake covered at 350 degrees for about 15 minutes. Remove cover; turn pears; sprinkle each half with 1 tablespoon sugar and bake for about 15 minutes longer uncovered. If frozen blueberries are used, put in the centers of the pears a few minutes before removing from the oven to heat; the canned blueberries may be spooned into the centers just before serving. Serve chilled with golden browned turkey.

Hearty— Not Heavy

Take the "Brrr!" out of an extra bracing, blowy morning with a hearty — not heavy — breakfast. These Corned Beef Hash Cups, accompanied by hot toast, sliced oranges and a beverage will be the warm-up needed to start the day. The Cups, slices of corned beef encircled with bacon strips, may be made in advance. Then, add the eggs and bake while breakfast is readied.

Corned Beef Hash 'n Bacon Strips

1 (1-pound can corned beef hash
8 slices bacon
4 medium eggs, beaten

Remove corned beef from can and cut it into 4 (1-inch) slices. Place in a shallow baking pan. Wrap 2 slices of bacon around hash; fasten with toothpicks. Hollow out the center of slice. With the scooped-out hash form a ½-inch rim. Fill hollow with beaten eggs. Bake in a moderate oven (375°F.) for 25 minutes.

Yield: 4 Corned Beef Hash 'n Bacon Cups.

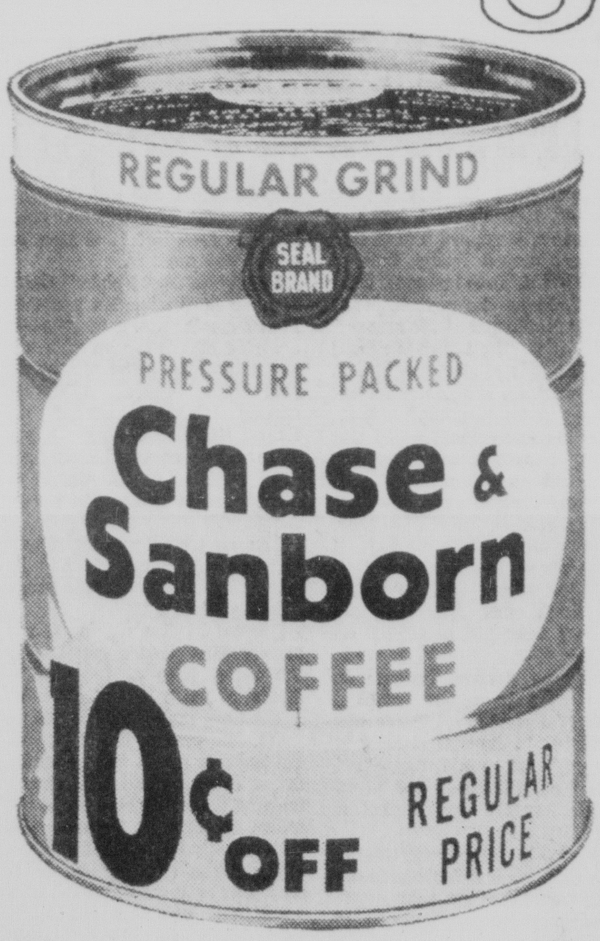

Turkey Record Seen

Making plans for your next turkey dinner? And others to follow? You can safely depend on as many turkey dishes as may please — 1960 will be a record year for production of the big birds. Growers intend to produce about 6 per cent more turkeys than in 1959, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Sharpest gains will be in the number of heavy whites, which are showing greatest increases in popularity. The number of other heavy breed birds will also be up. However, the number of light breed turkeys will probably drop as much as 18 per cent. From present indications, the 1960 turkey crop will come close to 87 million birds, with the heavy breeds making up about 74¼ million of the total. Of the latter, well over a third will be heavy whites.

Serve Open Face Western Sandwiches

Children have an uninhibited way of verbally accepting or rejecting what you might consider a dandy new culinary triumph. However, here is a recipe called Open-Face Western Sandwiches and it's doubtful whether the little wranglers in your home won't give it their full approval. In this combination, ground cooked meat combines with onion, horseradish, salt, pepper and mayonnaise. Chili sauce and grated cheddar cheese act as a nippy topping for this western-type sandwich. To serve, simply arrange the sandwiches on a cooky sheet and in a very hot oven (450°F.) for 10 minutes or until the bread is toasted and cheese is melted.

Open-Face Western Sandwiches

- 2 cups ground cooked beef
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
- ½ teaspoon horseradish
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- ¼ cup mayonnaise
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 6 slices white bread
- ½ cup chili sauce
- ½ cup grated cheddar cheese

Combine ground beef, onion, horseradish, salt, pepper, and mayonnaise. Mix well. Butter bread slices. Spread with meat mixture, extending well to the edge of bread. Mix together chili sauce and cheese. Top each sandwich with approximately 3 tablespoons of chili sauce-cheese mixture. Arrange sandwiches on cooky sheet and place in a very hot oven (450°F.) for 10 minutes, or until bread is toasted and cheese is melted. Yield: 6 sandwiches.

MRS. FILBERT MADE A BETTER ONE

(and the world liked it!)

1. In Martha Filbert's day, the margarines that people bought to save money were less than delicious.

2. So she blended the highest quality ingredients . . . and made a margarine . . .

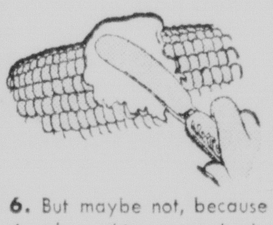

3. That was delicious. She called it, oddly enough, "Mrs. Filbert's Margarine."

Try Onion Pie

Here's something new to most housewives—Swiss Onion Pie! And is it ever good. You can just imagine the conversation it will create around your table.

- 4 strips bacon, diced
- 5 cups thinly sliced onions
- 1 cup grated Swiss cheese
- 3 teaspoons sugar
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- Dash cayenne
- ¼ teaspoon black pepper
- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
- 3 eggs
- 1 cup milk
- 1 9-inch unbaked pie shell

Fry bacon until crisp, saute onions in bacon fat until soft and light yellow in color. Add grated cheese. Combine sugar and flour with seasonings and add to slightly beaten eggs. Add milk to egg mixture. Put sauteed onions and bacon in pie shell; pour milk and egg mixture over onions. Bake in pre-heated oven 425 degrees about 35 minutes or until custard is set and golden brown. Note: ½ cup diced, cooked ham may be substituted for bacon. Most people enjoy Swiss Onion Pie served warm.

Swiss Onion Pie, cut in small wedges, is an ideal snack before dinner.

The starfish eats oysters in the shell. It pulls the bivalve open with its suction tenacles, then turns its own stomach inside out to digest the treat.

In Fine Shape

With both grapefruit and oranges now in plentiful supply, you might like to try your hand at some homemade marmalade making. Here's a recipe recommended by some economists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture:

- 1 cup grapefruit juice (1 grapefruit)
- 1¾ cups orange juice (4 medium oranges)
- Peel of ½ grapefruit
- Peel of 1 orange
- Peel of 1 lemon
- 1 quart cold water
- 3 cups boiling water
- ⅓ cup lemon juice (1 lemon)

Wash fruit and extract juice. Remove membrane from inside the peel. Cut peel into very thin strips about 1 to 1½ inches long. Add the cold water to the peel and simmer slowly in a covered pan until tender (30 minutes). Drain off and discard the liquid; add the boiling water to the peel. Add the sugar and boil rapidly for about 20 minutes. Add the fruit juices and cook again about 25 minutes, stirring frequently. Remove from heat; skim and stir alternately for 5 minutes. Ladle marmalade into hot containers and seal immediately. Makes 4 to 5 six-ounce glasses.

Sausages Appeal

The growing popular appeal of tasty sausages and other processed meat products has caused output to increase considerably in recent years. Among the items so well-liked are loaf, head cheese, jellied products and such canned items as luncheon meat, viennas, franks and wieners in brine, deviled ham, other potted or deviled meat food products, and also bulk sausage and sausage in oil.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture estimates production of these products for 1959 at over 2⅓ billion pounds, 115 million pounds more than in 1958. Most of this gain was in fresh finished and other smoked or cooked sausage. Any finely ground spiced meats stuffed in a casing or container is considered a sausage.

The Onions Have Have It In Many Ways

Depending on the recipe, onions are prepared in a variety of ways, to assure a range of flavoring from a mere subtle suggestion to a distinct aroma. They may be used whole, sliced, grated, diced, chopped, or separated into rings. And served "as is," fried, steamed, baked, or broiled, onions make an excellent ingredient, they also stand up well alone as choice of a main dish vegetable. Steamed onions are recommended by U. S. Department of Agriculture home economists. This is a savory way to serve onions. Simply arrange the sandwiches on a cooky sheet and in a very hot oven (450°F.) for 10 minutes or until the bread is toasted and cheese is melted.

Here's a recipe for Swiss-style stuffed onions, baked until tipped with brown, are also appealing and attractive. Simply steam until tender; remove the "centers" and fill with your favorite bread crumb stuffing. Scatter grated cheese over the tops and bake in a moderate oven until thoroughly heated.

Here's a recipe for Swiss-style onion rings that's a soupy sauce. To prepare, saute onion rings in butter until golden-hued, cover the pan tightly and steam 8 to 10 minutes. Place the sauteed rings in a buttered casserole dish alternately with layers of grated Swiss cheese. Cover with canned cream of chicken soup diluted with an equal amount of rich milk. Sprinkle buttered bread or prepared cereal crumbs over the top and bake about 30 minutes in a moderately hot oven.

Serve Open Face Western Sandwiches

Children have an uninhibited way of verbally accepting or rejecting what you might consider a dandy new culinary triumph.

However, here is a recipe called Open-Face Western Sandwiches and it's doubtful whether the little wranglers in your home won't give it their full approval. In this combination, ground cooked meat combines with onion, horseradish, salt, pepper and mayonnaise.

Chili sauce and grated cheddar cheese act as a nippy topping for this western-type sandwich. To serve, simply arrange the sandwiches on a cooky sheet and in a very hot oven (450°F.) for 10 minutes or until the bread is toasted and cheese is melted.

Open-Face Western Sandwiches

- 2 cups ground cooked beef
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
- ½ teaspoon horseradish
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- ¼ cup mayonnaise
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 6 slices white bread
- ½ cup chili sauce
- ½ cup grated cheddar cheese

Combine ground beef, onion, horseradish, salt, pepper, and mayonnaise. Mix well. Butter bread slices. Spread with meat mixture, extending well to the edge of bread. Mix together chili sauce and cheese. Top each sandwich with approximately 3 tablespoons of chili sauce-cheese mixture. Arrange sandwiches on cooky sheet and place in a very hot oven (450°F.) for 10 minutes, or until bread is toasted and cheese is melted. Yield: 6 sandwiches.

Speed Red Flannel Hash With Frozen French Fries

Red Flannel Hash began along New England's rocky coast, back when creative cookery meant using the same home-corned beef and root cellar vegetables in different ways to make them palatable day-in-and-day-out. Ruby red beets brighten this baked dish of corned beef, potatoes, and onion, which followed a boiled dinner of corned beef and cabbage sure as baked beans came Saturday night.

Today's creative cooking starts with an abundant variety of convenience foods that imaginative homemakers use for new dishes or turning old regional favorites into tempting modern fare. For a novel family treat that's easy to budget and glowing with color, fix Red Flannel Hash in minutes with frozen french fries (the same kind you crisp and heat for wonderful fries) as the potatoes, and canned beets already diced, to bake with the cubed cooked meat.

Any leftover beef or even ham may be substituted for the corned beef; in that case use consomme instead of the corned beef liquor for moistening. Cut the handy strips of already scrubbed, pealed, cut-up, and delicately cooked potato into bite-sized pieces before mixing with the meat, beets, and minced onion.

An Irishman we know says his mother always ground her vegetables and meat; that way the beet juice soaked everything with true red flannel color! Get out the grinder if you wish; the cut up version given in several old recipes is quicker, and looks inviting. Putting eggs to bake in the hot hash 10-15 minutes before serving is another idea to use or not as you wish. They'll give protein when Red Flannel Hash is the main dish in a dinner menu such as this:

Red Flannel Hash
with Baked Eggs
Grapefruit and Avocado Salad
Lime Sherbert, Chocolate Brownies, Tea, Milk for Children

Red Flannel Hash

(Serves 4)

- 1 9-ounce package frozen french fries
- 1/4 cup minced onion
- 1 cup diced cooked corned beef
- 1 cup diced cooked beets, fresh or canned
- 1/2 cup corned beefstock
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- Dash of freshly ground pepper
- 4 eggs
- Parsley or watercress to garnish

Thaw french fries slightly; cut in 1/2 inch pieces. Mix all ingredients except eggs and parsley and place in greased 5-cup shallow casserole. Cover and bake in hot (400° F.) oven 20 minutes. With spoon, press 4 hollows in hash and drop an egg in each hollow, season with salt and pepper. Cover again and bake 10 to 15 minutes more until whites are set and yolks hard or soft as desired. Garnish with parsley or watercress.

Note: Roast beef, pork, or ground ham may be substituted for corned beef, and consomme or bouillon for the corned beef stock.

Tempting Tuna Pie

Tuna Filling:

- One 10½ oz. can condensed cream of celery soup
- ½ cup milk
- ½ cup drained cooked peas
- ½ teaspoon salt
- Two 7-oz. cans tuna fish, drained and flaked

Pie Crust:

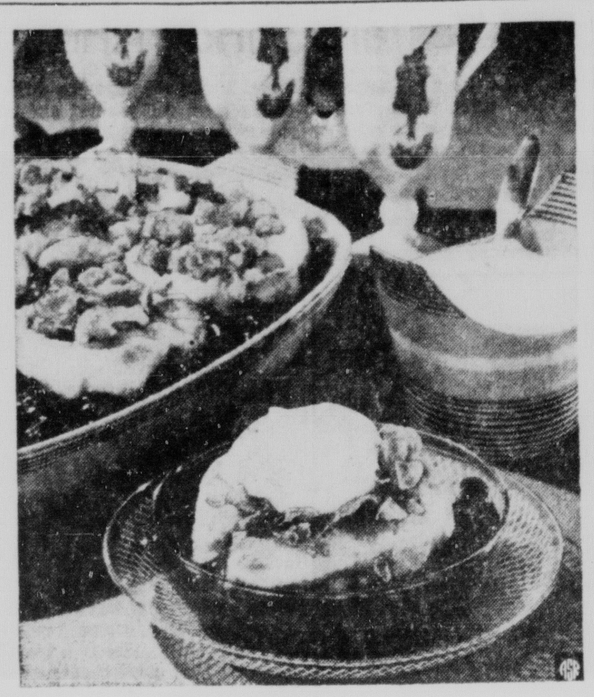

- One 10-oz. pkg. pie crust mix
- 4 tablespoons cold water

Pimiento Pieces

Heat oven to hot (425°F.). For filling, add soup, milk, peas and salt to tuna; combine thoroughly.

For crust, empty contents of package into bowl. Sprinkle cold water over mix, stirring lightly with a fork until just dampened. (If necessary to make dough hold together, add another tablespoon cold water.) Form into ball. Divide dough in half. Roll one half on lightly floured board or canvass until it is 1½ inches larger than inverted 9-inch pie plate.

Fit pastry loosely into pie plate. Trim, allowing ¼ inch beyond rim. Fill with tuna mixture. Roll other half of dough 1½ inches larger than pie plate. Cut slits to allow steam to escape. Adjust crust over filling; trim so crust extends ½ inch beyond rim. Fold top crust under bottom crust. Flute edges. Bake in preheated oven (425°F.) about 40 minutes. Remove from oven; decorate with pimiento pieces. Return to oven; bake about 5 more minutes.

Cherry Cobbler

Convenience foods star in this speedy Cereal Flake Cherry Cobbler. Biscuit dough shaped pin wheel fashion, is filled and topped with a spicy cereal flake, butter, cinnamon, brown sugar mixture. Baked atop almond flavored cherry pie filling, the finished product is a lucious combination of spicy, crunchy biscuits, with a hot cherry sauce. It is different, unusual, and so simple to make. The ingredient use of breakfast cereals adds protein, important B vitamins, essential minerals, and food energy to recipes.

Cherry Cobbler

- 2 cups corn flakes, regular or presweetened, crushed to make 1 cup
- ½ cup brown sugar, packed
- ⅓ cup butter or margarine
- ½ teaspoon cinnamon
- 2 cups packaged biscuit mix
- 1 1-pound 6-ounce can (2½ cups) cherry pie filling
- ¼ cup water
- ¼ teaspoon almond extract

Combine corn flakes, brown sugar, butter or margarine, and cinnamon. Prepare biscuit mix according to package directions, using recipe for richer biscuits. Roll dough on a lightly-floured board into a rectangle 8 x 10 inches. Spread half of cereal mixture evenly over biscuit dough and roll up, jelly-roll fashion. Mix together cherry pie filling, water, and almond extract. Heat to a simmering stage and pour into shallow oblong 1½ quart baking dish (10 x6 1¾ inches). Cut dough crosswise into 6 equal portions. Flatten each portion slightly and place on hot cherry mixture, pressing dough down into filling. Sprinkle remaining cereal mixture over top. Bake in a moderate oven (375°F.) until done, about 20 minutes. Serve warm, plain, or topped with whipped cream. Yield: 6 servings.

Talk-Of-Party Dessert

Party time and cherry pie time blend happily, especially when the pie is new and delicious. Cherry Cheese Pie, with its layers of creamy cream cheese and tart red cherry filling with surprise bits of orange, will be a delight to your guests. You'll have requests for the recipe, so why not have copies ready to give out.

Cherry Cheese Pie

- ¾ cup sugar
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 can (1 lb.) water pack red tart pitted cherries
- ¼ teaspoon red food coloring
- 2 paper thin slices orange
- 3 tablespoons light cream
- 1 pkg. (8 oz.) cream cheese
- Baked 9-inch pastry shell

Mix sugar, cornstarch and salt in a saucepan. Add liquid drained from cherries and coloring; stir until smooth. Cook until thickened and clear, stirring. Add cherries and orange slices, cut into segments (leaving peel on). Cook 5 minutes longer, stirring gently. Cool. Gradually blend cream into softened cream cheese; spread over bottom of pastry shell. Cover with cherry filling; chill. One 9-inch pie.

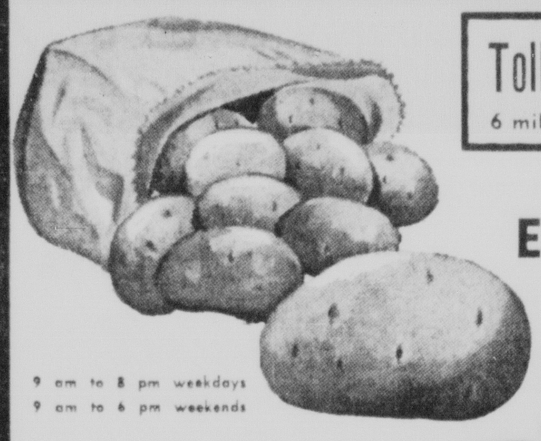

Baked Beans And
Frankfurter-Chip
Log Cabin

- 2 eggs
- 2 tblsp. water
- 2lb. Frankfurters
- 2 lb. baked beans
- 2 cups potato chips (crushed)

Cut frankfurters in quarters. Coat each quarter in egg and chip coating and quickly fry until coating is light brown all over. Fill square casserole with baked beans. Push quartered frankfurters held together horizontally with toothpicks all around the edge of dish, so that when groups of frankfurters are placed end to end, effect will appear like log cabin. Place in oven 15-20 minutes until hot all through. Just before serving place small American flag flying in center as decoration.

Speed Red Flannel Hash With Frozen French Fries

Red Flannel Hash began along New England's rocky coast, back when creative cookery meant using the same home-corned beef and root cellar vegetables in different ways to make them palatable day-in-and-day-out. Ruby red beets brighten this baked dish of corned beef, potatoes, and onion, which followed a boiled dinner of corned beef and cabbage sure as baked beans came Saturday night.

Today's creative cooking starts with an abundant variety of convenience foods that imaginative homemakers use for new dishes or turning old regional favorites into tempting modern fare. For a novel family treat that's easy to budget and glowing with color, fix Red Flannel Hash in minutes with frozen french fries (the same kind you crisp and heat for wonderful fries as the potatoes and canned beets already diced to bake with the cubed cooked meat.

Any leftover beef or even ham may be substituted for the corned beef; in that case use consomme instead of the corned beef liquor for moistening. Cut the handy strips of already scrubbed, pealed, cut-up, and delicately cooked potato into bite-sized pieces before mixing with the meat, beets, and minced onion.

An Irishman we know says his mother always ground her vegetables and meat; that way the beet juice soaked everything with true red flannel color! Get out the grinder if you wish; the cut up version given in several old recipes is quicker, and looks inviting. Putting eggs to bake in the hot hash 10-15 minutes before serving is another idea to use or not as you wish. They'll give protein when Red Flannel Hash is the main dish in a dinner menu such as this:

Red Flannel Hash
with Baked Eggs
Grapefruit and Avocado Salad
Lime Sherbert, Chocolate Brownies, Tea, Milk for Children

Red Flannel Hash

(Serves 4)

- 1 9-ounce package frozen french fries
- 1/4 cup minced onion
- 1 cup diced cooked corned beef
- 1 cup diced cooked beets, fresh or canned
- 1/2 cup corned beefstock
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- Dash of freshly ground pepper
- 4 eggs
- Parsley or watercress to garnish

Thaw french fries slightly; cut in 1/2 inch pieces. Mix all ingredients except eggs and parsley and place in greased 5-cup shallow casserole. Cover and bake in hot (400° F.) oven 20 minutes. With spoon, press 4 hollows in hash and drop an egg in each hollow; season with salt and pepper. Cover again and bake 10 to 15 minutes more until whites are set and yolks hard or soft as desired. Garnish with parsley or watercress.

Note: Roast beef, pork, or ground ham may be substituted for corned beef, and consomme or bouillon for the corned beef stock.

Tempting Tuna Pie

Tuna Filling:

- One 10 1/2 oz. can condensed cream of celery soup
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/2 cup drained cooked peas
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- Two 7-oz. cans tuna fish, drained and flaked

Pie Crust:

- One 10-oz. pkg. pie crust mix
- 4 tablespoons cold water

Pimiento Pieces

Heat oven to hot (425°F.). For filling, add soup, milk, peas and salt to tuna; combine thoroughly.

For crust, empty contents of package into bowl. Sprinkle cold water over mix, stirring lightly with a fork until just dampened. (If necessary to make dough hold together, add another tablespoon cold water.) Form into ball. Divide dough in half. Roll one half on lightly floured board or canvass until it is 1 1/2 inches larger than inverted 9-inch pie plate.

Fit pastry loosely into pie plate. Trim, allowing 1/4 inch beyond rim. Fill with tuna mixture. Roll other half of dough 1 1/2 inches larger than pie plate. Cut slits to allow steam to escape. Adjust crust over filling; trim so crust extends 1/2 inch beyond rim. Fold top crust under bottom crust. Flute edges. Bake in preheated oven (425°F.) about 40 minutes. Remove from oven; decorate with pimiento pieces. Return to oven; bake about 5 more minutes.

Cherry Cobbler

Convenience foods star in this speedy Cereal Flake Cherry Cobbler. Biscuit dough shaped pinwheel fashion, is filled and topped with a spicy cereal flake, butter, cinnamon, brown sugar mixture. Baked atop almond flavored cherry pie filling, the finished product is a lucious combination of spicy, crunchy biscuits, with a hot cherry sauce. It is different, unusual, and so simple to make. The ingredient use of breakfast cereals adds protein, important B vitamins, essential minerals, and food energy to recipes.

Cherry Cobbler

- 2 cups corn flakes, regular or presweetened, crushed to make 1 cup
- 1/2 cup brown sugar, packed
- 1/3 cup butter or margarine
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 2 cups packaged biscuit mix
- 1 1-pound 6-ounce can (2 1/2 cups) cherry pie filling
- 3/4 cup water
- 1/4 teaspoon almond extract

Combine corn flakes, brown sugar, butter or margarine, and cinnamon. Prepare biscuit mix according to package directions, using recipe for richer biscuits. Roll dough on a lightly-floured board into a rectangle 8 x 10 inches. Spread half of cereal mixture evenly over biscuit dough and roll up, jelly-roll fashion. Mix together cherry pie filling, water, and almond extract. Heat to a simmering stage and pour into shallow oblong 1 1/2 quart baking dish (10 x6 1 1/4 inches). Cut dough crosswise into 6 equal portions. Flatten each portion slightly and place on hot cherry mixture, pressing dough down into filling. Sprinkle remaining cereal mixture over top. Bake in a moderate oven (375°F.) until done, about 20 minutes. Serve warm, plain, or topped with whipped cream. Yield: 6 servings.

Talk-Of-Party Dessert

Party time and cherry pie time blend happily, especially when the pie is new and delicious. Cherry Cheese Pie, with its layers of creamy cream cheese and tart red cherry filling with surprise bits of orange, will be a delight to your guests. You'll have requests for the recipe, so why not have copies ready to give out.

Cherry Cheese Pie

- 3/4 cup sugar
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 can (1 lb.) water pack red tart pitted cherries
- 1/4 teaspoon red food coloring
- 2 paper thin slices orange
- 3 tablespoons light cream
- 1 pkg. (8 oz.) cream cheese
- Baked 9-inch pastry shell

Mix sugar, cornstarch and salt in a saucepan. Add liquid drained from cherries and coloring; stir until smooth. Cook until thickened and clear, stirring. Add cherries and orange slices, cut into segments (leaving peel on). Cook 5 minutes longer, stirring gently. Cool. Gradually blend cream into softened cream cheese; spread over bottom of pastry shell. Cover with cherry filling; chill. One 9-inch pie.

Baked Beans And
Frankfurter-Chip
Log Cabin

- 2 eggs
- 2 tblsp. water
- 2lb. Frankfurters
- 2 lb. baked beans
- 2 cups potato chips (crushed)

Cut frankfurters in quarters. Coat each quarter in egg and chip coating and quickly fry until coating is light brown all over.

Fill square casserole with baked beans. Push quartered frankfurters held together horizontally with toothpicks all around the edge of dish, so that when groups of frankfurters are placed end to end, effect will appear like log cabin. Place in oven 15-20 minutes until hot all through. Just before serving place small American flag flying in center as decoration.

Allegany-Fort Hill, Bruce-Valley Games Draw Spotlight

Alcohi Must Win To Stay In City Race

Bruce Could Take "B" Title; Romney Goes For No. 16

An important city game featuring Allegany and Fort Hill and a battle between Valley and Bruce for the Allegany County Class B title are on tap for tonight.

Fort Hill's gym will be the scene of the shooting as Allegany High School's league and county Class A champions go after a victory that would keep them in the race with LaSalle for city honors.

LaSalle is showing the way in the city championship race with a 3-0 record. Allegany is 1-1 and Fort Hill is 0-3. If the Campers win tonight's game they can tie LaSalle for city honors provided they can also beat the Explorers at Campobello February 26.

Allegany eked out a 49-48 decision over the Sentinels on January 22 at Campobello. A defeat for the Campers tonight would enable LaSalle to cop the city title, regardless of the outcome of the final game one week from tonight.

Allegany and Fort Hill will be meeting in the 52nd game of their series. Allegany holds a 35-16 lead in wins.

Bruce Holds 3-0 Lead

Coach Leonard Ritchie's Bruce High Bulldogs get an opportunity to represent Allegany County in the Class B district tourney next month if they can dispose of the Valley Black Hawks tonight in Westernport.

Bruce is 3-0 in the Allegany County Class B race while Valley is 2-1. The Westernport quint defeated Valley 59-52, in two overtime stanzas, and downed Mt. Savage twice, 77-63 and 74-66. Valley trimmed Mt. Savage twice, 64-54 and 65-52, and lost to Bruce. A victory for the Black Knights would tie up the series and necessitate a playoff game to determine the county winner.

The third W.M.I. game billed tonight as the league winds up its 40th season brings together Beall and Mt. Savage on the latter's court.

LaSalle At Berlin

LaSalle High's Explorers go after victory No. 19 when they tackle Berlin-Brothersvalley High School tonight at Berlin, Pa. Coach George Geatz's quint defeated the Pennsylvanians here earlier in the season by the score of 60-41 and goes into tonight's game with an 18-2 record.

Aiming for an undefeated season in the P.V.C., Romney High goes for win No. 16 when it plays at Capon Bridge tonight. Other conference games are Moorefield at Ridgeley, Elk Garden at Franklin and Wardensville at Mathias.

Martinsburg High will be out to avenge an earlier 59-55 loss when it winds up its two-game series with Keyser tonight in Martinsburg.

Hyndman High School opposes Chestnut Ridge in a Bedford County League game at the latter place.

YMCA Senior Men's Boxes

St. Patrick's Cops Catholic League Title

Wins 15th In Row Over Gaels, 42-23

St. Patrick's sewed up the second half title and won the season championship in the Catholic Youth Basketball League by beating St. Mary's Gaels last night on the latter's court by the score of 42-23.

The win gave Coach Gene Scaletta's quint an 8-0 mark and extended their winning streak to 15 games with two games left to play. St. Patrick's copped the first half title with a 9-1 mark. This is the school's first league title since 1948.

Bobby Neubiser led the attack with 11 points while Toby Scaletta and Zimmerman had nine each. Billy Lueck collected 14 for the Gaels.

In a twin bill at SS. Peter & Paul court, St. Michael's topped Mt. Savage, 34-24, and SS. Peter & Paul downed Westernport, 42-34.

Don Moran set a season high of 52 points on 23 field goals and 6-10 fouls and the Old Germans rolled up the highest score of the City League season when they clobbered Liberty Trust to the tune of 100-48 last night at Fort Hill High School.

The victory was the 16th in a row this season for the Old Germans who have gone 36 games without a loss over two seasons.

Harold Barmoy dumped in 24 points for the Bankers.

The best game of the evening was that in which the Old Exports nosed out the Loyal Order of Moose, 51-49. The score was knotted 13 times in this thriller and the lead changed hands six times.

Bob Pence tied it up for the final time at 49-49 with two minutes left to play. Then he won the game with two foul sots with 30 seconds remaining.

Pence headed the winners with 18 tallies. Donnie Madden and Dick Rank with 15 and 14 markers paced the Moose.

The Forty & Eight Club downed Roseland by the score of 62-50 in the third game on the program. Evers Smith was the "big gun" for the Box Car Society quint with 23 tallies. Junior Eversole was high man for Roseland with 22.

Drunks, Derelicts Statement Is Clarified By Chairman Livie

Referred To Habits Of Track Employes, Not Racing Patrons

CUMBERLAND (AP) — State Racing Commission Chairman R. Bruce Livie told Cumberland Mayor J. Edwin Keech Thursday he didn't call Cumberland race track patrons "drunks and derelicts." "It was a few track employes whose habits he questioned.

Livie's statement was the latest in the controversy which prompted Keech earlier in the day to ask Gov. Tawes to demand that the commission head apologize for his remarks.

Livie touched things off last Monday by commenting during an interview that some of Maryland's half-mile tracks were a "haven for drunks and derelicts," and that Cumberland "is the worst."

Livie told Keech in his telegram "that I can assure you that I intended no reflection on the character of the good people of Western Maryland."

"My remarks," he said, "which were quoted out of context were not directed at Cumberland specifically, but to the half mile tracks generally."

Not Directed At Patrons

"Furthermore, the reference made therein to 'derelicts and drunks' was not directed at patrons of the tracks in any sense whatsoever, but rather to a small percentage of grooms and stable boys of an undesirable type which the continued deterioration of the physical plants of half mile tracks is attracting . . ."

Livie said he had a "great respect for the number of sincere and conscientious grooms and stable boys who take pride in their work" who are generally found at Maryland tracks.

"It distresses me," Livie continued, "to see them have to go to places where facilities are not such as they should be."

Pictures Were Taken

The commission chairman added that he had visited the Cumberland track "at least four times" and said inspectors have taken pictures "of facilities presently existing and I think you must agree they leave much to be desired."

Livie then expressed the belief that efforts can be made to make "Cumberland the type of track which you and your fellow citizens could be justly proud."

The chairman said he was "distressed to learn" that the mayor and Cumberland council members had "taken offense at certain remarks attributed to me in a newspaper article originating in Annapolis."

Mayor Writes Governor

Cumberland officials had demanded an apology once and Livie replied he had no intention of giving one. Mayor Keech wrote the governor Thursday:

"We note from the local press that Mr. R. Bruce Livie . . . has refused to apologize for remarks he made insinuating that Cumberland races are attended by no one except 'drunks and derelicts'.

"We do not wish to take any policy which may be decided upon by the State of Maryland relative to horse racing, but we do strenuously object to a public official making such an unfounded statement.

Asked Public Apology

"We respectfully request that you, as governor of the State of Maryland, demand that Chairman Livie publicly apologize to not only the City of Cumberland but also the municipalities wherein other half-mile tracks are located.

"If Chairman Livie will not make such a public apology, we feel you should insist that he resign the position which he holds, the entire salary of which is paid by the taxpayers . . . It is apparent from Mr. Livie's remarks that he has forgotten the fact that he is a public servant and his very position depends upon the will of the people . . . which position he has taken an oath to fulfill. . ."

Allegany-Fort Hill, Bruce-Valley Games Draw Spotlight

Alcohi Must Win To Stay In City Race

Bruce Could Take "B" Title; Romney Goes For No. 16

An important city game featuring Allegany and Fort Hill and a battle between Valley and Bruce for the Allegany County Class B title are on tap for tonight.

Fort Hill's gym will be the scene of the shooting as Allegany High School's league and county Class A champions go after a victory that would keep them in the race with Lasalle for city honors.

LaSalle is showing the way in the city championship race with a 3-0 record. Allegany is 1-1 and Fort Hill is 0-3. If the Campers win tonight's game they can tie LaSalle for city honors provided they can also beat the Explorers at Campobello February 26.

Allegany eked out a 49-48 decision over the Sentinels on January 22 at Campobello. A defeat for the Campers tonight would enable LaSalle to cop the city title, regardless of the outcome of the final game one week from tonight.

Allegany and Fort Hill will be meeting in the 52nd game of their series. Allegany holds a 35-16 lead in wins.

Bruce Holds 3-0 Lead

Coach Leonard Ritchie's Bruce High Bulldogs get an opportunity to represent Allegany County in the Class B district tourney next month if they can dispose of the Valley Black Hawks tonight in Westernport.

Bruce is 3-0 in the Allegany County Class B race while Valley is 2-1. The Westernport quint defeated Valley 59-52, in two overtime stanzas, and downed Mt. Savage twice, 77-63 and 74-66. Valley trimmed Mt. Savage twice, 64-54 and 65-52, and lost to Bruce. A victory for the Black Knights would tie up the series and necessitate a playoff game to determine the county winner.

The third W.M.I. game billed tonight as the league winds up its 40th season brings together Beall and Mt. Savage on the latter's court.

LaSalle At Berlin

LaSalle High's Explorers go after victory No. 19 when they tackle Berlin-Brothersvalley High School tonight at Berlin, Pa. Coach George Geatz's quint defeated the Pennsylvanians here earlier in the season by the score of 60-41 and goes into tonight's game with an 18-2 record.

Aiming for an undefeated season in the P.V.C., Romney High goes for win No. 16 when it plays at Capon Bridge tonight. Other conference games are Moorefield at Ridgeley, Elk Garden at Franklin and Wardensville at Mathias.

Martinsburg High will be out to avenge an earlier 59-55 loss when it winds up its two-game series with Keyser tonight in Martinsburg.

Hyndman High School opposes Chestnut Ridge in a Bedford County League game at the latter place.

YMCA Senior Men's Boxes

The Cumberland Globes defeated St. John's Lutheran, 58-35, Zion Reformed topped Trinity Methodist, 49-41, and Old Furnace routed St. Luke's Lutheran, 104-34, in YMCA Senior Men's Basketball League games played last night at the Central YMCA.

Drunks, Derelicts Statement Is Clarified By Chairman Livie

Referred To Habits Of Track Employes, Not Racing Patrons

CUMBERLAND (AP) — State Racing Commission Chairman R. Bruce Livie told Cumberland Mayor J. Edwin Keech Thursday he didn't call Cumberland race track patrons "drunks and derelicts." "It was a few track employes whose habits he questioned.

Livie's statement was the latest in the controversy which prompted Keech earlier in the day to ask Gov. Tawes to demand that the commission head apologize for his remarks.

Livie touched things off last Monday by commenting during an interview that some of Maryland's half-mile tracks were a "haven for drunks and derelicts," and that Cumberland "is the worst."

Livie told Keech in his telegram "that I can assure you that I intended no reflection on the character of the good people of Western Maryland."

"My remarks," he said, "which were quoted out of context were not directed at Cumberland specifically, but to the half mile tracks generally.

Not Directed At Patrons

"Furthermore, the reference made therein to 'derelicts and drunks' was not directed at patrons of the tracks in any sense whatsoever, but rather to a small percentage of grooms and stable boys of an undesirable type which the continued deterioration of the physical plants of half mile tracks is attracting . . ."

Livie said he had a "great respect for the number of sincere and conscientious grooms and stable boys who take pride in their work" who are generally found at Maryland tracks.

"It distresses me," Livie continued, "to see them have to go to places where facilities are not such as they should be."

Pictures Were Taken

The commission chairman added that he had visited the Cumberland track "at least four times" and said inspectors have taken pictures "of facilities presently existing and I think you must agree they leave much to be desired."

Livie then expressed the belief that efforts can be made to make "Cumberland the type of track which you and your fellow citizens could be justly proud."

The chairman said he was "distressed to learn" that the mayor and Cumberland council members had "taken offense at certain remarks attributed to me in a newspaper article originating in Annapolis."

Mayor Writes Governor

Cumberland officials had demanded an apology once and Livie replied he had no intention of giving one. Mayor Keech wrote the governor Thursday:

"We note from the local press that Mr. R. Bruce Livie . . . has refused to apologize for remarks he made insinuating that Cumberland races are attended by no one except 'drunks and derelicts'.

"We do not wish to take any position in connection with any policy which may be decided upon by the State of Maryland relative to horse racing, but we do strenuously object to a public official making such an unfounded statement.

Asked Public Apology

"We respectfully request that you, as governor of the State of Maryland, demand that Chairman Livie publicly apologize to not only the City of Cumberland but also the municipalities wherein other half-mile tracks are located.

"If Chairman Livie will not make such a public apology, we feel you should insist that he resign the position which he holds, the entire salary of which is paid by the taxpayers . . . It is apparent from Mr. Livie's remarks that he has forgotten the fact that he is a public servant and his very position depends upon the will of the people . . . which position he has taken an oath to fulfill. . ."

Potomac State Plays Hub Five In Tournament

Nixon Opens Winter Olympics In Swirling Snowstorm

U.S. Is Host First Time Since 1932

20,000 Persons Defy Storm; Flags Of 30 Nations Hoisted

By HAL WOOD

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (UPI) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon opened the VIII Winter Olympic games Thursday in a swirling snowstorm which shrouded the pine-studded peaks of this Sierra Nevada valley.

The eight inch snow storm delayed the opening of the games—first to be held in the United States since 1932 — but more than 20,000 persons defied the storm to plod to the scene as the games were declared officially opened at 4:45 p.m., e.s.t.

Traffic was stacked up bumper to bumper for 12 miles leading to the single road into the valley as the snowfall caused postponement of the men's downhill event from Friday until Monday. It was the first weather postponement of a winter Olympic event since the pre-World War II days.

Nixon, accompanied by his wife, needed four hours to reach the Olympic scene from Sacramento, Calif., 100 miles away. Despite the difficulties, the vice president, about the only man in the valley not attired in ski clothes, was in a smiling, happy mood. He wore a dark business suit and overcoat and hat.

Flags Were Hoisted

Snow, driven by a 20 mile an hour wind, spun him through the open-end blyth ice skating arena as the Marine band from Washington, D.C., opened the ceremony and the flags of Greece, originator of the Olympic games; the United States and the Olympic banner were raised to a bugle fanfair.

The flags of the 30 competing nations were hoisted to their jackstaffs surrounding the snow covered speed skating rink and the snow, which had been falling heavily, had almost stopped as the two Olympic flag bearers leading the parade of nations took their stations for the passing of the colors.

Skiers slid through the pine-covered slope in the background as the Greek flag led the marching athletes into view in a circular tour of the 400 meter speed skating oval.

The sun broke through cheerfingly for the 4,000 brightly garbed high school bandsmen and singers stationed in the background for more than an hour before the ceremonies began.

Most Dipped Flags

Marching with a slow measured tread, the assembled teams appeared in alphabetical order. The large Australian delegation wore green parkas with gold braid. Then came Austria, dressed in grey overcoats with fur collars and smart tyrolean hats.

The Bulgarian delegation of 10 wore white parkas and then came Canada's huge team dressed in brilliant Hudson Bay jackets and black hats.

Most of the teams dipped their flags as they passed the vice president in the reviewing stand but the wooden - faced Czechs, carrying his country's red white and blue banner, marched stiffly past without lowering the flagstaff.

The German team composed of East Germans and West Germans, combined together for this spectacle designed originally to promote international harmony, did not lower their colors. But right behind the Germans, Great Britain's standard bearer dipped his flag to the vice president with a gallant flourish.

Sweden's white-capped, yellow jacketed marchers stepped past briskly behind their lowered flag and then came the Russians — favored to win the unofficial team championship — and the overcoat clad standard bearer held his crimson banner rigidly aloft as the large group of Soviets goose-stepped past.

Then there was a rousing roar from the crowd as Donald J. McDermott passed with the U.S. flag followed by the U.S. Team in its grey parkas with red, white and blue collars.

Pass Snaring Title Won By Colts' Berry

Ray Caught Total 66, Gained 959 Yards

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Raymond Berry of the Baltimore Colts, a near-sighted Texan with a weak back and legs that aren't quite the same length, won the National Football League pass receiving championship in 1959.

The league issued its official 1959 receiving statistics today. They merely certified what all Baltimore opponents and most NFL fans already knew — that Berry is the league's master pass catcher.

The former Southern Methodist star, who shared the title with Pete Retzlaff of the Philadelphia Eagles in 1958, caught 66 passes and also gained the most yards (959) and scored the most touchdowns (14) among the pass catchers in 1959.

Berry is just one of the trio that works with John Unitas to make up pro football's top passing attack. Lenny Moore of the Colts, along with Del Shofner of the Los Angeles Rams and Tommy McDonald of the Eagles, tied for second place in receiving last year with 47 receptions each. Jim Mutscheller, Unitas' other favorite target, and Billy Wilson of the San Francisco Forty-Niners tied for fifth with 44 each.

St. Louis Cardinals Sign Cunningham

ST. LOUS (AP)—Joe Cunningham, St. Louis Cardinal outfielder who ran second to Milwaukee's Hank Aaron in the National League batting title race last season, signed Thursday for more than $30,000.

The New Jersey native reportedly was asking for between $35,000 and $40,000 at the start of negotiations. He received about $24,000 last season.

Alhambra Scores In Hialeah Race

HIALEAH, Fla. (UPI) —Alhambra, winless since last summer when he took the Meadowland Handicap, was never headed as he scored a one and one-quarter length victory Thursday in the feature race at Hialeah.

The five-year-old brown horse with John Rotz in the irons, got off to a good start and opened a five-length lead over Pointer, who was second all the way. Alhambra went the seven furlong distance in 1:22-2-5.

Alhambra's payoff was $4.90, $3.20 and $2.50. Pointer paid $3.40 and $2.80 while Mister Jive returned $2.70.

Paul Harney Posts 64 In Tucson Open

Seven Tie For 2nd, Two Strokes Back

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Paul Harney dropped a 20-foot putt for an eagle on the last hole Thursday to take a one-stroke lead in the $22,500 Tucson Open Golf Tournament.

The long hitter from Worchester, Mass., concentrated on putting to knock six strokes off par with 34-30—64 for the 6,413-yard El Rio Country Club course.

Gene Littler, Singing Hills, Calif., the defending champion, and Arnold Palmer, Ligonier, Pa., recent winner at Palm Springs, were in a seven-man traffic jam with five-under-par 65s.

The others were Mason Rudolph, a rookie from Clarksdale, Tenn.; Charles Sifford, of Los Angeles, who has twice won the Negro National Open; Bob Goalby, Crystal River, Fla.; Tom Nieporte, Bronxville, N.Y., and Dave Marr, Cedarhurst, Long Island, N.Y.

Terps Beat Duke, 71-61

Sink 18 Of 19 Foul Shots In 2nd Half

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Maryland sank 18 of 19 foul shots in the second half Thursday night to defeat Duke 71-61 and break a third-place tie with the Blue Devils in the Atlantic Coast Conference basketball race.

Maryland's foul line accuracy paid off in the final six minutes when Duke started a full court press while trailing 59-52. The Terps made their last 12 points on free throws, missing just one shot.

Jerry Bechtle of Maryland led both teams with 18 points, including 12 foul tosses. Teammates Al Bunge and Paul Jelus made 14 points each, with Bunge's four field goals the most by a Maryland player.

Miami Hurricanes Hang Up Record

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—University of Miami's Hurricanes broke their own scoring record as they smashed Florida Southern College 121-85 Thursday night.

In running their record to 21 wins and 3 losses this season, the Hurricanes also clinched the Florida Intercollegiate Conference crown. They were 9-1 in conference play.

The Hurricanes repeatedly stole the ball from the bewildered Moccasins. Rony Godfrey, hitting on eight consecutive field goal attempts in the first half, wound upp with 26 points for the game's top scorer.

Schaus Would Like To Land Bill Maphis

Freddie Also Eyes Dietz And Barger

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — West Virginia Coach Fred Schaus has his eyes on many of the state's top - ranking high-school basketball players, but particular attention is being paid to three boys.

Schaus, according to Morgantown Post sports editor Tony Constantine, would most like to land Bill Maphis of Romney, Jay Dietz of South Charleston, and Mike Barger of Dunbar for the WVU freshmen team next year.

Maphis, who is averaging over 30 points per game for Romney's undefeated team, will probably be the most sought after court player in the state this year.

Dietz is one of the mainstays of South Charleston, defending Class AAA high school champs, and currently ranked first in the state by the UPI Board of Coaches. Barger is described by Schaus as an excellent back court player.

Bob Jeter Will Play Football In Canada

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UPI) — Iowa halfback Bob Jeter has signed with the British Columbia Lions, giving the Canadian Football League club the entire backfield of the 1959 Rose Bowl champions, it was announced today.

Jeter, second draft choice of the Green Bay Packers of the National Football League, joins former Hawkeye teammates quarterback Randy Duncan, halfback Willie Fleming—both with the Lions last year—and fullback Don Horn.

Sturdivant Signs

Boston (UPI) — Pitcher Tom Sturdivant, obtained from the Kansas City Athletics last year, met with General Manager Bucky Harris at Scottsdale, Ariz. Thursday and signed his 1960 contract, the Boston Red Sox announced here.

Sturdivant, a 29-year-old right-hander who broke in with the New York Yankees, was traded to Boston for catcher Pete Daley in December. He had a 2-6 record with Kansas City last season.

23 Yankees Signed

NEW YORK (UPI) The New York Yankees announced the signing of three reserve players Thursday, bringing to 23 the number of players under contract for 1960.

Latest to sign were infielder Cletus Boyer, who hit .224 for Richmond and .175 for the Yankees last year; pitcher John Gabler, who had a 14-8 mark at Denver; and pitcher Zack Monroe, who had only a 10-11 mark at Richmond despite a low 2.45 ERA.

Gus Smith To Quit Indians Leave PVC

Altoona Opens Here Jim Kelley Writes

By C. V. BURNS

CURTIS "Gus" Smith who has coached Franklin High School basketball, baseball and football teams for four years, is calling it quits at the end of the school term in June.

GUS SMITH

He has no future plans.

Smith is a graduate of Petersburg High School where he played football, basketball and baseball under Coaches John Groves and Walt Owens. In 1948 he paced the P.V.C. basketball scorers with 225 points in 16 games. Gus spent four years in the Air Force and attended Salem College, graduating in 1956.

Gus' four basketball teams at Franklin have won 57 and lost 27 games. Last year his Panthers won 21 of 24 contests and this season they won a 14-5 record and a current winning streak of 10 games.

With one season remaining, his three baseball team have won nine and lost 15. Under Smith, the Panthers have won only 4 of football 92 games.

TOM LENNON, the Canton (Ohio) barber, who once promoted fights in the Ohio City with Patsy Perroni as one of his headliners, is dead in Canton at the age of 77.

Perroni will be remembered as the clever middleweight who decisioned the tough "Chuck" Burns, of Texas, in one of the best main bouts ever staged here by Vic Ricker in the early 1930s.

Patsy lost a close decision to Joe Louis at Detroit in 1935.

ROMNEY High's 118-69 win over West Virginia School for the Deaf Tuesday was not a P.V.C. record.

Fort Ashby beat Capon Bridge, 130-52, in 1957-58 for the all-time high.

Barton's 132-10 win over Midland in 1927 is a tri-state area and W.M.I. League schoolboy record.

BERKELEY SPRINGS High School has joined the newly formed Bi-State Conference and will withdraw from the Potomac Valley Conference at the meeting to be held February 29 at Burlington.

Al Goldstrom informs us that Berkeley Springs, Hancock, Boonsboro, Shepherdstown, Musselman, Harpers Ferry and Hedgesville will make up the new circuit of Class A schools.

ALTOONA Catholic High School is the new team on Allegany High School's football schedule this year and will have the honor of opening the season with the Campers on Friday, Sept. 9 at the local stadium, according to William J. Faherty, athletic director.

Beall High School, which has been Allegany's opening opponent ten times in the last 13 years, asked for a later date and will meet the Campers here Nov. 11 or 12. Romney is off the AHS schedule after a one-year agreement.

Altoona Catholic, which has appeared on LaSalle schedules numerous times, is the first Pennsylvania school to meet Allegany in 10 years. The Campers 8-game series with Somerset High ended with their 1950 game.

Allegany's last engagement with an Altoona team was in 1931 when Walter Bowers' eleven beat Altoona Apprentice School, 13-12. In 1928, the Campers tackled mighty Altoona High and lost a hard-fought battle, 6-0.

WE HAVE AT HAND an interesting letter from James E. Kelley, Jr., Cumberland's topnotch boxing referee of bygone days, who has been working for the District of Columbia government for the past 18 months.

Kelley is safety officer in Sanitation Engineering which leads in the District's annual engineer safety classic.

JOE GARAGIOLA introduced former National League umpire Beans Reardon at a recent banquet in St. Louis in this way:

"I still can recall the wonderful words of encouragement Beans gave me, a 20-year-old green rookie catcher. He yelled at me: 'Son, you just do the catching and shut your big mouth!'"

Bradley Is Victor

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—Led by junior Al Saunders with 30 points, Bradley's second-ranked Braves Thursday night walloped Oklahoma City University 82-69 in their last non-conference basketball game of the season.

The Braves, boosting their record to 20-1 and staying unbeaten at home through 34 games, hit 34 of 66 floor shots for a 51.5 percentage.

Savitt, Fraser Are Top Seeded In Tennis Event

NEW YORK (UPI)—Dick Savitt and Neale Fraser, the top seeds, figure to have easy first-round matches when the national indoor tennis championships begin Friday afternoon in New York's 7th Regiment Armory.

Savitt, the 1958 champion and runnerup to Alex Olmedo in last year's final, opens against Bob Barker of Manhasset, N.Y. Fraser, the Australian who tops the foreign seedings, plays John Wylde of Dover, Mass., in the first round.

The field of 32 players from seven nations will be reduced to eight by Friday night's second round action. The tournament will be played Monday afternoon. Olmedo, who defeated Savitt in last year's five-set final, has turned professional.

Braves Sign Carl Willey

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—The Milwaukee Braves Thursday announced the signing of Carl Willey, the first starting pitcher to agree to the club's terms for the 1960 season.

Willey, 28, Cherryfield, Mass., had a 5-9 record last season and complained that former manager Fred Haney did not start him often enough in order to get into winning form.

In 1958, as a rookie, he won nine and lost seven, and together with bonus baby Joey Jay, was one of the young pitchers who helped Milwaukee to the pennant.

The signing of Willey and rookie outfield Al Spangler raised the number of Braves under contract to 25.

U.S. Is Host First Time Since 1932

20,000 Persons Defy Storm; Flags Of 30 Nations Hoisted

By HAL WOOD

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (UPI) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon opened the VIII Winter Olympic games Thursday in a swirling snowstorm which shrouded the pine-studded peaks of this Sierra Nevada valley.

The eight inch snow storm delayed the opening of the games—first to be held in the United States since 1932 — but more than 20,000 persons defied the storm to plod to the scene as the games were declared officially opened at 4:45 p.m., e.s.t.

Traffic was stacked up bumper to bumper for 12 miles leading to the single road into the valley as the snowfall caused postponement of the men's downhill event from Friday until Monday. It was the first weather postponement of a winter Olympic event since the pre-World War II days.

Nixon, accompanied by his wife, needed four hours to reach the Olympic scene from Sacramento, Calif., 100 miles away. Despite the difficulties, the vice president, about the only man in the valley not attired in ski clothes, was in a smiling, happy mood. He wore a dark business suit and overcoat and hat.

Flags Were Hoisted

Snow, driven by a 20 mile an hour wind, spun him through the open-end blyth ice skating arena as the Marine band from Washington, D.C., opened the ceremony and the flags of Greece, originator of the Olympic games; the United States and the Olympic banner were raised to a bugle fanfair.

The flags of the 30 competing nations were hoisted to their jackstaffs surrounding the snow covered speed skating rink and the snow, which had been falling heavily, had almost stopped as the two Olympic flag bearers leading the parade of nations took their stations for the passing of the colors.

Skiiers slid through the pine-covered slope in the background as the Greek flag led the marching athletes into view in a circular tour of the 400 meter speed skating oval.

The sun broke through cheeringly for the 4,000 brightly garbed high school bandsmen and singers stationed in the background for more than an hour before the ceremonies began.

Most Dipped Flags

Marching with a slow measured tread, the assembled teams appeared in alphabetical order. The large Australian delegation wore green parkas with gold braid. Then came Austria, dressed in grey overcoats with fur collars and smart tyrolean hats.

The Bulgarian delegation of 10 wore white parkas and then came Canada's huge team dressed in brilliant Hudson Bay jackets and black hats.

Most of the teams dipped their flags as they passed the vice president in the reviewing stand but the wooden - faced Czechs, carrying his country's red white and blue banner, marched stiffly past without lowering the flagstaff.

The German team composed of East Germans and West Germans, combined together for this spectacle designed originally to promote international harmony, did not lower their colors. But right behind the Germans, Great Britain's standard bearer dipped his flag to the vice president with a gallant flourish.

Sweden's white-capped, yellow jacketed marchers stepped past briskly behind their lowered flag and then came the Russians — favored to win the unofficial team championship — and the overcoat clad standard bearer held his crimson banner rigidly aloft as the large group of Soviets goose-stepped past.

Then there was a rousing roar from the crowd as Donald J. McDermott passed with the U.S. flag followed by the U.S. Team in its grey parkas with red, white and blue collars.

CAROL RECITES OLYMPIC OATH — Carol Heiss, America's star figure skater, takes the Olympic oath on behalf of some 740 international athletes yesterday at the formal opening of the Winter Olympic games in Squaw Valley, Calif. It was the first time that a woman had been given the honor of speaking for her fellow competitors. (AP Photofax)

Braves Sign Carl Willey

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—The Milwaukee Braves Thursday announced the signing of Carl Willey, the first starting pitcher to agree to the club's terms for the 1960 season.

Willey, 28, Cherryfield, Mass., had a 5-9 record last season and complained that former manager Fred Haney did not start him often enough in order to get into winning form.

In 1958, as a rookie, he won nine and lost seven, and together with bonus baby Joey Jay, was one of the young pitchers who helped Milwaukee to the pennant.

The signing of Willey and rookie outfield Al Spangler raised the number of Braves under contract to 25.

Gus Smith To Quit — Altoona Opens Here — Indians Leave PVC — Jim Kelley Writes

By C. V. BURNS

CURTIS "Gus" Smith, who has coached Franklin High School basketball, baseball and football teams for four years, is calling it quits at the end of the school term in June.

GUS SMITH

He has no future plans.

Smith is a graduate of Petersburg High School where he played football, basketball and baseball under Coaches John Groves and Walt Owens. In 1948 he paced the P.V.C. basketball scorers with 225 points in 16 games. Gus spent four years in the Air Force and attended Salem College, graduating in 1956.

Gus' four basketball teams at Franklin have won 57 and lost 27 games. Last year his Panthers won 21 of 24 contests and this season they won a 14-5 record and a current winning streak of 10 games.

With one season remaining, his three baseball team have won nine and lost 15. Under Smith, the Panthers have won only 4 of football 92 games.

TOM LENNON, the Canton (Ohio) barber, who once promoted fights in the Ohio City with Patsy Perroni as one of his headliners, is dead in Canton at the age of 77.

Perroni will be remembered as the clever middleweight who decisioned the tough "Chuck" Burns, of Texas, in one of the best main bouts ever staged here by Vic Ricker in the early 1930s.

Patsy lost a close decision to Joe Louis at Detroit in 1935.

ROMNEY High's 118-69 win over West Virginia School for the Deaf Tuesday was not a P.V.C. record.

Fort Ashby beat Capon Bridge, 130-52, in 1957-58 for the all-time high.

Barton's 132-10 win over Midland in 1927 is a tri-state area and W.M.I. League schoolboy record.

BERKELEY SPRINGS High School has joined the newly formed Bi-State Conference and will withdraw from the Potomac Valley Conference at the meeting to be held February 29 at Burlington.

Al Goldstrom informs us that Berkeley Springs, Hancock, Boonsboro, Shepherdstown, Musselman, Harpers Ferry and Hedgesville will make up the new circuit of Class A schools.

ALTOONA Catholic High School is the new team on Allegany High School's football schedule this year and will have the honor of opening the season with the Campers on Friday, Sept. 9 at the local stadium, according to William J. Faherty, athletic director.

Beall High School, which has been Allegany's opening opponent ten times in the last 13 years, asked for a later date and will meet the Campers here Nov. 11 or 12. Romney is off the AHS schedule after a one-year agreement.

Altoona Catholic, which has appeared on LaSalle schedules numerous times, is the first Pennsylvania school to meet Allegany in 10 years. The Campers 8-game series with Somerset High ended with their 1950 game.

Allegany's last engagement with an Altoona team was in 1931 when Walter Bowers' eleven beat Altoona Apprentice School, 13-12. In 1928, the Campers tackled mighty Altoona High and lost a hard-fought battle, 6-0.

WE HAVE AT HAND an interesting letter from James E. Kelley, Jr., Cumberland's topnotch boxing referee of bygone days, who has been working for the District of Columbia government for the past 18 months.

Kelley is safety officer in Sanitation Engineering which leads in the District's annual engineer safety classic.

JOE GARAGIOLA introduced former National League umpire Beans Reardon at a recent banquet in St. Louis in this way:

"I still can recall the wonderful words of encouragement Beans gave me, a 20-year-old green rookie catcher. He yelled at me: 'Son, you just do the catching and shut your big mouth!'"

Bradley Is Victor

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—Led by junior Al Saunders with 30 points, Bradley's second-ranked Braves Thursday night walloped Oklahoma City University 82-69 in their last non-conference basketball game of the season.

The Braves, boosting their record to 20-1 and staying unbeaten at home through 34 games, hit 34 of 66 floor shots for a 51.5 percentage.

Savitt, Fraser Are Top Seeded In Tennis Event

NEW YORK (UPI)—Dick Savitt and Neale Fraser, the top seeds, figure to have easy first-round matches when the national indoor tennis championships begin Friday afternoon in New York's 7th Regiment Armory.

Savitt, the 1958 champion and runnerup to Alex Olmedo in last year's final, opens against Bob Barker of Manhasset, N.Y. Fraser, the Australian who tops the foreign seedings, plays John Wylde of Dover, Mass., in the first round.

The field of 32 players from seven nations will be reduced to eight by Friday night's second round action. The tournament will be played Monday afternoon. Olmedo, who defeated Savitt in last year's five-set final, has turned professional.

Winter Olympics Schedule Today

Ray Caught Total 66, Gained 959 Yards

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Raymond Berry of the Baltimore Colts, a near-sighted Texan with a weak back and legs that aren't quite the same length, won the National Football League pass receiving championship in 1959.

The league issued its official 1959 receiving statistics today. They merely certified what all Baltimore opponents and most NFL fans already knew — that Berry is the league's master pass catcher.

The former Southern Methodist star, who shared the title with Pete Retzlaff of the Philadelphia Eagles in 1958, caught 66 passes and also gained the most yards (959) and scored the most touchdowns (14) among the pass catchers in 1959.

Berry is just one of the trio that works with John Unitas to make up pro football's top passing attack. Lenny Moore of the Colts, along with Del Shofner of the Los Angeles Rams and Tommy McDonald of the Eagles, tied for second place in receiving last year with 47 receptions each. Jim Mutscheller, Unitas' other favorite target, and Billy Wilson of the San Francisco Forty-Niners tied for fifth with 44 each.

St. Louis Cardinals Sign Cunningham

ST. LOUS (AP)—Joe Cunningham, St. Louis Cardinal outfielder who ran second to Milwaukee's Hank Aaron in the National League batting title race last season, signed Thursday for more than $30,000.

The New Jersey native reportedly was asking for between $35,000 and $40,000 at the start of negotiations. He received about $24,000 last season.

Alhambra Scores In Hialeah Race

HIALEAH, Fla. (UPI) —Alhambra, winless since last summer when he took the Meadowland Handicap, was never headed as he scored a one and one-quarter length victory Thursday in the feature race at Hialeah.

The five-year-old brown horse with John Rotz in the irons, got off to a good start and opened a five-length lead over Pointer, who was second all the way. Alhambra went the seven furlong distance in 1:22-2-5.

Alhambra's payoff was $4.90, $3.20 and $2.50. Pointer paid $3.40 and $2.80 while Mister Jive returned $2.70.

Paul Harney Posts 64 In Tucson Open

Seven Tie For 2nd, Two Strokes Back

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Paul Harney dropped a 20-foot putt for an eagle on the last hole Thursday to take a one-stroke lead in the $22,500 Tucson Open Golf Tournament.

The long hitter from Worchester, Mass., concentrated on putting to knock six strokes off par with 34-30—64 for the 6,413-yard El Rio Country Club course.

Gene Littler, Singing Hills, Calif., the defending champion, and Arnold Palmer, Ligonier, Pa., recent winner at Palm Springs, were in a seven-man traffic jam with five-under-par 65s.

The others were Mason Rudolph, a rookie from Clarksdale, Tenn.; Charles Sifford, of Los Angeles, who has twice won the Negro National Open; Bob Goalby, Crystal River, Fla.; Tom Nieporte, Bronxville, N.Y., and Dave Marr, Cedarhurst, Long Island, N.Y.

Terps Beat Duke, 71-61

Sink 18 Of 19 Foul Shots In 2nd Half

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Maryland sank 18 of 19 foul shots in the second half Thursday night to defeat Duke 71-61 and break a third-place tie with the Blue Devils in the Atlantic Coast Conference basketball race.

Maryland's foul line accuracy paid off in the final six minutes when Duke started a full court press while trailing 59-52. The Terps made their last 12 points on free throws, missing just one shot.

Jerry Bechtle of Maryland led both teams with 18 points, including 12 foul tosses. Teammates Al Bunge and Paul Jelus made 14 points each, with Bunge's four field goals the most by a Maryland player.

Miami Hurricanes Hang Up Record

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Univrsity of Miami's Hurricanes broke their own scoring record as they smashed Florida Southern College 121-85 Thursday night.

In running their record to 21 wins and 3 losses this season, the Hurricanes also clinched the Florida Intercollegiate Conference crown. They were 9-1 in conference play.

The Hurricanes repeatedly stole the ball from the bewildered Moccasins. Rony Godfrey, hitting on eight consecutive field goal attempts in the first half, wound upp with 26 points for the game's top scorer.

Schaus Would Like To Land Bill Maphis

Freddie Also Eyes Dietz And Barger

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — West Virginia Coach Fred Schaus has his eyes on many of the state's top - ranking high-school basketball players, but particular attention is being paid to three boys.

Schaus, according to Morgantown Post sports editor Tony Constantine, would most like to land Bill Maphis of Romney, Jay Dietz of South Charleston, and Mike Barger of Dunbar for the WVU freshmen team next year.

Maphis, who is averaging over 30 points per game for Romney's undefeated team, will probably be the most sought after court player in the state this year.

Dietz is one of the mainstays of South Charleston, defending Class AAA high school champs, and currently ranked first in the state by the UPI Board of Coaches. Barger is described by Schaus as an excellent back court player.

Bob Jeter Will Play Football In Canada

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UPI) — Iowa halfback Bob Jeter has signed with the British Columbia Lions, giving the Canadian Football League club the entire backfield of the 1959 Rose Bowl champions, it was announced today.

Jeter, second draft choice of the Green Bay Packers of the National Football League, joins former Hawkeye teammates quarterback Randy Duncan, halfback Willie Fleming—both with the Lions last year—and fullback Don Horn.

Sturdivant Signs

Boston (UPI) — Pitcher Tom Sturdivant, obtained from the Kansas City Athletics last year, met with General Manager Bucky Harris at Scottsdale, Ariz. Thursday and signed his 1960 contract, the Boston Red Sox announced here.

Sturdivant, a 29-year-old right-hander who broke in with the New York Yankees, was traded to Boston for catcher Pete Daley in December. He had a 2-6 record with Kansas City last season.

23 Yankees Signed

NEW YORK (UPI) The New York Yankees announced the signing of three reserve players Thursday, bringing to 23 the number of players under contract for 1960.

Latest to sign were infielder Cletus Boyer, who hit .224 for Richmond and .175 for the Yankees last year; pitcher John Gabler, who had a 14-8 mark at Denver; and pitcher Zack Monroe, who had only a 10-11 mark at Richmond despite a low 2.45 ERA.

Bowie To Have Ten Races On Four Days

BOWIE, Md. (AP) — Bowie is going to expand four of its daily programs from nine to 10 races, beginning tomorrow, to make up four races lost because of a snowstorm.

The last four races were cancelled last Saturday because jockeys complained the heavy snowfall was obscuring their vision. Among the four was the inaugural running of the $15,000-added Francis Scott Key, which will not be offered this year.

Bowie will make up the other three next Monday and the two succeeding Saturdays. Post time will be unchanged for the 10-race programs but there will be a shorter interval between races.

Matthews, Godih To Fight Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — Len Matthews meets 30-year-old Iahouari Godih, an Algerian-born Parisian, Friday night in a 10-round lightweight match at Madison Square Garden.

The ratings show the 20-year-old Matthews No. 7 in the National Boxing Assn. and No. 6 in Ring among the contenders for Joe Brown's title. Godih is not ranked.

Godih gave up the French title when he came here to campaign in 1958.

Two judges and a referee will score the nationally televised bout (10 EST NBC) by rounds, using a supplementary point system in case the rounds are even.

Eddie Kasko, Cincinnati infielder, batted .369 against St. Louis last season. He formerly played for the Cardinals.

Salvation Army Board Will Meet Monday

The Salvation Army Advisory Board will meet at 12:15 p.m. Monday at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

It will be the first meeting for J. Wallace Close as new chairman of the board. James S. Getty is the vice chairman. Earl M. Nonemann continues as secretary and Milton Bernstein is the new treasurer. New members of the board are Alvin H. Wilson, William H. Oburn, John B. White, A. Trago Brust Jr., Ray J. Canon, G. Ray Light, John J. Rowan and Daniel Y. Browne.

Oldster To Wed

School Officials Attend Convention

Included are Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster, Assistant Superintendent Richard T. Rizer and Jack A. Petry, supervisor of high schools.

A former superintendent of schools in nearby Washington County is the new president of the American Association of School Administrators. He is Dr. Benjamin C. Willis, 58-year-old native of Baltimore, who served as teacher, principal and superintendent in Maryland public schools from 1922 until 1947. He was Caroline County superintendent from 1934 until 1940 and Washington County superintendent from 1940 until 1947. He was superintendent in Yonkers, N.Y. from 1947-50, at Buffalo, N.Y. from 1950 to 1953 and has been superintendent in Chicago since 1953.

Hospital Plan Cites 1959 As Growth Year

BALTIMORE (AP)—Blue Cross hailed 1959 Thursday as a year of "unprecedented growth and service to the Maryland community."

The health insurance plan operated by Maryland Hospital Service Inc. also noted a 1½ million dollar operating loss during the year, but a spokesman said:

"This is not an alarming situation but the results of nearly a full year of deficit operation before we got the October rate increase."

The 19½ per cent increase granted last October was the second for Blue Cross in a two-year period.

Executive Director R. H. Dabney, in the preliminary report on 1959 operations, said the total of 1,043,000 subscribers in Maryland was up 25,000 from the year before and an all-time high.

Pay $27 Million

More than 27 million dollars was paid to 211,000 of these subscribers, he said, and the 102,000 in-patient admissions included 23,000 maternity and 84,000 out-patient cases. The average cost of an in-patient case, excluding maternity, was $231.

The report did not mention a legislative investigation of Blue Cross which was prompted by the rate hike application and resulted in a bill now before the Legislature in Annapolis.

A committee headed by Sen. John-Clarence North (D - Talbot) recommended requiring Blue Cross to use uniform hospital cost figures developed by the State Health Department, giving subscribers a stronger voice on its board of directors, rewording contracts to make extent of coverage clearer to subscribers, and instituting deductible contracts.

The bill has not reached the floor of the Legislature. It has been in the Rules Committee since the current session opened Feb. 3.

Expands Board

Blue Cross said it has expanded its board membership from 21 to 33, "with a majority of trustees to be representatives of the public." It also has set up an organization, in cooperation with the State Health Department and the Maryland Hospital Council, to analyze and report on hospital costs in the state.

It also has submitted to the state insurance commissioner a proposed $100 deductible plan similar to automobile insurance.

This means a subscriber if he wished would pay the first $100 in hospital expenses and in turn would pay lower premium rates.

Other accomplishments of the year listed by Blue Cross included screening hospital admissions to combat abuse of the plan, expansion of its public education, creation of a subscriber advisory committee and opening its non-group program to persons over 65.

(Philmore Fleming, manager of the district Blue Cross office in Cumberland, said more than 39,000 people in Allegany and Garrett counties are enrolled in Blue Cross. Of this number, he said, nearly 10,000 shared in more than $1,000,000 of Blue Cross benefits in 1959.)

$1,572 Settlement Ends Damage Suit

A $1,572.45 damage suit and its out - of - court settlement for that exact amount have been filed together in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The suit was filed in behalf of Leo C. Kennell, infant, by Archie Kennell and Esta L. Kennell, his parents and next friends, 233 Williams Street, against William Carl White, RFD 3, Lake Gordon Road.

In the declaration, filed by Attorney William H. Geppert, it was stated that young Kennell was a passenger last December 5 in an automobile owned by William Ward White and operated by his agent, William Carl White. While traveling south on West Virginia Route 28 about one mile south of Short Gap, the car ran off the highway and struck a shale embankment, causing considerable injury to young Kennell.

The $1,572.45 settlement was signed by Mr. Geppert and James S. Getty, as defense attorney.

State Supervisor Observes Science Teaching Here

Lewin A. Wheat, state supervisor of high schools, is visiting high schools of Allegany County primarily for the purpose of observing the teaching of science—biology, chemistry and physics—in the senior high school level.

He was accompanied yesterday by Jack A. Petry, supervisor of high schools in Allegany County public schools. They will visit other schools today.

The state supervisor has been observing instruction, and surveying facilities. The National Defense Education Act provides federal funds for science, mathematics, language and guidance equipment.

Mr. Wheat said he saw good teaching procedure, good student interest, plenty of activity and high teacher interest in the schools visited yesterday. A state supervisor for about a year, Mr. Wheat formerly was a science teacher in Kent County on the Eastern Shore.

tains, where the temperature should range from 28 to 35 degrees.

Power Lines Snap

In the Frostburg area, all Potomac Edison Company linemen were called out early last night after scattered trouble developed as the snow built up from eight to 10 inches.

Edward L. Ewald, district manager, said scattered branch power lines were down in the Bittinger, Midland, Lonaconing, Mt. Savage and Eckhart areas.

The wires were being snapped by the weight of the snow and by falling trees.

Line Department men were called out by 7 p. m. and were reported making progress by late last night, even though rising wind was adding to the difficulty of the job.

Officials said crews will continue work until full service is restored.

Phone Circuits Out

A spokesman for the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company said last night toll circuits were out of service between Cumberland and Moorefield, Petersburg, Bedford, Bedford Valley, Johnstown, Altoona, Paw Paw and Levels, W. Va.

Calls to these places were being re-routed through other cities.

The C&P spokesman said there also was some scattered local trouble because of the ice and snow. Crews were working throughout the night to restore service to normal.

The heavy, wet snow affected telephone lines between Cumberland and Bedford, Pa., interrupting teletype service to the Times-News offices.

Local Church Plans To Show Film Sunday

A film, "A Better World Begins With Me," which deals with the personal evangelism movement, will be shown Sunday at 7:30 p. m. at Trinity Methodist Church, 122 Grand Avenue.

Rev. Louis Emerick, pastor, said the public is invited to see the movie made available by the Board of Evangelism of the Methodist Church.

Local 1024 Drops Woodwork Contest For This Year

Local 1024, Carpenters Union, which has sponsored the woodworking contest among seniors in the vocational industrial arts program of Allegany County school, has decided to drop the contest just for this year.

J. D. Lonnholm, supervisor of vocational, industrial and adult education in Allegany County public schools, said the decision was made primarily because of the necessity of changing teachers in the program at Beall High School in Frostburg. J. Stanley Hunter, who had been the instructor for a good many years, had to give up teaching because of illness last November. Albert K. Loper, who had been teaching printing at Allegany and Fort Hill, filled in for the rest of the first semester.

Since the first of February Donald C. Adams of Menomonie, Wis., has been the Beall teacher. The unsettled condition at Beall left only Fort Hill and Bruce high schools in the running. As a consequence, George A. Brown, secretary of Local 1024, informed Mr. Lonnholm that he contest would be dropped for this year only.

Two Seek Tests For Lab Position

The Cumberland Civil Service Board has received two applications for the position of laboratory technician at the sewage treatment plant.

Wallace G. Ullery, secretary of the Civil Service Commission, said the applications will be reviewed and a date for an examination set when the commission meets February 23 at City Hall.

The position has been filled on a temporary basis pending the appointment of a successor to Joseph Divico, who resigned several weeks ago to accept other employment.

Fire Company Begins Fund Raising Plan

Bowman's Addition Fire Company will sponsor a spaghetti dinner from 2 to 7:30 p. m. Sunday at the fire hall as the first in a series of monthly benefits for the new fire truck fund.

A goal of $6,000 has been set for the fund and $3,900 has been accumulated over a period of time.

Visiting Collector Brings In $620

Allegany County Tax Collector William B. Orndorff reported yesterday that visits last week to four county communities outside Cumberland brought in $620.34 in delinquent taxes.

More than half of this total, $327.67, came from Westernport. Other totals were $162.79, Lonaconing; $80.49, Mt. Savage, and $40.39, Frostburg. Isaac J. Smith, assistant to the collector, visited the four towns from Monday through Thursday.

Missionaries To Speak At Two Churches

Calvary Baptist Church of Cresaptown and Eckhart Baptist Church are joining to bring to this area missionaries from Europe, Asia, Africa and Indonesia as well as the United States in their fifth annual World Vision Missionary Conference.

The conference, which begins Sunday morning and continues through Sunday, February 28, will present three foreign-born Christian workers along with the other speakers.

The workers include:

Theodore Choy, born in China, who is connected with the International Students and is working among the thousands of Chinese students in this country; Norman Camp, born of missionary parents in the Belgian Congo of Africa and now serving in that same area with the Conservative Baptist Foreign Missionary Society.

Also John Marot, a native Frenchman, educated on this side of the Atlantic Ocean and now returning under Baptist Mid-Missions to his own country; Verne Kirby, also under Baptist Mid-Missions, laboring in Christian education work in Kentucky; Robert Johnson, from Java, Indonesia, is the fifth missionary and will tell of the opening of local churches in this area.

Meetings will be held nightly at 7:30 in both the Cresaptown and Eckhart Baptist churches and on Sunday mornings at 10:30.

Rev. Harold Allem is pastor of the Cresaptown Church, and Rev. Brooks N. Henry is pastor of the Eckhart Church. The public is invited to attend these sessions.

4-H Officer Training Workshop Set Tonight

About 50 boys and girls of 4-H clubs of Allegany County are expected to attend the 4-H Club Officers Training Workshop at 7:30 p. m. today at the Extension Office at the Court House here.

James B. Arnold, assistant county farm agent in charge of 4-H club work, said the clubs are being reminded to have as many officers as possible attending the workshop. Duties of each officer will be discussed and demonstrated at the meeting.

PAY MORE? FOR WHAT?

For more room maybe? You'll never need it. Valiant's got room for a family of six and their luggage. Could be it's spunk you're after? Valiant's got that too, from a 101 horsepower inclined engine that's got an extraordinarily light touch with a gallon of regular. Looks, we won't even mention. You could pay twice the price and not even come close to the "Valiant Look." And all the money in a miser's sock can't buy a fully-unitized body that's rust-proofed and rattle-proofed the way Valiant's is. Something else about Valiant you're really going to like, the alternator electrical system. You'd pay a pretty penny to get it anywhere else. On Valiant it's standard equipment. What does it do? It makes your battery last longer, much longer. Because it charges even at idle. Beginning to get the answer to our question? Sure! So why even think about paying more, when Valiant has it all? Visiting Collector Brings In $620

Allegany County Tax Collector William B. Orndorff reported yesterday that visits last week to four county communities outside Cumberland brought in $620.34 in delinquent taxes.

More than half of this total, $327.67, came from Westernport. Other totals were $162.79, Lonaconing; $80.49, Mt. Savage, and $40.39, Frostburg. Isaac J. Smith, assistant to the collector, visited the four towns from Monday through Thursday.

Missionaries To Speak At Two Churches

Calvary Baptist Church of Cresaptown and Eckhart Baptist Church are joining to bring to this area missionaries from Europe, Asia, Africa and Indonesia as well as the United States in their fifth annual World Vision Missionary Conference.

The conference, which begins Sunday morning and continues through Sunday, February 28, will present three foreign-born Christian workers along with the other speakers.

The workers include:

Theodore Choy, born in China, who is connected with the International Students and is working among the thousands of Chinese students in this country; Norman Camp, born of missionary parents in the Belgian Congo of Africa and now serving in that same area with the Conservative Baptist Foreign Missionary Society.

Also John Marot, a native Frenchman, educated on this side of the Atlantic Ocean and now returning under Baptist Mid-Missions to his own country; Verne Kirby, also under Baptist Mid-Missions, laboring in Christian education work in Kentucky; Robert Johnson, from Java, Indonesia, is the fifth missionary and will tell of the opening of local churches in this area.

Meetings will be held nightly at 7:30 in both the Cresaptown and Eckhart Baptist churches and on Sunday mornings at 10:30.

Rev. Harold Allem is pastor of the Cresaptown Church, and Rev. Brooks N. Henry is pastor of the Eckhart Church. The public is invited to attend these sessions.

4-H Officer Training Workshop Set Tonight

About 50 boys and girls of 4-H clubs of Allegany County are expected to attend the 4-H Club Officers Training Workshop at 7:30 p. m. today at the Extension Office at the Court House here.

James B. Arnold, assistant county farm agent in charge of 4-H club work, said the clubs are being reminded to have as many officers as possible attending the workshop. Duties of each officer will be discussed and demonstrated at the meeting.

PAY MORE? FOR WHAT?

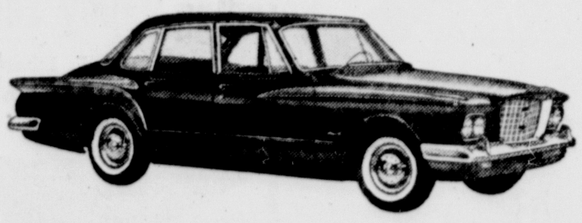

For more room maybe? You'll never need it. Valiant's got room for a family of six and their luggage. Could be it's spunk you're after? Valiant's got that too, from a 101 horsepower inclined engine that's got an extraordinarily light touch with a gallon of regular. Looks, we won't even mention. You could pay twice the price and not even come close to the "Valiant Look." And all the money in a miser's sock can't buy a fully-unitized body that's rust-proofed and rattle-proofed the way Valiant's is. Something else about Valiant you're really going to like, the alternator electrical system. You'd pay a pretty penny to get it anywhere else. On Valiant it's standard equipment. What does it do? It makes your battery last longer, much longer. Because it charges even at idle. Beginning to get the answer to our question? Sure! So why even think about paying more, when Valiant has it all? At your Plymouth-Valiant dealer's.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — You will be hearing about young Rod Lauren in the future, a good-looking young singer who has been kept under wraps by Hal Wallis for several months. Hal believes he has a gold mine in 20-year-old Rod, and I wouldn't be surprised if he has another Elvis Presley. The first time the movie producer heard Rod was on the Perry Como show, and he was so impressed with the boy's singing and his appearance that he made arrangements to bring him to Hollywood.

Rod's been tested for many Wallis movies, and now it's settled that he is to have the juvenile lead in "The Sons of Katie Elder," with John Sturges directing. Rod's from a small town in northern California, and his only theatrical experience was in a Sacramento Theatre in "Diary of Ann Frank." He's been on the Dick Clark and other TV shows and the sales on his record "If I Had a Girl" have gone sky high.

"Cabinet of Dr. Caligari," the granddaddy of all the horror plays, is being brought back to motion pictures. I reviewed it years and years ago. It was made in Italy and was considered one of the three greatest films, the others being "Potemkin" and "Birth of a Nation." "Cabinet of Dr. Caligari" played in Paris for seven years.

Sandy Howard, who is bringing it back, us using Jack de Witt's screenplay, and Mitchell Hamilburg is negotiating with Salvidor Dali to do the sets—a madman's fantasy—which calls for great imagination.

Teaming Shirley MacLaine and Dean Martin again, this time in "All in a Night's Work," is Hal Wallis' No. 1 project since his return from New York. Hal is so certain he will have this picture in work by April 11, that he signed Joe Anthony in New York to direct Shirley and Dean.

I asked if "All in a Night's Work" is Shirley's final movie under contract to Hal. It isn't. She has two more to make for him after this one with Dean. I'll say Hal is lucky because, after "Can-Can," reports are Shirley will be hotter than ever and she's never been cold since she hit the screen.

Never suspected that anything I wrote would throw the United Nations and the governments of Germany and Austria into such a snit as a "mistaken impression" conveyed by an item I printed about Yul Brynner's visits to camps in these countries as a representative of the U.N.

Having no desire to get into an international situation—and with enough troubles on hand locally, may I clarify the situation:

Yul visited United Nations refugee camps in Germany and Austria—not prison camps. The German and Austrian governments have done a great deal, he says, for the refugees in contributions of food, clothing, housing and employment. The refugees in camps are not prisoners—but free to come and go. The current "World Refugee Year" drive aims to resettle as many as possible of the 17,000 refugees. On May 27, CBS will beam "Yul Brynner's Odyssey."

I suppose we could say Sarah Churchill had the last laugh in London when the critics praised her performance in her stage play "The New Life of a Virile Potato." The play, by a 22-year-old barmaid, didn't fare so well.

But it must have given her a big laugh because the critics went all-out to praise her and that's just what she needed. So she'll probably get herself a play with more substance.

I couldn't believe it was Sarah's first appearance on the London stage but she tells me it is.

Jack Dales, executive secretary of the Screen Actors Guild, telephoned to say that the Hollywood membership which I said a few days ago, was not voting in favor of the strike, is now voting very strongly for a strike along with the New York membership, which is overwhelmingly voting "yes".

With everyone else who lovs this industry, I am praying that somthing will happen to keep the actors from striking at this time and putting so many people out of work. I probably have been in this business longer than almost anyone who is still active, and I hate to see our industry, which has already gone through such a bad time, suffer further. Certainly there should be no problem too great that arbitration cannot bring about a solution.

Ridgeley Pastor To Get Degree

When Joseph C. Gluck, dean of men at West Virginia University, speaks at Calvary Methodist Church in Ridgeley at the 11 a. m. service Sunday he will also present the degree of bachelor of arts to Rev. Harold L. May, pastor of the church.

Rev. May recently completed studies at the university.

Gluck will deliver the sermon on "The Fruits of Faith" at the service. The Calvary Choir will sing "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Gluck was a Navy chaplain during World War II and holds a bachelor of arts degree from Bethany College and a bachelor of divinity degree from the School of Divinity at Yale University

Card Of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our friends, neighbors, and relatives who were so kind to us during our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved son and brother, Edgar W. Donius. We especially wish to thank Rev. Thomas W. Beckett, the pallbearers, those who sent floral tributes, those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral and all others who in any manner rendered assistance.

MRS. GEORGE DONIUS AND FAMILY.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our friends, neighbors, and relatives who were so kind to us during our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved son and brother, Edgar W. Donius. We especially wish to thank Rev. Thomas W. Beckett, the pallbearers, those who sent floral tributes, those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral and all others who in any manner rendered assistance.
MRS. GEORGE DONIUS
AND FAMILY.

Prosecuting Attorney Lauds Local Police

Police Commissioner Philmore Fleming has received warm praise from Donald C. Hott, prosecuting attorney for Mineral County, for the work of the Cumberland Police Department in the arrest and conviction of two men recently.

He said Officers Royce Clayton and James E. Morris deserve the highest of praise for alertness in spotting the automobile driven by Stanley Bonney and Wellsford J. Mahoney Jr. here November 5.

Mr. Hott added that Detective Kenneth Morrissey and Assistant Chief John E. Sherry deserved praise for the efficiency in which they apprehended the men.

Youth Initiated

Philip T. Cioni, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul T. Cioni, Greenpoint Addition, has been initiated in Beta Theta Pi Fraternity at John Hopkins University. He is majoring in engineering.

Lincoleum was invented in the early 1860's by an Englishman named Frederick Walton.

Goodbye, Beard

James A. Buchanan IV, Montgomery County Republican who wants his party's nomination for Congressman from the Sixth District, has his beard shaved in a public ceremony by Dorothy Aubinoe, a party leader. Mr. Buchanan, who said he grew the beard after being badly sunburned while sailing last summer, doesn't think shaving it off will hurt his political chances. His opponents in the Republican primary are R. Byng Duvall, also of Montgomery County, and Charles Mathias of Frederick County.

W.Va. University Will Open Bids On Housing Project

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) —West Virginia University announced Thursday that it will open bids March 5 on a new $5,000,000 housing project for which plans were disclosed earlier.

Advance Notice

NEW YORK (AP)—Ohio State and Utah will compete with six Eastern College Athletic Conference teams in the ninth annual Holiday Basketball Festival to be held Dec. 27, 29 and 30 in Madison Square Garden. The ECAC member teams in the tourney are Penn, Providence, St. Bonaventure, St. John's, St. Joseph's and Seton Hall. Cincinnati won the tournament last December.

Panama Canal Rival?

Foreign Aid

Maintenance Units At Filter Plant To Get New Quarters

Franklin J. Blaney, assistant city engineer-sanitation, said the electrical and plumbing departments and the carpenter shop are being moved from the mechanic's garage at the bottom of the main building.

The mechanic's garage, he said, will be used only for storage and maintenance of vehicles.

City Advertises For Truck Bids

Bids will be opened by the Mayor and Council on February 29 at 10 a.m. Provisions must be made in all bids for trade-in allowances for one 1946 model one-ton express truck and a 1950 model 1½-ton dump truck.

DRIED SPUDS

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — Dehydrated potatoes are as old as the Incas. A major spice and herb packer (the R. T. French Co.) says Indians of pre-Spanish Peru used a drying process that began with freezing spuds on the ground during the night. Water was removed the next day by treading the potatoes with bare feet. Four to five trampings on consecutive days were followed by sun-drying and storage.

Prosecuting Attorney Lauds Local Police

Police Commissioner Philmore Fleming has received warm praise from Donald C. Hott, prosecuting attorney for Mineral County, for the work of the Cumberland Police Department in the arrest and conviction of two men recently.

He said Officers Royce Clayton and James E. Morris deserve the highest of praise for alertness in spotting the automobile driven by Stanley Bonney and Wellsford J. Mahoney Jr. here November 5.

Mr. Hott added that Detective Kenneth Morrissey and Assistant Chief John E. Sherry deserved praise for the efficiency in which they apprehended the men.

Goodbye, Beard

James A. Buchanan IV, Montgomery County Republican who wants his party's nomination for Congressman from the Sixth District, has his beard shaved in a public ceremony by Dorothy Aubinoe, a party leader. Mr. Buchanan, who said he grew the beard after being badly sunburned while sailing last summer, doesn't think shaving it off will hurt his political chances. His opponents in the Republican primary are R. Byng Duvall, also of Montgomery County, and Charles Mathias of Frederick County.

W.Va. University Will Open Bids On Housing Project

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) —West Virginia University announced Thursday that it will open bids March 5 on a new $5,000,000 housing project for which plans were disclosed earlier.

The work includes construction of four faculty apartment buildings at the Medical Center and additions to two women's dormitory buildings on the main campus.

Advance Notice

NEW YORK (AP)—Ohio State and Utah will compete with six Eastern College Athletic Conference teams in the ninth annual Holiday Basketball Festival to be held Dec. 27, 29 and 30 in Madison Square Garden. The ECAC member teams in the tourney are Penn, Providence, St. Bonaventure, St. John's, St. Joseph's and Seton Hall. Cincinnati won the tournament last December.

SEATO Air Games

CLARK AIR FORCE BASE, Philippines (AP) — Airmen from five member nations of SEATO will participate here in "Operation Flying Brothers," a demonstration of international defense cooperation March 26-April 8.

Panama Canal Rival?

Foreign Aid

Maintenance Units At Filter Plant To Get New Quarters

Franklin J. Blaney, assistant city engineer-sanitation, said the electrical and plumbing departments and the carpenter shop are being moved from the mechanic's garage at the bottom of the main building.

A bench and cupboards, he said, are being built in the old operator's room, so tools and equipment can be stored where they are needed.

The mechanic's garage, he said, will be used only for storage and maintenance of vehicles.

City Advertises For Truck Bids

The City of Cumberland is advertising for bids for the purchase of a two-ton dump truck and a ½-ton pickup truck to be used by the Street Department.

Bids will be opened by the Mayor and Council on February 29 at 10 a.m. Provisions must be made in all bids for trade-in allowances for one 1946 model one-ton express truck and a 1950 model 1½-ton dump truck.

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (NEA) — Tom Laughlin, member of the Marquette University football team of 1951, is currently starring in the movie, "The Proper Time," which he also wrote, directed and produced.

DRIED SPUDS

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — Dehydrated potatoes are as old as the Incas. A major spice and herb packer (the R. T. French Co.) says Indians of pre-Spanish Peru used a drying process that began with freezing spuds on the ground during the night. Water was removed the next day by treading the potatoes with bare feet. Four to five trampings on consecutive days were followed by sun-drying and storage.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

Market Rallies Sharply On Fairly Heavy Trading

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market rallied sharply on all fronts Thursday despite a late sinking spell which dropped most issues from their best levels of the day.

The advance restored more than four billion dollars to stock valuations, and came on fairly heavy trading. The two-day rise on increased volume gave brokers encouragement that the rally they had been waiting for since the start of the year may be underway.

Industrials advanced 8.64 to 622.19 in their average, which added to Wednesday's 2.22 rise all but wipes out the 10.90-point loss suffered on Monday and Tuesday.

Brokers noted that Wednesday's climatic selling binge was in the order of a shakeout that helped set the stage for the current rise. The chartists also point out that for the first time in 1960 the three Dow-Jones averages advanced together in two consecutive sessions. This in itself, they believe could rekindle some new investor confidence.

Electronics scored the best gains as a group although profit-taking dropped them below their tops. IBM and Motorola jumped more than 3 each, Zenith and Beckman more than 2.

Among the 15 most active issues, 13 advanced, one declined fractionally and one held unchanged. Trading at 3,800,000 shares, was heavy by recent standards, though below the 4,210,000 shares traded on Wednesday, which was the heaviest since May 7, 1959.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Firm Finances School Buses

NEW YORK (UPI) — Some state school systems are using installment financing to help solve the problem of school bus transportation.

Pupil transportation is one of the critical problems facing the U.S. educational system. In 1929, some 1.9 million children, were being carried to school at public expense. By 1958, 10.5 million youngsters were using public school transportation at a cost of $384 million annually.

School boards have been caught in the squeeze of increased transportation demands and under-financing. Each year they are required to fight harder for a slice of the tax dollars. And many are hampered by state legislation that prohibits buying school buses on an installment basis.

But some states have found a gleam of hope in a program drawn up and offered by the Divco-Wayne Sales Financial Corp., a financing organization established to spur sales for the company's Wayne Works Bus Divison in Richmond, Ind.

In Michigan, for example, where the legislature has given school boards more flexibility than in most other states, the financing group offered a solution in one area where banks were unwilling to extend long-term credit for needed buses to school boards already in debt.

After noting how much the Pinconning Area School Board was spending to maintain old equipment, the financing corporation convinced the school superintendent that it would be more economical to buy new ones.

N.Y. Eggs And Butter

Nearby whites: top quality (48-50 lbs) 30½-34; mediums 28½-29½; smalls 23½-24½. Browns: top quality (48-50 lbs) 34-36; mediums 33½-35; smalls 27-28½.

Butter offerings moderate. Demand spotty. Receipts 513,000. Prices unchanged.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) — Rye and soybeans closed higher and other grains mostly steady Thursday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At tthe closing bell, wheat was off ¾ to up ⅜; corn off ¼ to up ⅛; oats off ¾ to up ⅜; rye off ¼ to up1⅛; soybeans up ⅜ to ¾.

Wheat futures held mostly steady after easing earlier on commission house selling. Some early selling in nearby months resulted after a government report showed farmers had placed less 1959 wheat under loan than had been expected. A fair demand for wheat came from commercial houses.

March corn encountered some selling pressure at the start, but prices closed mostly steady.

The oats market was quiet. Prices were mostly steady. A moderate commission house trade was on both sides of the market.

Oils were slightly higher. Meals were easy.

Market Rallies Sharply On Fairly Heavy Trading

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market rallied sharply on all fronts Thursday despite a late sinking spell which dropped most issues from their best levels of the day.

The advance restored more than four billion dollars to stock valuations, and came on fairly heavy trading. The two-day rise on increased volume gave brokers encouragement that the rally they had been waiting for since the start of the year may be underway.

Industrials advanced 8.64 to 622.19 in their average, which added to Wednesday's 2.22 rise all but wipes out the 10.90-point loss suffered on Monday and Tuesday.

Brokers noted that Wednesday's climatic selling binge was in the order of a shakeout that helped set the stage for the current rise. The chartists also point out that for the first time in 1960 the three Dow-Jones averages advanced together in two consecutive sessions. This in itself, they believe could rekindle some new investor confidence.

Electronics scored the best gains as a group although profit-taking dropped them below their tops. IBM and Motorola jumped more than 3 each, Zenith and Beckman more than 2.

Among the 15 most active issues, 13 advanced, one declined fractionally and one held unchanged. Trading at 3,800,000 shares, was heavy by recent standards, though below the 4,210,000 shares traded on Wednesday, which was the heaviest since May 7, 1959.

Firm Finances School Buses

NEW YORK (UPI) — Some state school systems are using installment financing to help solve the problem of school bus transportation.

Pupil transportation is one of the critical problems facing the U.S. educational system. In 1929, some 1.9 million children were being carried to school at public expense. By 1958, 10.5 million youngsters were using public school transportation at a cost of $384 million annually.

School boards have been caught in the squeeze of increased transportation demands and under-financing. Each year they are required to fight harder for a slice of the tax dollars. And many are hampered by state legislation that prohibits buying school buses on an installment basis.

But some states have found a gleam of hope in a program drawn up and offered by the Divco-Wayne Sales Financial Corp., a financing organization established to spur sales for the company's Wayne Works Bus Divison in Richmond, Ind.

In Michigan, for example, where the legislature has given school boards more flexibility than in most other states, the financing group offered a solution in one area where banks were unwilling to extend long-term credit for needed buses to school boards already in debt.

After noting how much the Pinconning Area School Board was spending to maintain old equipment, the financing corporation convinced the school superintendent that it would be more economical to buy new ones.

Butter offerings moderate. Demand spotty. Receipts 513,000. Prices unchanged.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) — Rye and soybeans closed higher and other grains mostly steady Thursday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At tthe closing bell, wheat was off ¼ to up ⅜; corn off ¼ to up ⅛; oats off ¼ to up ⅛; rye off ¼ to up1⅛; soybeans up ⅜ to ¾.

Wheat futures held mostly steady after easing earlier on commission house selling. Some early selling in nearby months resulted after a government report showed farmers had placed less 1959 wheat under loan than had been expected. A fair demand for wheat came from commercial houses.

March corn encountered some selling pressure at the start, but prices closed mostly steady.

The oats market was quiet. Prices were mostly steady. A moderate commission house trade was on both sides of the market.

Soybeans resumed Wednesday's upward trend, and most contracts closed firm.

Oils were slightly higher. Meals were easy.

Heavy Snow Covers Area

Garrett County Has Up To Foot; Cumberland Gets Off With Rain

Farther west on U. S. Route 40, highway traffic ran into snarls due to the snow which was falling fast last night. Up to a foot of snow covered Garrett County.

Had the weather been slightly colder in Cumberland, six or seven inches of snow probably would have covered the city. Well over an inch of precipitation had fallen during the day and last night the rain was on the brink of being torrential at times.

Six to seven inches of snow had been dumped on the Bedford, Pa., area and highway traffic was slowed down due to the weather. No major accidents were reported. The snow was still falling in that section last night and the roads were covering up with snow soon after road crews scraped them.

Telephone service was affected in the Romney, W. Va., area due to the snow which also had effect on the radio service of the State Police at Romney. A bad storm was reported in the Elkins area, according to State Police, who said U. S. Route 50 was in bad shape.

One minor accident was reported early last night on U. S. Route 220 about two miles off Route 50 in the direction of Moorefield, W. Va. No one was reported injured seriously in the accident.

Rain Totals .61 Inch

Robert Golden, weather observer here, said that by 6 p. m. the precipitation measured .27 inches. When he made another measurement an hour and a half later an additional .34 inch had fallen, making a total of .61 inch, and it was still coming down.

He figured that if the precipitation had been snow, about six or seven inches would have covered Cumberland by that time.

By 9 p. m. yesterday nine inches of snow had fallen in Frostburg, where visibility was described as almost zero with windy weather causing slight drifts. One veteran SRC employe said he had never seen it so bad in Frostburg.

At least six inches of snow had fallen in the Oakland area, where visibility was poor. Town Hill east of Cumberland had from three to four inches of snow, but other sections east of here had hardly any snow.

Traffic Interrupted

State Police said there were traffic tie-ups on Big Savage early last night although no major accidents were reported.

One state trooper said he traveled along the streets of Cumberland which were water-soaked, and when he got to the Dingle traffic light the streets began to get slushy and this was prevalent along Braddock Road. From the Six-Mile House westward conditions on the highway were "rough," the trooper said.

Temperatures in Frostburg and the Garrett County area hovered around the freezing mark last night and it was about 36 degrees here in Cumberland.

A spokesman for the SRC said that if the snow stopped falling last night there would be little trouble in getting the highways scraped free of snow.

Highways were passable, he said, and motorists who had snow tread tires or chains had no trouble getting through.

Windy and colder weather with rain ending in the west portion of Maryland is forecast this morning, but snow flurries are expected to continue in the moun-

Car Hits Girl Alighting From School Bus

Yvonne Hardin, 11, Is Hospitalized

An 11-year-old school girl was struck by an automobile yesterday afternoon near her home in National shortly after she had stepped from a school bus and was crossing Maryland Route 36.

Yvonne Hardin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Hardin, of National, was admitted to Miners Hospital in Frostburg, where her condition last night was reported as "fair." She sustained contusions and abrasions about her body, authorities said.

State Police are continuing an investigation in the accident which occurred about 4:30 p.m.

They said the girl had alighted from the bus driven by John Kerr, who is a member of the Frostburg police department and drives a school bus as a part-time job.

She was crossing the road and was hit by a car driven by Kenneth G. Morgan, about 45, of RD 1, Frostburg.

He told police the road was slippery and when he hit his brakes the car slid. Police said the driver began passing the bus and ran into the child who was taken to the hospital by the bus driver.

The auto driven by Morgan was traveling south on Route 36, the same direction as the school bus. The little girl is a pupil at Beall Elementary School in Frostburg.

Trooper W. E. Foreman is continuing an investigation into the accident.

Dow To Remain At 'Y' Longer

Wallace E. Dow, physical director at Central YMCA, agreed at a meeting of the "Y" board last night to remain here until June 1 and return October 1, according to B. U. Smith, executive secretary.

When Mr. Dow was hired on a temporary basis last October, it was with the understanding that he would remain here only until April 15. He has a summer camp commitment in Massachusetts. However, last night he was prevailed upon to remain an additional six weeks.

In another action last night the board elected G. Louis Baker Jr., 601 Washington Street, to fill a vacancy on the board. He replaces Albert D. Kuehn, who has just been transferred by Celanese to Edmonton, Alberta, Canada. Mr. Kuehn had been named to fill the vacancy caused when William P. Hahn moved to Wheaton but was transferred before he could attend a meeting.

Mr. Baker is a safety inspector at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, is secretary of the council of St. Luke's Lutheran Church, has coached the church basketball team for four years, is advisor to the senior young people and is a Sunday School teacher.

Methodist Group To Hold Rally

The Cumberland Sub-District of the Methodist Young Adult Fellowship will hold a rally today at 7:30 p. m. at Calvary Methodist Church, Ridgeley.

Speaker will be Rev. Harold L. May, pastor of Calvary Church, and Rev. Bruce K. Price, pastor of Park Place Methodist Church, will assist with the service.

Musical selections will be sung by the Calvary choir and a solo will be sung by Rev. Louis L. Emerick, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church.

Miss Doris Day will be in charge of a recreation period after the service and Miss Ruth Spangler is program chairman.

YMCA Starts Canvass For 600 Members

Health Department Is Chief Objective

Central YMCA launched a membership enrollment canvass for 600 new members with a dinner in the Community Room last night.

A feature of last night's meeting was an announcement by Harold D. Barber, a board member, that the YMCA hopes to establish a brand-new health department within 90 days if 200 department members can be signed up during the canvass which ends March 4.

This health department will be equipped with a steam room, heat cabinet and masseur. Mr. Barber explained that this department is designed primarily for the benefit of businessmen who get little opportunity for physical activity. The nearest place that such service may now be obtained is Berkeley Springs, W. Va., which is famed for it mineral water.

In preliminary campaigning nearly 50 of the 200 health department memberships have been obtained. Leaders in this phase of the canvass besides Mr. Barber are David Sigel, Earl D. Chaney and Wallace E. Dow, the YMCA physical director.

Besides the health department members, this canvass is designed to bring into the YMCA 75 adult women members, 150 men over the age of 19, 100 partner members and 75 youths under the age of 18. Membership costs range from $3.50 for youths to $25 for health department.

Mr. Dow, who served as a roving toastmaster at the canvass dinner, pointed out that the YMCA is strongly in need of greater adult participation. Of its 1,389 members as of January 31, only 205 were adults.

A report buffet and tea is planned for Friday, February 26, when canvass participants will submit their applications for YMCA memberships. It is planned to close the canvass with a dinner at 6 p. m. Friday, March 4.

A brief candlelight ceremony ended the program last night. Participants, all members of the YMCA board, were Rev. William R. Snyder, pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran Church; Robert E. Moore, Earl M. Nonnenmann and Daniel K. Biggs.

A father and son were called upon to explain the value of the YMCA. They were Rev. Lawrence C. Butler, rector of St. George's Episcopal Church, Mt. Savage, and his young son, Crawford.

Schools Expect To Be Open Despite Weather

School officials in Allegany and Garrett counties late last night said they were watching the weather closely, and had checked with state and county roads officials to determine if roads will be passable today.

In Allegany County, some sections reported a heavy wet snow, but plows were busy and there was no drifting. At a late hour it was indicated that roads would be passable and school buses could get over their routes. If this condition did not take a turn for the worse, Ralph R. Webster, school superintendent, said all schools will have classes as usual.

In Garrett County Willard Hawkins, school superintendent, said roads crews were out and an effort was being made to keep all school bus routes open.

He expressed optimi na.ms g

He expressed optimism, and said that as long as there was no drifting, it appeared that buses could get through most areas. He added, "I have decided to make no final decision until about 5 a. m. but it appears now that there is a good chance classes will be held in all schools."

Craftsmen Council To See Movie Tonight

A film, "Introduction to the Heat Engine," will be shown at a meeting of the Universal Craftsmen Council of Engineers today at 7:30 p. m. in the Junior Order Hall on Polk Street.

James Rutledge, worthy chief of Cumberland Council 53, said the film traces the development of machines from ancient Greece to the present. The film outlines the history of the heat engine and explains the thermal efficiencies of various types.

Eugene Park, chairman of the Council's education committee, urged that members attend and suggest the type of films and subjects they would like the committee to secure for future presentation.

The Council meets on the first and third Fridays of the month.

Local Residents Watch As Surgeons Repair Heart

BALTIMORE (AP)—Surgeons repaired two holes in the heart of a 2½-year-old boy Thursday at University Hospital.

A team of 20 persons, including four surgeons, performed the operation in a brightly lit operating room. The painstaking work lasted five hours. A heart-lung machine was used so the blood could by-pass the heart during the operation.

It took two hours for the surgeons just to reach the heart. When they did, they found two holes, instead of one, between the lower chambers of the youngster's heart.

Both holes were sewed shut. Long preparation is required before the operation. The boy, born six months prematurely, was admitted to the hospital a month ago to get ready for it.

The youngster had had a heart murmur since birth. Without the operation, his overloaded heart would have endangered his life.

About 30 persons watched the real-life drama from the gallery or on closed-circuit television, as part of a special program staged by the Maryland Heart Assn. in connection with its current campaign for funds.

Half were fund drive volunteers from around the state, the others newspaper and radio reporters. There also was a series of reports from doctors during the day on heart research.

An association spokesman said it had staged an operation for an audience once before but it was the first time it had been combined with the research reports.

Dr. Robert Singleton of University Hospital was in charge of the program and provided much of the narration during the operation so the audience would understand what was happening.

Volunteers attending the program included Mrs. Ora Mae Lewis of Cumberland, executive secretary of the Allegany-Garrett County Heart Assn., and Mr. and Mrs. William H. Macy of Cumberland. Macy is a captain of heart contributions from businessmen and his wife is chairman of the Heart Sunday collection in Allegany and Garrett counties.

Tractor-Trailer Blocks Street Briefly

As he proceeded south on Mechanic Street the engine stalled and he had to use the starter to inch his way far enough out of th- way to allow traffic to pass.

The tractor-trailer was loaded with paper being shipped from the Luke mill of West Virginia Pulp and Paper to Philadelphia. The driver was delayed about 10 minutes before he finally got the motor started.

Frederick Church Tablet Honors Native Of City

Research about a memorial in All Saints Episcopal Church in Frederick has led to the discovery that the white marble tablet of the painting of "The Last Supper" was placed in the church more than 50 years ago as a memorial to a woman who was born in Cumberland nearly 112 years ago.

An article explaining the interesting facts concerning this memorial appeared in Tuesday's issue of The Frederick News. The account was written by former Judge Edward S. Delaplaine, who retired October 1, 1956, after 18 years on the Maryland Court of Appeals.

Two Cumberland residents helped Judge Delaplaine compile facts about the life of Miss Alexina Pigman, who was born here. They are Rev. H. Richardson, rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, and Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian of the Cumberland Free Public Library.

Rev. Mr. Richardson found in his parish register that Miss Pigman was born in Cumberland on April 6, 1848, and baptized in the church on June 8, 1848.

Miss Walsh discovered in a volume on "Colonial Families of the United States" available for reference at the Cumberland Free Public Library that Hanson Briscoe Pigman, the father of Miss Pigman, died before his daughter was born. He died September 8, 1847, aboard "Francis de Pau," a ship traveling from New York to Havre, France.

Mrs. Mary Shriver Pigman, mother of Alexina, was a native of Baltimore and presumably returned to that city after the birth of her last child. Judge Delaplaine writes that Miss Pigman lived for some years in Baltimore but spent her latter years in Frederick with a brother-in-law and sister, Col. and Mrs. William P. Maulsby, where she died on April 28, 1904, at the age of 56.

The large white marble tablet, made in Italy, was placed back of the Communion table by Mrs. Maulsby and Mrs. G. W. Z. Black of Jefferson County, W. Va. as a memorial to their sister, Miss Pigman. The memorial was displayed to the All Saints' congregation for the first time on Easter Sunday, April 15, 1906.

Interest in the memorial was generated by a student attending the last Episcopal Church Conference at Hood College, who was particularly impressed by the memorial.

Newest Charter Change Will Be Legal Tuesday

Street Ordinances Will Go In Soon

Cumberland's newest charter change, designed to set the stage for an ambitious street paving and resurfacing program, will become effective next Tuesday.

Only the passage of time remains to fulfill the validity of the Charter Amendment Resolution No. 14, since no petition for a referendum was filed by the deadline last Saturday, 40th day after the passage of the resolution.

The amnedments makes two major changes in existing charter provisions for paving and resurfacing of city streets.

The first gives the Mayor and Council the power to adopt a uniform fee schedule for all types of street work. Such a schedule was mandatory under previous charter provisions.

The second change provides that paving liens will be effective for 12 years, instead of the former five years.

In anticipation of the time the charter change will become effective, the Mayor and Council has prepared a number of introductory ordinances to cover streets included in the 1960 street resurfacing program.

The ordinances are expected to be introduced and adopted at the February 29 meeting of the Mayor and Council. Such ordinances set forth plans and hearing dates and set the stage for actual enabling ordinances under which the improvements will be made.

Current plans call for final ordinances to be introduced March 14. With unanimous action, they could be adopted at the same session and plans made for advertising for the resurfacing of 11 streets, including all of Fayette Street and parts of Franklin and Independence streets, Kelly Boulevard, Valley Street, Wempe Drive, Williams, Frederick, Bedford and Washington streets and Oldtown Road.

Scout Council In New Office

Potomac Council, Boy Scouts moved into its new offices yesterday at 417 North Mechanic Street.

Last Two Days To Get Tickets For Concert

Today and tomorrow will be the last two days to obtain reserved seat tickets at the Music Shop on Batlimore Street for the concert which will be presented Sunday evening at Fort Hill auditorium by the Baltimore Symphony.

No tickets will be sold Sunday until the box office at Fort Hill opens at 7:30 p. m. About 300 reserved seat tickets remain.

Will Meet Tonight

The board of directors of the Potomac Valley Dairy Herd Improvement Association will meet at the Court House here at 8 p. m. today, according to John T. Mason of Cresaptown, president.

Edsel Gainer, extension dairyman from the University of Maryland, will be the speaker, according to County Agent Joseph M. Steger.

House Passes Teacher Bill

Tawes-Backed Measure Okayed 110-8; Senate Vote Is Delayed

By LOUIS G. PANOS

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The Tawes administration's teacher pay-raise bill won final House passage by an 110-8 margin Thursday and withstood an assault by amendment in the Maryland Senate on a 22-7 test vote.

Before the Senate action Sen. William S. James (D-Harford), head of the legislative committee which drafted the proposal, broke his long public silence on the measure.

He noted that, besides providing $300 a year for each veteran teacher, the bill also provides $75 in "free money" which can be used to fatten the paychecks of teachers in the lower experience brackets.

Amendment Beaten Down

The senators then voted 22-7 against an amendment which in effect would have substituted the Maryland State Teachers Assn. pay-raise ulan for the administration measure.

This would have provided increases ranging from $363 for each teacher in Baltimore County to $672 in Calvert County and would have cost nearly four times the $4,300,000 provided in the James bill endorsed by Gov. Tawes.

Before taking final action on the teacher-pay bill, the House membership severely rebuked its leaders by rejecting two bills which would have meant higher interest rates for borrowers from small loan companies and industrial finance companies.

The bills had narrowly won the approval of the Ways and Means Committee. Among their backers were Speaker Perry O. Wilkinson (D-Balto 4th) and judiciary committee Chairman Ridgely P. Melvin Jr. (D-Anne Arundel).

Measures Buried

But after a debate during which it was observed that one of the measures would have increased borrowing charges by 60 per cent, the measures were buried beneath roll-call votes of 83-29 and 82-27. Leading opposition speakers included Dels. Charles Smelser (D-Frederick), Carlton Sickles (D-Prince Georges), Joseph D. Tydings (D-Harford) and Robert P. Cannon (D-Wicomico).

When the teacher pay bill came up for a final vote by the delegates, many who had unsuccessfully opposed it and pressed for the MSTA plan on earlier votes switched to the side of the majority.

"I realize it's not the best solution," explained Del. Edna Cook (D-Montgomery), "but I certainly don't want to be recorded as against any teacher pay raise."

Del. E. Homer White Jr. (D-Wicomico) said he, too, was falling in with the majority because the administration plan now seemed to be assured of passage and therefore was "the only way the teachers can be benefitted."

Not Final Solution

In the Senate, James tried to ease the doubts of those opposing the administration bill by explaining his committee did not recommend it as a final solution to the problem of the teacher shortage.

But until such a solution is found, he said, the committee felt that the bill increasing state aid would "offer a helping hand" to local governments. These, he said, are also "expected to make their contribution" toward solution of the problem.

Opponents gained a 24-hour delay on the final Senate vote when Sen. John Parran (D - Charles) asked for permission to offer a new amendment Friday. This means the Senate version of the bill cannot be approved and sent to the House until next week.

The senators also tentatively approved a measure to revise the amounts which employers must contribute to the unemployment compensation fund. Although the overall scale of payments is higher, it is designed to benefit employers with a relatively low rate of personnel turnover.

Also given semi-final Senate approval was a bill aimed at setting up some form of state regulation of sources of atomic radiation.

Rev. E. B. Hare To Speak Here

Pastor Eric B. Hare, associate secretary of the Sabbath School Department of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, will be the principal speaker at the 11 a.m. worship hour tomorrow at the Cumberland Seventh-day Adventist Church.

He will be accompanied by Miss Louise Meyer, assistant secretary of the Sabbath School Department. She will be in charge of a special service today at 7:30 p.m. in the local church. At the same time, Pastor Hare will be in charge of a service in the Frostburg Adventist Church.

Pastor Hare will be in charge of a worship service tomorrow at 9:30 a.m. at the local church and at the same time Miss Meyer will be in charge of a service at Frostburg.

Tomorrow afternoon beginning at 1:30 p.m. they will give special intsructions in the local church.

All Sabbath school officers in the Cumberland area are invited to attend. The Sabbath school workshop will cover all phases of the Sabbath school from the smallest children to adults.

New Industry For Oakland Seen Likely

Lumber Business Favors That Area

A new $500,000 industry in Oakland is reported as a "definite possibility," according to the board of directors of the Mountain Top Chamber of Commerce.

Last Friday night, the Chamber of Commerce there agreed to form a development corporation to help provide land and buildings for industry in the Oakland area.

The Harco Lumber Company hopes to come to Oakland to set up a complete lumber business for the purchase of logs and lumber, manufacture of furniture dimension products, provide kiln dried lumber in quantity and to utilize the entire tree in some form or another.

Would Use 2 Buildings

Associated in the new company would be the E. C. Grimm Lumber Company, Terra Alta, W. Va.; Hardwood Corporation of America, Asheville, N.C.; Bemis Lumber Company, Robinsville, N.C., and the Veach-May-Wilson Lumber Company, Alcoa, Tenn.

This operation would include two buildings. One general purpose building would be 60 by 250 feet in size. The other building, 64 by 40 and about 30 feet high, would be for kiln drying of lumber.

Employment would begin for about 15 persons and would continue at that level for two or three months. Eventually, Chamber of Commerce officials say, it would employ 150 directly and between 150 and 200 more indirectly. Equipment worth more than $500,000 eventually would be moved in, with about $100,000 of it at the start.

$75,000 From Public

The Chamber of Commerce at Oakland is planning to ask for general support from the public in raising between $75,000 and $100,000. This would be used for land purchase and building the two structures needed. An option has been obtained on 25 acres of land adjacent to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad east of Oakland. It is owned by H. Weber and Sons Company.

Mr. Grimm indicated that there were definite plans to be associated with the Luke mill of West Virginia Pulp and Paper in the expansion of its pulpwood program.

Two committees have been named by the Chamber of Commerce. One, including Frank Peters, president; Earl Zepp, vice president, and Frank McDaniel, secretary, would proceed with the details of incorporation. Another, to work with the new corporation, includes Wesley Schaible, cashier of the Garrett National Bank; Irvin Feld, owner of the H-P Stores, Inc., and Frank McDaniel, cashier of the First National Bank.

Mr. Grimm, a 45-year-old native of Terra Alta, said the new company was prepared to move in as soon as weather becomes suitable.

Rev. Dietz To Speak

A former local man who is now a minister of the Church of the Brethren will be the guest speaker Sunday at Living Stone Church of the Brethren, corner of West Second and North Cedar streets.

Rev. Connell T. Chaney, pastor of the local church, said Rev. Earl D. Dietz, will speak at services Sunday at 7:30 p. m.

A native of Cumberland, Rev. Dietz is now serving as pastor of the Sandy Creek Congregation near Brandonville, W. Va. He also is an elder of the Church of the Brethren.

Since entering the ministry, Rev. Dietz has attended Bridgewater College and Emory University. He has served as pastor of churches in five states and has held evangelistic meetings in many states.

The topic of Rev. Dietz's talk Sunday will be "What Is Right About the Church." The public is invited to attend this service.

Heavy Snow Covers Area

Garrett County Has Up To Foot; Cumberland Gets Off With Rain

Wet snow measuring up to nine inches in Frostburg caused a slowdown in highway traffic in the western end of Allegany County last night.

Farther west on U. S. Route 40, highway traffic ran into snarls due to the snow which was falling fast last night. Up to a foot of snow covered Garrett County.

Had the weather been slightly colder in Cumberland, six or seven inches of snow probably would have covered the city. Well over an inch of precipitation had fallen during the day and last night the rain was on the brink of being torrential at times.

Six to seven inches of snow had been dumped on the Bedford, Pa., area and highway traffic was slowed down due to the weather. No major accidents were reported. The snow was still falling in that section last night and the roads were covering up with snow soon after road crews scraped them.

Telephone service was affected in the Romney, W. Va., area due to the snow which also had effect on the radio service of the State Police at Romney. A bad storm was reported in the Elkins area, according to State Police, who said U. S. Route 50 was in bad shape.

One minor accident was reported early last night on U. S. Route 220 about two miles off Route 50 in the direction of Moorefield, W. Va. No one was reported injured seriously in the accident.

Rain Totals .61 Inch

Robert Golden, weather observer here, said that by 6 p. m. the precipitation measured .27 inches. When he made another measurement an hour and a half later an additional .34 inch had fallen, making a total of .61 inch, and it was still coming down.

He figured that if the precipitation had been snow, about six or seven inches would have covered Cumberland by that time.

Some 40 employes of the State Roads Commission here manned 17 trucks in Allegany County in efforts to keep the highways clear.

By 9 p. m. yesterday nine inches of snow had fallen in Frostburg, where visibility was described as almost zero with windy weather causing slight drifts. One veteran SRC employe said he had never seen it so bad in Frostburg.

At least six inches of snow had fallen in the Oakland area, where visibility was poor. Town Hill east of Cumberland had from three to four inches of snow, but other sections east of here had hardly any snow.

Traffic Interrupted

State Police said there were traffic tie-ups on Big Savage early last night although no major accidents were reported.

One state trooper said he traveled along the streets of Cumberland which were water-soaked, and when he got to the Dingle traffic light the streets began to get slushy and this was prevalent along Braddock Road. From the Six-Mile House westward conditions on the highway were "rough," the trooper said.

Temperatures in Frostburg and the Garrett County area hovered around the freezing mark last night and it was about 36 degrees here in Cumberland.

A spokesman for the SRC said that if the snow stopped falling last night there would be little trouble in getting the highways scraped free of snow.

Highways were passable, he said, and motorists who had snow tread tires or chains had no trouble getting through.

Windy and colder weather with rain ending in the west portion of Maryland is forecast this morning, but snow flurries are expected to continue in the moun-

Car Hits Girl Alighting From School Bus

Yvonne Hardin, 11, Is Hospitalized

An 11-year-old school girl was struck by an automobile yesterday afternoon near her home in National shortly after she had stepped from a school bus and was crossing Maryland Route 36.

Yvonne Hardin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Hardin, of National, was admitted to Miners Hospital in Frostburg, where her condition last night was reported as "fair." She sustained contusions and abrasions about her body, authorities said.

State Police are continuing an investigation in the accident which occurred about 4:30 p.m.

They said the girl had alighted from the bus driven by John Kerr, who is a member of the Frostburg police department and drives a school bus as a part-time job.

She was crossing the road and was hit by a car driven by Kenneth G. Morgan, about 45, of RD 1, Frostburg.

He told police the road was slippery and when he hit his brakes the car slid. Police said the driver began passing the bus and ran into the child who was taken to the hospital by the bus driver.

The auto driven by Morgan was traveling south on Route 36, the same direction as the school bus. The little girl is a pupil at Beall Elementary School in Frostburg.

Trooper W. E. Foreman is continuing an investigation into the accident.

Dow To Remain At 'Y' Longer

Wallace E. Dow, physical director at Central YMCA, agreed at a meeting of the "Y" board last night to remain here until June 1 and return October 1, according to B. U. Smith, executive secretary.

When Mr. Dow was hired on a temporary basis last October, it was with the understanding that he would remain here only until April 15. He has a summer camp commitment in Massachusetts. However, last night he was prevailed upon to remain an additional six weeks.

In another action last night the board elected G. Louis Baker Jr., 601 Washington Street, to fill a vacancy on the board. He replaces Albert D. Kuehn, who has just been transferred by Celanese to Edmonton, Alberta, Canada. Mr. Kuehn had been named to fill the vacancy caused when William P. Hahn moved to Wheaton but was transferred before he could attend a meeting.

Mr. Baker is a safety inspector at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, is secretary of the council of St. Luke's Lutheran Church, has coached the church basketball team for four years, is advisor to the senior young people and is a Sunday School teacher.

Methodist Group To Hold Rally

The Cumberland Sub-District of the Methodist Young Adult Fellowship will hold a rally today at 7:30 p. m. at Calvary Methodist Church, Ridgeley.

Speaker will be Rev. Harold L. May, pastor of Calvary Church, and Rev. Bruce K. Price, pastor of Park Place Methodist Church, will assist with the service.

Musical selections will be sung by the Calvary choir and a solo will be sung by Rev. Louis L. Emerick, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church.

Miss Doris Day will be in charge of a recreation period after the service and Miss Ruth Spangler is program chairman.

YMCA Starts Canvass For 600 Members

Health Department Is Chief Objective

Central YMCA launched a membership enrollment canvass for 600 new members with a dinner in the Community Room last night.

A feature of last night's meeting was an announcement by Harold D. Barber, a board member, that the YMCA hopes to establish a brand-new health department within 90 days if 200 department members can be signed up during the canvass which ends March 4.

This health department will be equipped with a steam room, heat cabinet and masseur. Mr. Barber explained that this department is designed primarily for the benefit of businessmen who get little opportunity for physical activity. The nearest place that such service may now be obtained is Berkeley Springs, W. Va., which is famed for it mineral water.

In preliminary campaigning nearly 50 of the 200 health department memberships have been obtained. Leaders in this phase of the canvass besides Mr. Barber are David Sigel, Earl D. Chaney and Wallace E. Dow, the YMCA physical director.

Besides the health department members, this canvass is designed to bring into the YMCA 75 adult women members, 150 men over the age of 19, 100 partner members and 75 youths under the age of 18. Membership costs range from $3.50 for youths to $25 for health department.

Mr. Dow, who served as a roving toastmaster at the canvass dinner, pointed out that the YMCA is strongly in need of greater adult participation. Of its 1,389 members as of January 31, only 205 were adults.

A report buffet and tea is planned for Friday, February 26, when canvass participants will submit their applications for YMCA memberships. It is planned to close the canvass with a dinner at 6 p. m. Friday, March 4.

A brief candlelight ceremony ended the program last night. Participants, all members of the YMCA board, were Rev. William R. Snyder, pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran Church; Robert E. Moore, Earl M. Nonnenmann and Daniel K. Biggs.

A father and son were called upon to explain the value of the YMCA. They were Rev. Lawrence C. Butler, rector of St. George's Episcopal Church, Mt. Savage, and his young son, Crawford.

Tractor-Trailer Blocks Street Briefly

A tractor-trailer stalled at the intersection of Baltimore and South Mechanic streets yesterday evening, causing a slight delay in traffic.

The driver, traveling east on Baltimore street, had stopped at the Mechanic Street intersection and waited for the light to change.

As he proceeded south on Mechanic Street the engine stalled and he had to use the starter to inch his way far enough out of th- way to allow traffic to pass.

The tractor-trailer was loaded with paper being shipped from the Luke mill of West Virginia Pulp and Paper to Philadelphia. The driver was delayed about 10 minutes before he finally got the motor started.

Frederick Church Tablet Honors Native Of City

Research about a memorial in All Saints Episcopal Church in Frederick has led to the discovery that the white marble tablet of the painting of "The Last Supper" was placed in the church more than 50 years ago as a memorial to a woman who was born in Cumberland nearly 112 years ago.

An article explaining the interesting facts concerning this memorial appeared in Tuesday's issue of The Frederick News. The account was written by former Judge Edward S. Delaplaine, who retired October 1, 1956, after 18 years on the Maryland Court of Appeals.

Two Cumberland residents helped Judge Delaplaine compile facts about the life of Miss Alexina Pigman, who was born here. They are Rev. H. Richardson, rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, and Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian of the Cumberland Free Public Library.

Rev. Mr. Richardson found in his parish register that Miss Pigman was born in Cumberland on April 6, 1848, and baptized in the church on June 8, 1848.

Miss Walsh discovered in a volume on "Colonial Families of the United States" available for reference at the Cumberland Free Public Library that Hanson Briscoe Pigman, the father of Miss Pigman, died before his daughter was born. He died September 8, 1847, aboard "Francis de Pau," a ship traveling from New York to Havre, France.

Mrs. Mary Shriver Pigman, mother of Alexina, was a native of Baltimore and presumably returned to that city after the birth of her last child. Judge Delaplaine writes that Miss Pigman lived for some years in Baltimore but spent her latter years in Frederick with a brother-in-law and sister, Col. and Mrs. William P. Maulsby, where she died on April 28, 1904, at the age of 56.

The large white marble tablet, made in Italy, was placed back of the Communion table by Mrs. Maulsby and Mrs. G. W. Z. Black of Jefferson County, W. Va. as a memorial to their sister, Miss Pigman. The memorial was displayed to the All Saints' congregation for the first time on Easter Sunday, April 15, 1906.

Interest in the memorial was generated by a student attending the last Episcopal Church Conference at Hood College, who was particularly impressed by the memorial.

Newest Charter Change Will Be Legal Tuesday

Street Ordinances Will Go In Soon

Cumberland's newest charter change, designed to set the stage for an ambitious street paving and resurfacing program, will become effective next Tuesday.

Only the passage of time remains to fulfill the validity of the Charter Amendment Resolution No. 14, since no petition for a referendum was filed by the deadline last Saturday, 40th day after the passage of the resolution.

The amnedments makes two major changes in existing charter provisions for paving and resurfacing of city streets.

The first gives the Mayor and Council the power to adopt a uniform fee schedule for all types of street work. Such a schedule was mandatory under previous charter provisions.

The second change provides that paving liens will be effective for 12 years, instead of the former five years.

In anticipation of the time the charter change will become effective, the Mayor and Council has prepared a number of introductory ordinances to cover streets included in the 1960 street resurfacing program.

The ordinances are expected to be introduced and adopted at the February 29 meeting of the Mayor and Council. Such ordinances set forth plans and hearing dates and set the stage for actual enabling ordinances under which the improvements will be made.

Current plans call for final ordinances to be introduced March 14. With unanimous action, they could be adopted at the same session and plans made for advertising for the resurfacing of 11 streets, including all of Fayette Street and parts of Franklin and Independence streets, Kelly Boulevard, Valley Street, Wempe Drive, Williams, Frederick, Bedford and Washington streets and Oldtown Road.

Edsel Gainer, extension dairyman from the University of Maryland, will be the speaker, according to County Agent Joseph M. Steger.

House Passes Teacher Bill

Tawes-Backed Measure Okayed 110-8; Senate Vote Is Delayed

By LOUIS G. PANOS

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The Tawes administration's teacher pay-raise bill won final House passage by an 110-8 margin Thursday and withstood an assault by amendment in the Maryland Senate on a 22-7 test vote.

Before the Senate action Sen. William S. James (D-Harford), head of the legislative committee which drafted the proposal, broke his long public silence on the measure.

He noted that, besides providing $300 a year for each veteran teacher, the bill also provides $75 in "free money" which can be used to fatten the paychecks of teachers in the lower experience brackets.

Amendment Beaten Down

The senators then voted 22-7 against an amendment which in effect would have substituted the Maryland State Teachers Assn. pay-raise ulan for the administration measure.

This would have provided increases ranging from $363 for each teacher in Baltimore County to $672 in Calvert County and would have cost nearly four times the $4,300,000 provided in the James bill endorsed by Gov. Tawes.

Before taking final action on the teacher-pay bill, the House membership severely rebuked its leaders by rejecting two bills which would have meant higher interest rates for borrowers from small loan companies and industrial finance companies.

The bills had narrowly won the approval of the Ways and Means Committee. Among their backers were Speaker Perry O. Wilkinson (D-Balto 4th) and judiciary committee Chairman Ridgely P. Melvin Jr. (D-Anne Arundel).

Measures Buried

But after a debate during which it was observed that one of the measures would have increased borrowing charges by 60 per cent, the measures were buried beneath roll-call votes of 83-29 and 82-27. Leading opposition speakers included Dels. Charles Smelser (D-Frederick), Carlton Sickles (D-Prince Georges), Joseph D. Tydings (D-Harford) and Robert P. Cannon (D-Wicomico).

When the teacher pay bill came up for a final vote by the delegates, many who had unsuccessfully opposed it and pressed for the MSTA plan on earlier votes switched to the side of the majority.

"I realize it's not the best solution," explained Del. Edna Cook (D-Montgomery), "but I certainly don't want to be recorded as against any teacher pay raise."

Del. E. Homer White Jr. (D-Wicomico) said he, too, was falling in with the majority because the administration plan now seemed to be assured of passage and therefore was "the only way the teachers can be benefitted."

Not Final Solution

In the Senate, James tried to ease the doubts of those opposing the administration bill by explaining his committee did not recommend it as a final solution to the problem of the teacher shortage.

But until such a solution is found, he said, the committee felt that the bill increasing state aid would "offer a helping hand" to local governments. These, he said, are also "expected to make their contribution" toward solution of the problem.

Opponents gained a 24-hour delay on the final Senate vote when Sen. John Parran (D - Charles) asked for permission to offer a new amendment Friday. This means the Senate version of the bill cannot be approved and sent to the House until next week.

The senators also tentatively approved a measure to revise the amounts which employers must contribute to the unemployment compensation fund. Although the overall scale of payments is higher, it is designed to benefit employers with a relatively low rate of personnel turnover.

Lumber Business Favors That Area

A new $500,000 industry in Oakland is reported as a "definite possibility," according to the board of directors of the Mountain Top Chamber of Commerce.

Last Friday night, the Chamber of Commerce there agreed to form a development corporation to help provide land and buildings for industry in the Oakland area.

The Harco Lumber Company hopes to come to Oakland to set up a complete lumber business for the purchase of logs and lumber, manufacture of furniture dimension products, provide kiln dried lumber in quantity and to utilize the entire tree in some form or another.

Would Use 2 Buildings

Associated in the new company would be the E. C. Grimm Lumber Company, Terra Alta, W. Va.; Hardwood Corporation of America, Asheville, N.C.; Bemis Lumber Company, Robinsville, N.C., and the Veach-May-Wilson Lumber Company, Alcoa, Tenn.

This operation would include two buildings. One general purpose building would be 60 by 250 feet in size. The other building, 64 by 40 and about 30 feet high, would be for kiln drying of lumber.

Employment would begin for about 15 persons and would continue at that level for two or three months. Eventually, Chamber of Commerce officials say, it would employ 150 directly and between 150 and 200 more indirectly. Equipment worth more than $500,000 eventually would be moved in, with about $100,000 of it at the start.

$75,000 From Public

The Chamber of Commerce at Oakland is planning to ask for general support from the public in raising between $75,000 and $100,000. This would be used for land purchase and building the two structures needed. An option has been obtained on 25 acres of land adjacent to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad east of Oakland. It is owned by H. Weber and Sons Company.

Mr. Grimm indicated that there were definite plans to be associated with the Luke mill of West Virginia Pulp and Paper in the expansion of its pulpwood program.

Two committees have been named by the Chamber of Commerce. One, including Frank Peters, president; Earl Zepp, vice president, and Frank McDaniel, secretary, would proceed with the details of incorporation. Another, to work with the new corporation, includes Wesley Schaible, cashier of the Garrett National Bank; Irvin Feld, owner of the H-P Stores, Inc., and Frank McDaniel, cashier of the First National Bank.

Mr. Grimm, a 45-year-old native of Terra Alta, said the new company was prepared to move in as soon as weather becomes suitable.

Rev. Dietz To Speak

A former local man who is now a minister of the Church of the Brethren will be the guest speaker Sunday at Living Stone Church of the Brethren, corner of West Second and North Cedar streets.

Rev. Connell T. Chaney, pastor of the local church, said Rev. Earl D. Dietz, will speak at services Sunday at 7:30 p. m.

A native of Cumberland, Rev. Dietz is now serving as pastor of the Sandy Creek Congregation near Brandonville, W. Va. He also is an elder of the Church of the Brethren.

Since entering the ministry, Rev. Dietz has attended Bridgewater College and Emory University. He has served as pastor of churches in five states and has held evangelistic meetings in many states.

The topic of Rev. Dietz's talk Sunday will be "What Is Right About the Church." The public is invited to attend this service.
